

WINSTON-SALEM ALDERMAN FINDS AID IN TANLAC

Twin City Political Leader and Business Man is Grateful for Relief.

DAUGHTER GAINS HAPPINESS ALSO

Alderman R. H. Sheldon, of Winston-Salem, in appreciation of the relief brought by Tanlac, offers endorsement of its superlative merits.

His long and successful career as a furniture dealer and choice by the voters of the Third Ward, that city, make him known to and liked by men, women and children of Winston-Salem.

When he said: "I believe others should know what Tanlac has done for me," he meant his daughter and himself, for she also had been helped by Tanlac.

Mr. Sheldon realizes that Tanlac is a proprietary medicine and, like many others who have given praise to the Master Medicine, for gains from its use, he does so with the firm belief and hope that those who suffer will gain relief.

For a long time Alderman Sheldon suffered from stomach ills and catarrh. His symptoms were lack of appetite, sleep and energy. Constant mucus flows caused him to hawk frequently to free his throat from that nasty and ill smelling viscid fluid. At different times he would be further annoyed by vomiting that resulted from the severe hawking.

"After a while of this I was generally rundown," he explained to the Tanlac Man. "Friends recommended Tanlac. It worked for them and it worked for me."

The glow of health that shone from his smiling face evidenced his words: "I have no indigestion trouble now, I sleep well and the catarrh is much improved."

"My daughter, who suffered from indigestion, has been aided too, by Tanlac," he said in conclusion.

"In many states," commented Mr. Truman—North Carolina distributor for Tanlac—"Tanlac has brought relief to countless men and women representing all walks of life. Its adaptation to the needs of the stomach make it a help to both young and old. It is an ideal Spring tonic."

The merits of Tanlac are explained daily at Teague and Gates—"On the Square" by the Tanlac Man.—Adv.

KAISER OPPOSES BREAK WITH U.S.

Dispatches Indicate That Emperor Does Not Agree With Von Tirpitz Faction on Submarine Policy.

QUESTION MAY BE RAISED IN REICHSTAG

Believed That Debate Might Cause Harsh Criticism of United States If the Issue Is Raised.

Washington, March 17.—Emperor William's determination not to provoke a break with the United States through the new German submarine campaign, even though it involves a factional contest in the reichstag, having already brought about the downfall of Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz, was indicated in the late dispatches from Berlin.

The tone of the dispatches from the German capital, though guarded and veiled, is taken emperor, Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, Foreign Minister Von Jagow and the army, who have been opposing the plans of Admiral Von Tirpitz to carry on the submarine campaigns to the merciless destruction of all neutral shipping to enemy ports. Showing the decision of the emperor and his supporters to reject a submarine policy which was practically certain to bring about a break in the diplomatic relations with the United States, if not actual war, the developments are regarded as a potent augury for the peaceful solution of the situation with Germany.

The passing of the Berlin dispatches by the German censor are regarded as showing the desire of the German foreign office to prepare the American people for such a contest in the reichstag as was recently seen in congress between two factions over the armed ships issue. It is believed that the contest may result probably in harsh attacks on the United States and on the German government itself by the Von Tirpitz element.

Koonce Misses Man. Chief C. E. Koonce and R. D. Godwin, who paid a hurried visit to one Charles Davis of Orange county, whom Mr. Godwin accused of stealing a Maxwell automobile, have come back without their man, who overwhelmed them with the guns owned by the whole family.

Davis came here last week, and Mr. Godwin says he presented a check for the machine. The check was signed by W. C. Williams and was good. When it reached the Chapel Hill bank it proved a forgery, the story goes. Tuesday the chief and the machine owner went to Orange to arrest Davis. The automobile, stripped and apparently built for dray work—perhaps blockade still business—was found after being tracked from Chapel Hill, and while they were getting search and seizure papers the machine was watched. That settled, the arrest of the men was next in order. "You have read dime novels," Chief Koonce said, "but you haven't had a finer touch of the melodramatic." (Chief Koonce sells Shakespeare sets occasionally). "When we started toward the house the whole family armed and defied us, telling us as they came in sight I raised up. He saw me cussed and fired pointblank at me. I fired twice in return. He ran back and there was no way to get him. They said he was crippled. It is a great mistake.

"Seeing there was no way to get him, we returned to Raleigh, bringing back the automobile. This spot, mind you, is less than five miles from Chapel Hill. I did not believe that in our civilization any such people existed. For that very reason we went there totally unprepared for any such war as we entered. These Davis fellows were walking arsenals. We had nobody with us, except Mr. Williams, a deputy of Carboro."

The chief declares that he had no trouble until the formal reading of the indictment. The brothers were in bed but when they heard the charge against Charles they bounded out and "presented arms," several arms so to speak. The boys threatened to kill the officers who had no chance against the desperate bunch who have a reputation for blockading and other crimes.

Chief Koonce still thinks there is a chance to take Mr. Davis if the administration in Orange or Raleigh believes sufficiently in preparedness.

In next Sunday's issue of the Tampa Tribune will appear a story in regard to the good roads in western North Carolina, the material being furnished by the Asheville board of trade.
