

SPECIAL EVENINGS

For Misses Simpson and Moore. Miss Mary Hamilton, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hamilton, will entertain this evening at her home, Ardmon house, in Ardmon park with a ball in honor of her house guests, Miss Maud Simpson of Fort Gaines, Ga., and Miss Annette Moore of Lynchburg, Va. The young ladies are college friends of Miss Hamilton, Miss Simpson being a graduate of Notre Dame, the college recently attended by their young hostess. Miss Hamilton's home lends itself particularly well to a large function such as that of this evening as the location on the mountain side and three large galleries overlooking the city make it a spot of charm and beauty. The ball room in Ardmon house is a spacious affair to which is given the greater part of the third floor of this handsome granite residence. In the ball room white and green will be used in the decorations and throughout the lower floor scarlet Mexican sars will be used. Miss Austin's orchestra will furnish the music. The orchestra will be stationed in the ante-room adjoining the ball room where also punch will be served. Presiding at the punch bowl will be Mrs. Henry T. Bartlett of Montgomery who is spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. George H. Smathers at her home on Montford avenue. During the evening a delicious salad course and an ice course will be served. Other delightful entertainments are planned for Miss Hamilton's guests later in the week.

Many of the tired, ugly wrinkles in a woman's face comes from her not knowing how to rest. You will find that the successful business woman, the successful actress or the successful society woman, is the woman who works as hard as possible when she works and relaxes entirely and rests when she grows tired. These women invariably wear loose gowns and go corsetless when they are at home. This does not mean that they are ugly, slouchy looking women—in fact, most of them look prettier in their home gowns, in which they have probably carried out their own ideas of original dressing, than they do when they are seen on the street garbed in conventional fashion. No woman should attempt to lie down with her corset on; she only tires a new set of muscles and frazzles her nerves trying to keep tense by doing so. There are beautiful one-piece gowns of Greek, empire or oriental design that are most beautiful and they really give distinction to the woman who wears them in her own home. With a loose gown, you can rest and relax. If you are tired and nervous, there is nothing that will iron out the tense lines like lying on your stomach for a little while. If possible, select a soft divan or bed and then drop down on your stomach and "let go." Try to feel that the bed is holding you; let every muscle sag. Close your eyes and simply stop thinking. You will probably find this rather hard at first but after a while you can take this reposeful relaxation at any time of the day that you need it. Try it. You will find if, after a hard day, you lie on your stomach for a half hour and empty your mind of any annoying thought then arise and bathe your face and neck with cold water, you will be surprisingly refreshed, besides looking like a young girl after an afternoon nap.

"THE AFFINITIES," MUSICAL COMEDY To Be Presented at the Auditorium by Local Talent Under the Direction of the Miss Burkhlimer. The local chapter of U. D. C. have been very fortunate in securing the Misses Burkhlimer to present one of their delightful plays here for a benefit. The Misses Burkhlimer are the authors of three musical comedies and have presented them in all the large cities throughout the state with marked success. "The Affinities" is considered their best play, so they have decided to give that in Asheville. This play has been presented in Charlotte, Raleigh, Durham, Rocky Mount, Wilmington and other cities and has played to packed houses, a second performance being demanded. "The Affinities" is a musical comedy in three acts with one of the cleverest plots that can be found. There are twenty musical numbers, consisting of many Broadway hits, exquisite dances, attractive choruses and magnificent costumes and stage settings. A committee from the U. D. C. are now inviting the young people to take part, dramatic artists, singers and dancers are requested to take the parts in the play, Asheville has splendid talent, and there is no doubt that "The Affinities" will be presented here on as magnificent and large scale as in other cities. About two hundred people will appear in the choruses which are: Blue-Birds, Texas Tommy Dancers, Rain-bow chorus, Wood-Nymphs, Debutants, Sweethearts, Mexican Chorus, Soffragettes, Tennis Chorus. Also solo dances, and ball-room dances. The first rehearsal is called this evening at 8:30 at the Y. M. C. A. The leading parts will be assigned, and those for the special dances, and choruses selected. The management extends an invitation to visitors in the city who have appeared elsewhere in "The Affinities" to assist in the Asheville production. It is the desire of the management to make this production of "The Affinities" the best yet. "The Affinities" will be the dramatic and social event of the summer season. Advt-11
