The Columbia left Liverpool on Wednesday, 4th inst., at noon, and when off Holy. head it commenced blowing hard, and it continued very boisterous until she reached the banks of Newfoundland and on the evening of Monday, the 3th inst., it occasioned serious alarm to many of the passengers. During that tempest, her bow. sprit was carried away; but the vessel sustained no other injury.

The arrival of another overland mail from India with not the least news from China, created great astonishment and gave rise to many conjectures as to the reason of such an unusual occurrence.

Great alarm was felt at one time for the crops in Great Britain, which, it was supposed, would be entirely destroyed by the continued wet weather; but recent accounts state that the crops now promise well in most quarters.

By the Columbia, we learn that the intelligence taken out by the Britannia respecting McLeod had created a great deal of alarm amongst the friends of peace; and at the Stock Exchange Consols immediately fell, in consequence of the decision of the Supreme Court not to liberate McLeod.

A complete list of the members of the new Parliament gives 292 Liberals and 358 Tories, making together 660. But this does not agree with other accounts-the Morning Post claims a Tory gain of 82 .-But the Spectator shows a gain of 78 to the Tories and 38 Liberals—giving a balance of 40, and counting 80 on a division to the Tories.

FIVE DAYS LATER FROM CHINA .- By the arrival of the ship Eben Preble, Capt. Hallette, we have dates from Canton to the 1st of May, being five days later.

They are still important. The emperor is breathing war and extermination against the English. He has issued several edicts, in which he declares his intention to drive the English from Canton, as well as from England too .- The Tea trade is in the same state as at last dates. The British forces had made no new movement. The British merchants have censured Commodore Elliott, because he permitted the Americans to go up to Canton and trade.

LAND, Ho !- We have unmixed satisfaction in informing our readers that the bill providing for the Distribution among the States of the proceeds of the sales of the Public Lands, and for a general permanent pre-emption right of actual settlers on the Public Lands, was at length yesterday ordered to a third reading in the Senate, by a majority of six votes; and will undoubtedly finally pass that body.

Previous to the passage of the bill to a third reading, yesterday, it underwent an amendment, which seemed to be necessary to satisfy the scruples of those who conceived the bill to conflict with the spirit of the compromise act of 1833; the effect of which amendment is, that in case of any duty being hereafter imposed upon the importation of any article beyond continued, and shall be resumed when that duty shall cease.

This provision met with grave objections from some friends to the principle of the bill, and its adoption must be considered as a concession for the sake of harmony, such as men associated in a great and good cause must make, when necessary.

Nothing can exceed the patience, perseverance, and wariness with which the whigs of the Senate have sustained this bill through many days of trying and exhausting contest, during which the yeas and nays on proposed amendments, &c. have been taen about eighty times.

The amendment which has been made to the bill requires concurrence by the House of Representatives, after which the the President to become a law .- National Intelligencer, August 24.

THE NEW BANK BILL,-It will be seen by reference to the Congressional news of Monday, that the House of Representatives, nothing disheartened by the failure of one bill for the establishment of a Fiscal Agent, have gone seriously to work and passed another. We have no room to-day to publish it entire, and must content ourselves with stating the leading particulars in which it differs from the Fiscal Bank bill, heretofore passed by both Houses, and disapprov.

ed by the President, viz: 1. The capital of the former bill was to extend it to fifty millions. In the new bill it is to be twenty-one millions, with power to extend it to thirty-five millions.

2. The former bill provided for offices of discount and deposite. In this there are to be agencies only.

3. The dealings of the Corporation are to be confined to buying and selling foreign bills of exchange, including bills drawn in one State or Territory and payable in another. There are to be no loans, or what is generally understood by "discounts," 4. The title of the Corporation is to be

These are the differences between the leading features of the two bills. The title of the bill is "An act to provide for the collection, safe-keeping, and disoursement of the public revenue, by means of a corporation to be styled the Fiscal Corporation of the United States."

The bill has gone to the Senate, where its success is confidently predicted.

We know very little about banking, but it does seem to us that this bill cannot answer any valuable purpose.

Before regulating the Currency, it is neessary that we should have a Currency, which this bill does not give us. If ever so efficacious as a Regulator, its virtues will be lost, because there is nothing to regulate. -Raleigh Register.

AN UGLY QUESTION.—In the House of Representatives a few days ago, one Mr. Payne, from Alabama, made a most furious speech against the proposed National Bank-denouncing it as unconstitutional, inexpedient, and fraught with all kinds of mischief. After he had concluded, Mr. Morgan, of New York, arose, and asked him whether he had not, whilst a member Rt: Hon. Henry Colbourn-Secretary of the Alabama Legislature, voted to instruct the Senators of that State, and request the Representatives to use their exertions for the establishment of a National Bank. with a capital of one bundred millions of dollars? Mr. Payne answered not a word. - Wilmington Chron.

They have, we presume given the President their honest advice, and he has received it respectfully and kindly; and if he feels bound by his own constitutional opinion to decide against it, we do not see that such a decision affords any ground for resignation. The power of approving and disapproving bills, is one which is peculiarly attached to the office of PRES-IDENT, and is hardly an Administration matter. As we intimated vesterday, the President may, upon any question, take the advice of his Cabinet, but he is under no legal obligation to follow it. According to our old fashioned notions, we should no more insist upon any right in the cabinet to control the President in a matter so exclusively his own, than we should of embracing the other heresy, to which we also adverted yesterday, which would make the President responsible for every act done by any of the Heads of Departments, &c.

THE MESSENGER

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1841.

To Correspondents .- Several communications were received some time since, and laid over in consequence of the necessary absence of the Editors. Among them printed. was the meteorological table, furnished by Dr. J. E. Cosson, of Jonesborough, Tenn. be thirty millions of dollars, with power to for July last. This, with other communications, would have appeared much sooner but for the fact stated above.

OF Two articles which we find on our table, directed to the Messenger, we have concluded to reserve for the Temperaune Advocate. The writer will accept our thanks, and no doubt appreciate our mo-

Congress.

The passage of the Land Bill into a Law will, we are inclined to think, give general satisfaction among the friends of justice and equal rights, throughout the country. The provisions of the Bill, were unquestionally founded in justice, but we have doubted, and still doubt, the propriety of their taking effect until the national debt created by he last administration had been paid.

The new Bank Bill, will, in all probbility, pass the Senate, and receive the sinature of the President. But, with the Raleigh Register, we cannot for our lives, see the necessity of a regulator of our currency, when we have no currency or at least, nothing that deserves the name.

We notice that in a number of our exchange papers, the editors excuse the want of editorial by saying that they are gone, have been, or are going to Campmeetings. If that were a lawful excuse, our paper would have no editorials for a month to come, as one editor goes to Campmeetings and the other to Courts, as they have done for the month last past.

n memory of Sarah Stradley, who departed this life 16th June, 1840, in her eighteenth year. Sweet fall the showers on Sarah's grave, Sweet sigh the zephyrs o'er her head, Sweet hang the weeping willow's leaves, That shade her cold and silent bed.

Sweet to a mother's thropping breast The thought of days long since gone by But sweeter still the hope of rest Where parted friends are ever nigh.

Sweet to a father's aching heart The promise of a heavenly home. Where dearest friends shall never part And sighing grief can never come Sweet to a brother's tearful eyes The tokens of a sister's love-Love-chaste and pure, that never dies, But lives and reigns in realms above.

Sweet does a mourning sister find The thought of childhood's peaceful days When those now gone were here and kind In all their words, in all their ways.

But sweeter far will be that place Where sin and death are felt no more, Where Jesus shows his smiling face, And sorrows, cares and fears are o'er.
