2 COUNTY OFFICES NOW FIREPROOF

Clerk's and Registrar's Offices Have Fire-Proof Vaults for Valuable Records of the County

In the discussion of a proposed annex to the county court house, in order to preserve the records of the county offices, it develops that two of the most important offices in the court house have absolutely fireproof rooms which to keep their records.

The exceedingly high cost of material and labor at this time would keep many citizens from favoring a plan to build an annex to the court house, which, it is believed, to all apparent purposes is fully serving the needs of the county.
