American Chronology. Remarkable Events.

1825. In January this year, Wool was imported into the United States from Great Britain, which was the first instance of the kind for two centuries. On the 4th of March, Mr. Adams. in the presence of the Senate, House of Representatives, Heads of Departments, Foreign Ministers, and a numerous assemblage of citizens and strangers, took the oath prescribed by the Constitution, and entered upon the duties of President of the U.

- On the second day after the inauguration, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Henry Clay, as Secretary of State, Richard Rush, of Pennsylvania, as Secretary of the Treasury, and James Barbour, of Virginia, as Secretary of War.

This year was remarkable for the spirit of speculation, which manifested itself throughout the United States, and ended in the embarrassment and ruin of thousands.

- On the 5th of December was commenced the first session of the nineteenth Congress. Soon after it was opened, bills were introduced into both Houses, for amending the Constitution, respecting the election of the Executive. The design was to prevent the election from devolving on the House of Representatives.

- Another subject which occupied the attention of Congress, was the accepsend Commissioners to the Congress of South American nations at Paname; and the nomination of Richard C. Anderson, of Virginia, and John Sergeant, of Pennsylvania, as ministers on the part of the United States, and William B. Rochester, of New York, as Secretary. After a protracted and animated debate, these nominations were confirmed, and the necessary appropriations made.

- On the 17th of June, was celebra. the the 50th anniversary of the battle of Bunker's Hill. An oration was delivered on the spot by the Hon. Daniel Webster, and the corner stone of the "Bunker Hill Monument" laid by Gen. Lafayette, who soon after, departed for France, in the U State frigate Brandywine, after the farewell address of the President.

- From January to July, 276 new Post Offices were established.

During the debate in Congress relative to the Panama mission, Mr. John Randolph, of Roanoke, took occasion to stigmatize Mr. Clay, for his vote in the Presidential election, in such terms, as to cause Mr. Clay to demand an explanation of the offensive epithets, which was refused by Mr. Randolph. On the 8th of April, 1826, a meeting took place between them, and after two ineffectual fires, resulted in a reconciliation of the parties.

- During this session a bill was introduced, making provision for the surviving officers of the Revolution. After an animated discussion, it was virtually lost by a vote of 90 to 85.

On the 22d of May, the first session of the 19th Congress closed; though it was long, but little of public interest was accomplished.

- The spring of this year, was noted for very extraordinary freshets in the Western waters. It exceeded any thing ever witnessed by the oldest citizens; while the damage done to plantations, houses, towns and whole neighborhoods, was almost incalculable.

- On the 4th of July this year, oc. Independence; and the day was rendered memorable, by the death of the ex-Presidents Adams and Jefferson; the only Presidents who had signed the Declaration of Independence; this they had done just fifty years previous. In their deaths, there was a remarkable and striking coincidence. The last words of Mr. Adams, "Independence now and forever more;" those of Jefferson, "I commend my soul to God, and my daughter to my country."*

- The American minister at the Court of St. James, concluded a convention this year, with the British Government: by which, certain American citizens were indemnified for injuries done them, during and Roger Brooke Taney, Attorney Genthe late war.

1827. Condy Raguet, the American charge d'affairs to the Brazillian Government, conceiving that his representations in behalf of his countrymen were totally disregarded, in an honest zeal for the honor and interests of his country, without waiting for instructions, terminated his official functions, and Hemanded his passports. The Brazilians aware of their error, apologized-to the American Governrail, and solicited the appointment of another charge, premising to make ample compensation for past injuries: in compliange with which request, William Tudor. was appointed to succeed Mr. Raguet.

During this year, the Indians of the Winnebago tribe, murdered several whites, and showed other indications of a menacing character; the militia of Illinois king an oath to support the Constitution of and Michigan and seven hundred regulars. were despatched against them; they were overawed by their presence, and delivered up their murderers, when the army was disbanded without the shedding of blood. 1828. During this year, but little of public interest occurred. The session of Con. gress passed over without the occurrence of any thing remarkable, except the new Tariff bill, which finally passed the Senate on the 13th of May, after having engaged the attention of that body for several weeks. It was this bill that gave rise to the disturban- States, which continued in session until the ces which afterwards took place in the South. The design of the bill seemed to Congress. be to protect Northern Manufactures, and this caused the South to have to pay higher for many articles of merchandize, than Southampton, Virginia, headed by a negro forgotten, and the world and its harsh verthey otherwise would have done. - The people were this year, called

Of FRIENDS OF THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE! to you those principles and measures it remains and will we make a most carnest appeal-while thousands | continue an ardeut, inflexible supporter. It advocates a Retrenchment of the National Expenditures, a Limitation of Executive Patronage and Sway, a rigid regard to Principle in removals from any Worth in Appointments to Office, Moderation in the exercise of Power, and a primary regard in all things to the wishes and welfare of the People

The Log Cabin is published every Saturday, and contains—on the first page, a condensed account of the most important Debates in Congress and other Political matter of general interest; on the orn part of Virginia, and the Eastern port of Ten- second, Editorial strictures on National policy and proposed or pending Political measures, with a summary of Elections, State Legislations, &c.; on the third page, Domestic and Foreign News, carefully condensed and lucidly presented; on the fourth page, literary and miscellaneous readings, extracts from New Works, &c., generally of a solid and practical character. Very few Advertisements will at any time be admitted.

All the numbers of the Log Cabin from the commencement of the present Series will be forwarded to new subscribers who desire them. They contain the President's and Governor's Messages, the Official returns by States and counties of the late Election for President compared with those of 1836; a summary of the Debates in Congress, and such other matter which is deemed worthy of preservation. The size of the paper is not inconvenient for binding.

The Los Canix in published every Saturday morning on a fair royal sheet, and regularly mailed to subscribers by Friday's mails. It is compactly filled with interesting and instructive matter-and intended to be nowise inferior in interest and value to most of its more extended cotemporaries. It is afforded to subscribers at $150 for the whole year, four copies for five dollars, or ten copies for Ich dollars. To those who wish no back numbers, it will be sent from this time forth for $1.25 a single copy, or five for five dollars. Subscriptions are respectfully solicited by
