

TANLAC CHASES IDEA THAT SHE COULDN'T LIVE

Many Medicines Failed Her—Now Healthy and Happy. FEELS IT A DUTY TO SPREAD RELIEF

Another strong endorsement to the superlative merits of Tanlac is offered by Mrs. E. M. Kilpatrick, of 211 Patton avenue.

"If it wasn't for Tanlac I doubt if I would be living today," firmly said this woman to the Tanlac Man, who daily explains the merits of the Master Medicine at Tenace & Gates—"On the Square." "I realize my statement is strong but its strength may better be appreciated when I explain that Tanlac wrought a change in my condition after other medicines had failed to bring me relief and I had been told that I could not live.

"I suffered from a nervous breakdown the result of stomach ills of long standing. I felt as if the morning huge feeling very tired and it was a struggle for me to pull myself around the house. I was nervous and my talk was affected by a nervous twitching of the mouth. I slept but little and my appetite was very poor.

"I saw Tanlac advertised. My husband and I agreed that the good people whose names were used would not consent to their public endorsement unless they really had been helped. Three days after I started on the treatment. I felt the changes being worked by Tanlac. At the end of a week my appetite had returned. I have finished taking four bottles and feel entirely well now.

"I am grateful for my relief and feel it a duty to let other know of this good Tanlac has done for me, and which I believe it will do for others."

Mrs. Kilpatrick's experience is typical of many others in this state and other states in the union. Countless men and women, representing all walks of life, have acclaimed Tanlac the "reconstructive, tonic—appetizer and invigorant—ideal."

Its merits are explained daily by the Tanlac Man at Tenace & Gates—"On the Square." There he meets the public, tells how Tanlac should be taken and the results that may be expected from its use.—Adv.

FLY CAMPAIGN TO BE STARTED SOON

City Officials to Pass Law for Owners of Horses and Cows to Register.

REGISTRATION FREE.

In This Manner Inspectors Can Watch Stables For Breeding Flies.

That the city commissioners will soon enact an ordinance requiring all owners of horses and cows in the city to register the names of the owners and locations of the stables in order that the campaign against flies in this city can be started in a way that will mean much to the city, is the statement made by a city official today.

According to a city official the bill that is now being framed for introduction before the city board, will be similar to one requiring washerwomen to register with the health department before they can take in washing. There will be no charge for the registering and a free license will be issued allowing the owner to keep his horse or cow in the city limits.

Breed in Stables.

It is believed that by doing this and starting the campaign against flies within the next few weeks, on an active scale, that Asheville will be free of flies during the summer months. Flies breed in stables, as everyone who has studied the matter well knows, and the health department thinks that if every stable where a horse or cow is kept is listed with the department and an inspector can make regular visits to these stables to see that they are kept reasonably clean, that the fly campaign here this spring and summer will be comparably an easy problem to solve.

Every year for the past several years a campaign against "the pesky things" has been waged by the city health department, but, as stated, great trouble has been experienced in locating stables and in making inspections, and often the owners move the stables and the inspectors have trouble learning of the changes.

Important Step.

This ordinance which the board will be asked to enact will be the most important step in the way of preparedness against illness and an unsanitary city that has been taken in many years, according to a city official.

The campaign will be waged here more thoroughly this spring and summer than ever before, the officials say, and as Asheville already has a reputation as a "flyless" city, it is believed that the work of this year will place the city far in the lead of any American municipality in the fight on the fly.

Provisions will be made in the ordinance for penalties to be imposed for arrests and convictions of violators of the ordinance it is stated, and it is the plan of the officials to see that people of the city who are affected by the law obey it, believing as they do that it will be one of the best laws upon the books of the city code.

CATHEY BOND IS PAID TO CLERK

Gov. Withdraws Requisition Papers and George is "Banned" From State.

INTERESTING CASE.

Cathey Must Still Serve 29 Months on Roads if He Ever Returns Here.

Following delays, rumors of all kinds and two trips to West Virginia by Sheriff E. M. Mitchell, it seems that the George Cathey case is about to be settled, for the time being at least, for at 3:15 o'clock yesterday Homer Cathey paid to Clerk John H. Cathey of Superior court, $2200 for the bond that was declared forfeited several days ago by Judge W. F. Harding in Superior court here.

As a result of this action Governor Locke Craig will withdraw the requisition papers he issued several weeks ago for the return of George Cathey here from Welch, W. Va.

Upon the payment of the bond here yesterday by Homer Cathey the power of attorney issued to Sheriff Mitchell by Mr. Stevens, one of Cathey's bondsmen here, becomes void and Sheriff Mitchell will return to Asheville from Welch at once, for without the power of attorney or requisition papers he is powerless to bring the prisoner back here.

The paying of the bond here, which goes into the county school fund, does not mean that the cases are finally settled, for George Cathey will still have to serve 29 months on the county roads for violation of the liquor laws if he ever returns here. His "banishment" is for no specific number of years.

RAILWAYS PROPOSE RATE INCREASES

Associated Companies Announce Higher Rates for Carolinas and Virginia.

EFFECTIVE APRIL 1.

Western Carolina Lumbermen's Ass'n Will Probably Ask For Suspension.

Western North Carolina Lumbermen are up in arms and it is possible that within the next few days they will fire a gun at their ancient enemy, the Railways, the projectile being in the form of a protest to the Interstate Commerce commission asking that body to suspend the operation of Shipment No. 15 to the Southern classification of freight rates. Note No. 4 of this document constitutes the latest disturbance of friendly relations between the shippers of lumber and its products and the transportation companies. This paper, recently issued and effective April 1, materially increases, it is stated, the classification and the rates on building material, lumber and the products thereof. The provisions apply to the territory of the Associated Railways, namely, the Carolinas and Virginia.

When seen at his office this morning, George L. Forester, secretary and traffic manager of the Western Carolina Lumber and Timber association, was in a frame of mind for which righteous indignation would be a mild term. The official rate expert of the association outlined the situation as above given and added illuminating comment. It is well known, said Mr. Forester, that the whole question of rates and classifications is in process of nation-wide investigation by the interstate commission; and the lumbermen, therefore, were justified in expecting that no changes would be proposed by any of the carriers pending a decision of the commission. The Washington commission sent out months ago a list of 17 questions to be answered by the lumbermen and a hearing is expected to be conducted in Chicago at an early date for the final determination of the question of the justice of proposed and existing rates and regulations.

Big Increases.

There are no figures available at present as to the amount of the increase in the new shipment No. 15, but it is plain, said the secretary, that they will add much to the cost of placing lumber on the market.

The organization of lumbermen in this territory has waged many battles with the common carriers over the question of proper remuneration for the railways for their services and it is evident that the present attempt of the Associated Railways to secure more revenue from the lumber industry will not be successful without a vigorous protest from the association which has headquarters here.

Complaints that have often been a bone of contention were apparently awaiting the adjudication of the court of last resort, the new tariff has aroused considerable opposition among the lumbermen. The dealers and manufacturers in local territory hope that the commission will suspend the schedule proposed for April 1. In that event it is probable that the Chicago hearing will settle the entire controversy, as to rates, and classifications.

after midnight yesterday morning in his room at the hotel and was the least sore of the defeated ones. Mr. Duncan made no excuses and laughed his associates into a good humor.

Not all of them can take the drubbing gracefully. They remember that Mr. Morehead voted his solid delegation for Mr. Duncan when Meeklenburg was called and that Mr. Morehead agreed to go "to the ditch" with Mr. Duncan. But they cannot forget that when Mr. Morehead reached the ditch Mr. Duncan went in and Mr. Morehead came back with the habiliments that Duncan had worn.

Mr. Duncan had been on the stand and made his speech in which he declared that wherever he and Mr. Butler were known in North Carolina he was willing to accept the popular verdict. The national committee did not ask Morehead to repudiate his selection as national committeeman. The Duncan proposition was to allow that obstreperous convention to say openly whether it chose Butler over Duncan. He asked for a roll call on his name alone and if he did not get a majority of the votes he would abide the result.

Mr. Morehead replied that it was asking too much of him to drag his own friends into support of Mr. Duncan in his controversy with Mr. Butler. But the Duncan men did not think that necessary. They merely wanted to force an issue between the two contestants and the Butler men were too wise to let it come up.

Wronged Old Man Cy.

The convention wronged Old Man Cy Thompson. He is admitted the best speaking asset of the party, vastly Butler's superior as debater and infinitely more clever in the use of humor and satire. Dr. Thompson was not allowed to speak worth a cent. He made a few tries until he quit. Senator Butler sat on the platform and never wavered his hand in disapproval of the ill-mannered treatment of his old friend.

But Old Man Cy helped to restore order when Senator Butler took the platform. A. L. McCaskill had the floor. Butler was working with the platform committee and the convention had committed itself to the eight-delegate proposal. M. Bernard ran out and told Butler what was going on. McCaskill was on the floor shouting picturesque invectives at Duncan and filibustering until somebody more resourceful and better able to interpret what was happening could get there. McCaskill had declared that he would never run for congress with "that d—d scoundrel as national committeeman." It was a momentous issue.

Senator Butler came dashing in. The convention did not know what was happening. It had shown that by its vote on the eight-delegate proposition. McCaskill was causing Duncan as national committeeman, while Butler was to show the subtle relation between eight delegates and the national committee. McCaskill had been beaten 1,900 to 3.

GARY FORTUNE TO JOIN PHILLIES SAT.

Leaves Saturday For Spring Camp of Moran's Men at St. Petersburg, Florida.

Gary Fortune, Asheville's one best let when it comes to pitching the national game, will leave here next Saturday afternoon for St. Petersburg, Fla., where he goes to join the spring training camp of the Philadelphia Nationals, for the early workout.

Pat Moran and his Phillies are now gathering in the spring camp and by next week, it is expected that the entire aggregation, including veterans, colts, babies and all will be there and the work of weeding out those who are unable to stand the pace will begin.

Fortune was sold to the Phillies by the Asheville club last season, after rumors had gone up and down the North Carolina league for several weeks that this and that club was after him. That he will make good in the big show his many friends here fully believe, for he seems to have everything that goes to make up a great pitcher; youth, ambition, speed, curves, staying qualities and a good head.

He got his first baseball training on the back lots of Asheville and in the city schools, being the pitching wonder of the High school here when he was on the team. He pitched for Weaver-ville and created a sensation there by his excellent work. When he joined the Mountaineers two years ago he was almost a beardless youth, but he at once made good and has been a mainstay of the local team. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fortune of No. 45 Bartlett street and is well known in the city. His father is a leading member of the Asheville bar.

COUPLE MARRIED IN POLICE COURT

Charges Dismissed When the Preacher Performs Ceremony—Other Cases.

At the suggestion of the court Claud Cannon and Lula Radford, arranged in the Police court yesterday on charges of an immoral nature, were married in the court room and the charges were dismissed. It was necessary that the money for the marriage license be raised by persons in the court room, as Cannon stated he was financially embarrassed, and this was done.

After the license was secured it occurred to someone that a preacher or a justice of the peace should be present to perform the ceremony and Rev. Mr. Morgan was found in the court room and he married the couple.

Nothing else happened during the proceedings of the court yesterday, other than the trial of a few minor cases, one "drunk" being up. In all five new cases were before the court.

'KING' KELLY ARRANGING THE HOPEWELL TEAM

Popular Manager Will Have Charge of Virginia League Team This Year.

Rocky Mount, March 2.—Emerging from a sick bed and a two weeks' attack of grip, Manager George W. Kelley, "King," as he is more familiarly known, when seen by a Virginia league sportswriter at his home in Raleigh, talked optimistically of his club and expressed a belief that there was a great season ahead of the Virginia league. Manager Kelley, though kept indoors by a near-attack of pneumonia, has been losing no time in getting his Maric City club together. In building the nucleus of the reserve of the Virginia league orphans, he has drawn upon the best amateurs of the country and has borrowed and purchased from the majors and fast minor league clubs until at this time he has practically completed the line-up of the team with which he will start the season.

Manager Kelley declared his purpose to start training about April 1, and to have from twenty to twenty-five men in the Hopewell squad. The "old fox" no sooner connected with the managerial job than he secured the services of "Red" Rowe, last season's manager with Greensboro, in the Carolina league. Rowe will hold the job of field captain of the club and is to be relied upon to do the major part of the catching. As an understudy for him comes Claude Tillery, a Louisville, Ky., amateur, who comes highly recommended. Francisco of last year's club is held on the reserve list, but to date has not returned his contract, being one of the holdouts.

For the mound, Manager Kelley has secured George Mohart of Greensboro (Carolina league) fame last season; J. C. Battle, a pitcher belonging to Pat Moran of the Philadelphia National league champions, who will season in the Virginia league a year; Clyde Marks, of the Huntington, W. Va., club in the Iron Mountain league, the past season, and Pat Dougherty, secured from the Hamilton club in the Canadian league. Added to this staff of flingers are the regulars of last year's club brought over on the reserve list, these being Pooray, Richmond and Hirsch, all of whom are pitchers that rank up well with the class of the league. All have accepted terms.

At first, Jim Barnette of last year's club will be relied upon and he has already accepted terms, while Donovan of 1915 fame in this circuit is ready to report for an infield position. Peter Dameron, a Rochester, N. Y., amateur, will make a try for third base. The outer garden of the Hopewell club will be a strong one of the terrors of the league. Jack Cates, the Raleigh boy who played last season with Charleston in the South Atlantic league will play right field and be an understudy on the pitching job. Lee Corroll, another Raleigh boy, who played last season with Columbia on the South Atlantic and who is now coaching the A. & M. college team, will play left field while Tom McCabe of the Wisconsin league the past year, is a candidate for center. In addition to these, Simmons, regarded as one of the best base runners in the league last season, a fast fielder and a consistent hitter, is held on the reserve, but to date has not signed his contract.

MR. BUTLER NOT AGENT OF TEDDY, TELEGRAM SAID

son, J. S. Lewis and Thomas Settle of the national delegation at large and left to the great party which was composed of anti-Butler and anti-Duncan patriots the job of selecting Congressman Lirt for the fourth delegate, adjourning the convention. If that doesn't make the clear-cut issue "Butler" and the trimmings, then these delighted democrats here in the state department do not know what party control is. Even the platform with its "causality of another democratic administration" taxes of Butler literature.

The Best Issue.

One of these democrats tells an interesting story of Ike Meekins. The defeat of Duncan went hard with Meekins. One of the state officials said to him: "Ike, you radicals have today given the democrats the best issue that they have had, Butler. It is better than the nigger, for years ago occasionally the democrats would blunder into giving a nigger an office and when we attacked you, you could make some sort of a come-back. But there is no come-back when you say 'Butler.'"

To republicans who aren't bitterly partisan and really took only a voter's interest in the convention, this is the most desperate phase of the coming campaign. Mr. Butler's allies would be greatly embarrassed if they could see the size of the victory that the former senator has won. They do not see how any fair-minded man can claim a Butler victory. They admit that if Morehead had stepped down and given Duncan a roll call between himself and Butler for national committeeman or party control, that Butler would have been beaten worse than his enemy was. "Mr. Butler was an asset in the fight on Mr. Duncan," one of the Roosevelt republicans and anti-Duncan delegates said. "He was one of us and that is all."

Sore on Morehead.

National Committeeman Duncan entertained his friends until shortly
