Hoe out your Row.

THE FARMER'S SONG. You've a hard row to hoe, noble knight of the soc But to toil in the earth is the mandate of God : And if by the sweat of your brow you must win Your bread, it is time, it is time to begin;

Then go to, go,
If your bread by the sweat of your brow you must win,

Hoe out your row.

In the rough row before you, though rugged the 'Twill repay in due season the culturer's toil; Though wild grass and weeds so profusely abound Perseverance and patience will mellow the ground; Apply the hoe,

Perseverance and patience will mellow the ground; Hoe out your row. Though the young tender plant is now feeble and

Let not faith in the promise of harvest time fail ; Nor deem you are tired as a motive to stop, If you would be sure of a plentiful crop; Your progress, though slow, If you would be sure of a plentiful crop-

Hoe out your row. Let it never be said that you flagged on the way, Or that idly you turned from your labor to play; Nor heed wind nor weather, nor yet burning sun But go ahead manfully till you have done;

Quick wield the hoc. And go ahead manufully till you have done— Hoe out your r.w.

I admit that your row is peculiarly hard, But bountiful heaven insures your reward; I own it is long-but believe me, my friend, If you hold on your way you will come to the end; With certainty know, If you hold on your way you will come to the end; Hoe out your row.

When done, you may rest; while with pride and with joy, You behold the result of your useful employ, And reflect that e'en toil hath a blessing and charm; It nerves the free spirit, adds strength to the arm ; Then speed the hoe,-

With invincible spirit and vigorous arms, Hoe out your row. Bold Yeoman, proceed! and when finish'd your task. You then may presume heaven's blessing to ask And the Author of Nature will graciously smile On FIRM PERSEVERANCE and VIRTUOUS TOIL; Then go, man, go, With FIRM PERSEVERANCE and VIRTUOUS TOIL,

HOE OUT YOUR ROW

Every Soul knows its own bitter-There is many a brow that wears a smile,

Above a heart of care. And many a laughing eye conseals The writhings of despair

We would not that the world should see The bosom's dur's recess : We would not that the world should know

Its utter loneliness. In vain we seek in solitude, The calmness of repose, In vain we court the silent groves, Neglectful of our woes, Grief still must hover o'er the soul And we must yet endure Misfortune, that no charm can heal, No human art may cure.

His limbs were long and loose. His hair was of a reddish tinge, cumbed loosely over the forehead and at the sides, and tied behind. His complexion was high and sandy. His forchead rather high and broad; his eyebrows long and straight; his cheek bones high; his face broad beneath his eyes, his chin long and his mouth large. His dress was a black coat and light underclothes. He had no polish of manners, but a simplicity and sobriety of deportment. He was quiet and unobtrusive, and yet a stranger would perceive that he was in the presence of one who was not a common man. His manner of conversation was calm and deliberate, deference, and as though he measured what the other to - Collins. he said by some standard of self-complacency. ANECDOTE OF AN TRISH SWEEP .- Some yéars ago an effort was made to collect all the chimney sweepers in the city of Dublin for the purpose of education. Among others came a little fellow, who was asked if he knew his letters. "O, yes;" was the reply.

"Do you spell!"

"O, yes;" was again the answer. "Do vorread!"

" () yes,

"And what book did you learn from?" "O, I never had a book in my life sir." " And who was your schoolmaster!"

"O, I never was at school." Here was a singular case, a boy could read and spell without a book or a master. But what was the fact? Why, another little sweep, a little older than himself, had taught him to read by showing him the let- the Subscriber, at Duntonsville P. An Escape.

The Newbern, N. C. Chronicle of Nov. 30, contains a statement, which is a striking illustration of the remark that truth is stranger than fiction. About four months ago there came into Wayne county, N. C., a young man of the name of Grimsley, who formerly lived there, but who had been absent for many years. Shortly after his return, he engaged himself to a Miss Martin turn, he engaged himself to a Miss Martin of that county, and their marriage was to stock, will make their assortment complete. have taken place on the 24th of last month. Four or five days previous to that time, Miss and requiring some paper for the lining. whilst in search of it, she found a newspaper published two years ago in Mississip. pi. In cutting up this paper, her eye lit men charged with a murder in that State whom she was about to be married. That this discovery gave the young lady rather an unpleasant surprise, will readily be imagined. She immediately called her brothers attention to it, who at once called upon Grimsley for an explanation. Grimsley denied knowing any thing about it, and said he could prove that he was not in Mississippi at the time of the murder, by persons at Snow Hill Greene county. The brother accompanied him to Snow Hill, but on their arriving there not a soul knew him. He then said that he could establish his invillage in the same county. There they also repaired, and with like success, no one knowing any thing of him. They then returned to Waynesborough, where a warrant was issued against Grimsley, and he is now in jail at that place, awaiting the demand of the Governor of Mississippi .-Since his confinement, he has acknowledged that he was present when the murder was committed, with which he is charged in the advertisement as a participant, but denies that he was engaged in it. He at first, it will be observed, denied that he was in Mississippi at the time; and his after admissions of previous falsehood make his case look very suspicious. The moral of all this is, that young ladies should not only be particular in their enquiries relative to aspirants for their hands, but should be sure to read the newspapers. It is part of every lady's duty to insist that the male members of families in which they reside, should be liberal patrons of the printer .-
