CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL TOPICS

Extraordinary Conditions Faced by Social and Charity
Workers Causes Early Announcement.

STRESS AMONG POOR
IS MOST SEVERE NOW

Important Discussions on Dis-arrangements of Society and Methods of Relief—Conference at Baltimore.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—The unusual conditions which social and charity workers face as a result of the European war prompted the early announcement yesterday of arrangements for National Conference of Charities and Correction, although the meeting is still more than three months off. The conference will be held in Baltimore May 12 to 19.

The preliminary program points out that this meeting will be the most important in the 42 years history of the organization, and probably one of the largest and most important conferences of the kind ever held in America, owing to the fact that social and charity workers throughout the entire United States are having to face this winter, more serious questions in relation to the relief of destitution, unemployment, care of children, public sanitation and kindred problems, many of which are incident to industrial conditions caused by the European war.

"These workers," says Secretary William T. Cross, "as well as public officials and those private citizens who contribute money and time to the support of charitable and social agencies, are feeling the necessity of getting together to discuss ways and means that the resources of the country may be made to go as far as possible in the alleviation and prevention of suffering at home."

One of the most important discussions will be opened by Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago, who will present a report on "Outdoor Relief in the United States with the Consideration of Some of the Lessons to be Drawn from European Experiences." The same subject with especial reference to the rural sections of the country will be discussed by Amos W. Butler of Indianapolis, Ind.

In view of the extraordinary disarrangements of social relations all over the world during the year 1915, the section of the Conference on the Family and the Community assumed immediate importance and the topic "Maintaining Standards of Work in Times of Stress" is proposed by the American Association of Societies for Organizing Charity, which will hold its annual sessions jointly with the National Conference. Miss Mary E. Richmond of the Russell Sage Foundation will open the question of "Case Work Fundamental in Social effort."

The fact that large numbers of immigrant women have come to America following every recent war has prompted the section on Social Hygiene to choose the general topic "How Shall We Prevent Prostitution?" Among the speakers will be Dr. Katherine B. Davis, commissioner of Correction in New York City, and Mr. C. Christens, secretary of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children of Boston.

HOUSE FAILS TO OVER-RIDE VETO

Washington, Feb. 5.—The attempt to pass the immigration bill with its literacy test provision, over the veto of the president failed in the house late yesterday. The vote was 241 in favor of over-riding the veto, and 135 against it. Two members voted present, and with this attendance 266 votes would have been necessary to give the necessary two-thirds.

Just two years ago yesterday, the house failed to repeal the immigration bill over the veto of President Taft, who also opposed the literacy test.

Debate on the motion to over-ride President Wilson's veto began when the house met under an agreement for five hours and twenty minutes talk. Representative Burnett, and Gardner, led the forces in favor of the measure and Representatives Moore and Sabath headed the opponents.

Majority Leader Underwood vigorously dissented from the president's position that the bill had not been given popular approval because it never had been placed before the people as a national issue.

The vetoed bill passed the senate just a year ago yesterday by a vote of 239 to 146. Yesterday's vote showed a gain of 32 votes for it and a loss of four votes from the opposition strength.

The 261 votes for passing the bill over the veto were cast as follows: Democrats, 186; republicans 75; progressives and progressive-republicans 16; independent 1.

Against the bill the vote was: Democrats 101; "insurgent" Democrat 1; republicans 32; progressive and progressive-republicans 2.

President's Taft and Cleveland vetoed similar measures and attempts to over-ride them failed.

SENATOR CHAMBERLAIN.

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, some time ago received from Secretary of War Garrison his indorsement of another of the senator's bills designed to increase the efficiency of the military establishment of the United States. Secretary Garrison indorsed Senator Chamberlain's bill providing for an increase of coast artillery.
