

FOR THE " MESSENGER." Dirge,

On the Death of John M. Greenlee. The fewerish toils of life are past, Its pagenotry can please no more? The silent bourn is mached at last,-The solemn funeral rite is o'er !

Reat undisturbed, then wearled one ! No morrow's down shall bid they wake ; The labor of life's clay is done-Death's long, long night of slumber take!

Rest ! rest ? close by the side of her, The unitsed on carth, now found in Heaven-Till HE who burst the separateres Shall bid its postals dark be riven !

a non shall thy dust rise from its bed, And put immortal garments on-The price of blood on Calvary shed, To save the soul by sin undone ! G. Z. ADAMS.

November 22, 1849.

Elizabeth hard to please.

I do not like a man that's tall ; A man that's little is worse than all. I much abhor a man that's fat ; A man that's lean is worse than that. A young man is a constant pert. An old one would my rooms infest. I do not hic a man that's fair; A man that's black I cannot bear; A man of sense I could not rule, And from my heart I hate a fool. A subset man I will not take— A drunken man my heart would break ; All these I do sincerely hate, And yet I love the marriage state.

The work is put at this price that its circula-tion may be the greater ; but it will be at onco perceived that the publisher cannot risk a comencement until a sufficient number of subscribers shall be obtained to cover expenses. IIT As soon as five hundred responsible sub-scribers shall be secured, the first number will be scribers shall be secured, the first number will be issued, at which time the payment for the first volume will be considered in advance. When subscribers receive that number, they will forward the amount of their subscription immediately, and will take the publication of that pumber as a guarantee that the magazine will be issued for at least one year. This arrangement will secure both parties.

Who can doubt that North Carolina needs such a magazine ? Who can doubt whether there be not more than sufficient talent in our State at leisure to fill its peges with profitable and entertain-ing matter ? Who will not risk two pollars on an expariment so well worth making? We shall listen for a reply, and expect a hearty response. Let no one wait to see how it will appear; for such a course may prevent the publication entire. ly; but let every one friendly to the work try it for a YEAR, and then, if it be not worth taking, let him abandon it. We want the names of all who will subscribe, by the first of January next, or earlier, if practi-cable. Postmasters every where, will no doubt take pleasure in forwarding them, as they are authorised to do, free of postage. . . . Postmasters and others, who will become responsible for five subscriptions, shall receive a copy for one year. All communications to be addressed, post paid, THOS. J. LEMAY.
