Federation Meeting.

The Federated clubs of Asheville will be much interested in the meeting next week in Stateville of the mid-winter council of the North Carolina Federation of Women's clubs. The Stateville Landmark says: "Delegates to the council of the North Carolina Federation of Women's clubs are expected to arrive in Stateville on Tuesday, January 26. The Commercial club has kindly offered the use of its rooms for the meetings a favor which is highly appreciated by the ladies, as the rooms are admirably suited for the purpose.

The council will convene at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the club rooms. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock at the same place—to the visitors only. There will be an afternoon session followed by a complimentary reception at 5 o'clock, given by the D. A. R.'s at the residence of Mrs. C. V. Henkel.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock a public meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Methodist Sunday school. There will be several addresses by prominent visiting club women, whose names will be given later, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Thursday morning another session of the council will be held. In the afternoon there will take place the reciprocity day exercises for the eleventh district. This district is composed of the towns of Salisbury, Statesville, Morganton and Lenoir, and representatives from all the federated clubs of these towns are expected to be present. All club women who are interested are invited to these exercises. Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the MacDowell club will give a cantata, also at the auditorium of the Methodist Sunday school. Attendance at this will be by invitation. This will be followed by a reception at the club rooms, given by the hostesses to the visitors and all the literary clubs of Statesville. Friday morning a session of the council will be held for the transaction of any unfinished business.

The presence of so many workers who are giving of their time and effort to the upbuilding of our state along many lines of endeavor will be an inspiration to all the women of the community and an interesting and profitable season is anticipated.

Mrs. Morris Officiates.

Mrs. Roland Sletor Morris, of Philadelphia, formerly Miss Augusta Shippen West, of Asheville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead West, was charmingly spoken of by one of the Philadelphia papers in connection with a fashionable gathering at the Keen House dance opening. Her many friends in Asheville and relatives here will be interested in the following:

"The second story of the Wister mansion seemed all too small last Monday afternoon for Mrs. Keen's opening, or rather, 'private view.' Although her 'The Dancers' was given to the patronesses, such was the interest in the affair that the place was crowded. The patronesses danced with their sons' friends, quite as much as did their daughters, at least Mrs. Robert Emott Hare did—you know she was Miss Gullion, and that in itself was a spectacle worthy of respectful attention. Besides the Hare clan there were present Miss Ruth Cox, Miss Jean Biddell, Miss Mary Frances Fisher, Mrs. Henry K. Dillard, Mrs. Harry Thayer, the Otto Mallerys, Miss Maria Gilpin, Alfred Barton and Miss Genevieve Gibbs; indeed, all the devotees of the dance who were in search for keen excitement—excuse the pun. Every afternoon since then Mrs. Keen has had some well-known woman to pour tea. On Thursday, for instance, it was Mrs. Roland S. Morris who officiated with utmost grace at the samovar, and I could not help feeling that the place soon might be too small to hold the smart crowd that will rush to this recherche establishment. By the way, let me remark upon the delicious biscuits that were served on her opening day, and between the flaky crusts of these a delicate slice—was it a slice? or was it a mere breath—of old Virginia ham that imparted the faint flavor to the mouthful which a Frenchman would have called a 'bouchee.'"

D. A. R. Meeting.

The next meeting of the D. A. R., Edward Buncome chapter, is scheduled, according to the year book, to meet with Mrs. T. S. Morrison, at her home on Pearson drive, on January 28. "The Unfortunates" will be the subject of the occasion. This chapter which was organized at Asheville October 12, 1903, is one of the leading organizations of the city. The D. A. R. ritual, which is beautifully and impressively used, is as follows:

Daughters, we meet to honor the memory of our ancestors, to renew our pledge of loyalty to our country and our flag and to emphasize the privilege and duty of patriotism.

Chaplain: O! give thanks unto the Lord; call upon His name, make known His deeds among the people.

In Thy name shall they rejoice all the days, and in Thy righteousness shall they be exalted.

Chaplain: The Heaven, even the Heavens, are the Lord's.

But the earth has He given to the children of men.

The Lord will give strength unto His people. The Lord will bless His people with peace.

Whereas thou hast been forsaken and hated, I will make thee an eternal excellency, a joy of many generations.

Misses Redmon Entertain.

A pretty and enjoyable social event of the week was given by the Misses Redmon in honor of their brother, Sergeant H. E. Redmon, from Panama. Delightful refreshments were served during the evening. Among those present were: Mrs. Millholland, Mrs. Byerly, Misses Myra and Ruth Reed, Misses Donna and Fannie Jones, Misses Monnie and Bonnie Warren, Misses Jessie and Josie Brown, Miss Kate Creamman, Miss Myrtle Wilson, Miss Margaret Smith, Miss Cora Hyman, Miss Sallie Rooper, Miss Emma Marquardt, Miss Minnie Redmon, Miss Frances Redmon, Sergeant Redmon, Sergeant Honny, Corporal Hall, Corporal Penland, Mr. Johnson, Goram Lowe, Rudolph Marquardt, Carl Bean, Jessie Bean, James Raper, Solan Hall, Charles Hayes, Roy McKinney, Clyde Morgan, Riley Hicks, Lee Garrison, Floyd Hogan, Charlie Rogers, James and Nebraska Redmon.

Dr. S. Westray Battle has received the information from Belgium that his daughter, Mrs. Mortimer Hancock formerly Miss Madelon Battle of Asheville, who is engaged in Red Cross work in the Belgian Field hospital, has been requested by the Belgian Field hospital officials to lecture in the United States in the cause of this institution. Mrs. Hancock, who is the wife of Major Hancock of the British Royal Fusiliers, who is now stationed in Egypt, has been wonderfully active in her work as Red Cross nurse. Instead of accepting, the invitation to lecture at the present time, Mrs. Hancock has sent the following to Dr. Battle for publication:

"Will you permit me, by request of the committee, to make an appeal through your columns on behalf of the Belgian Field hospital?"

"The hospital was established in Antwerp through the kind offices of the queen of the Belgians in the first week of September, 1914, and remained there until the evacuation of the city by the allies. In spite of tremendous difficulties and very considerable danger, the staff succeeded in safely removing every one of the wounded in the hospital to Ghent, Bruges and Ostend.

"About the middle of October the hospital was re-established at Furnes in that small part of Belgium still held against the enemy. Since then and during the heavy fighting which has taken place in Flanders the number of cases treated has been at the rate of about 500 a fortnight, most of them serious ones.

"The heroic services rendered by the brave Belgian army to the cause of the allies need hardly be described. They held the German forces in check while England and France were bringing up their troops; after they defeated Belgium stubbornly; after the retreat from Antwerp they reformed and commenced to fight again with the same unconquerable valor. Our hospital is practically the only one which can render immediate and experienced aid on a large scale to the Belgian army. Our position is unique—we have the promise of the Belgian authorities that whenever the Belgian army goes we shall follow and that we shall always be 'within sound of the guns.' Most of the serious cases—and there are only too many of them—must be skillfully treated within twelve hours of the wound being received, or else no treatment is of any use. Thanks to our special privileges and our near proximity (about five miles) to the firing line we can treat these wounded men and in very many cases save lives which would otherwise be lost. But to do this to maintain the present efficiency of the hospital and to increase the scope of its work when the enemy is driven further back we must have money and plenty of it. As an American woman who has been a nurse at the hospital since September, I ask my fellow countrymen and country women to help us. We Americans have the reputation of being a generous nation and I am sure that my appeal will not be in vain. We want a million dollars and we want it now. By giving to us you will be helping the wounded in the most direct and useful way possible, not one cent of your money will be wasted, and you will know that you have furnished us with the means of saving the lives of numbers of brave Belgian soldiers who would have died if we had not been able to attend to them at once. I need hardly add that though primarily intended for Belgian wounded, the hospital treats those of any nationality.

"Don't hesitate, 'bis dat qui cito dat,' so please send your contributions now to "W. S. Baillie Hamilton, Esq., Secretary, Belgian Field hospital, 21 Suffolk street, Pall Mall, London, England.

(Signed) "Yours truly, "MADELONE BATTLE HANCOCK, "Mrs. Mortimer Hancock, Nurses Staff, Belgian Field hospital," January 3, 1915.

Representatives of The Carolina Prisoners' Aid society have in the last little while visited this city. Many of the most prominent women of Asheville, elderly women who for many years have stood at the head of the philanthropic organizations of this city, are deeply interested in this greatly needed reform. The following is advocated by the society:

"That our prison camps and county chain-gangs shall be made reformatory in the true sense of the word.

"That every penny that a prisoner earns above the cost of maintenance and cost to the state or county which is incurred for official supervision, be paid to his wife and family or any that were dependent upon him previous to arrest.

"That The Carolina Prisoners' Aid society will provide for prisoners' children until that law is passed if destitute."
