It will be recollected that we published a com unication in November last from Mr. W. C. rs on the subject of the manufacture of Su-from Corn Stalks. The letter below from the same source further explains the process, and more fully describes the mill used for extracting the juice from the stalk:

CALEDONIA, Henry county, Tenn., March 24, 1843.

Dear Sir: I have received various letters ask ing information about the construction of Mr. Vaughan's Mill for making Sugar from Corn Stalks, the manner of cultivating the corn, process of manufacture, &c. To save trouble of future inquiries I send you this communication, which you will oblige me by inserting in the Ban-

The mill is composed of two upright rollers, one 58 inches in length, the other 46, which are secured by a strong frame 8 feet long, 3 feet wide and 30 inches high; 17 cogs on one roller work. and 30 inches high; 17 cogs on one rout.

in an equal number of cogs in the other, and are moved by a sweep; the short roller has a body 24 inches long, 20 inches diameter, a neck piece at the inacted in the frame 8 inches long, 10 inches diameter, a cog space immediately under the top neck 6 inches long, and 174 inches diame-ter and a neck piece at bottom 8 inches long, 10 inches diameter, making its entire length 46 inches. The long roller is of the same dimensions, with similar body neck piece and cog ricces, with the exception that 12 inches are added to the top neck of the long roller for the insertion of

In grinding, the stalks are passed by hand be tween the rollers, and the juice is squeezed out on their passage. If not sufficiently pressed out on their first passage they are returned their first passage they are returned a second time between the rollers. The juice is caught by the bottom piece of the frame, which is 3 feet wide like a platform and sloping on one side so as to make it run out into a vessel placed there for the purpose.

After the juice is obtained, it ought not to stand more than an hour for fear of fermentation. It is then placed over the fire and as it begins to boil the placed over the fire and as it begins to boil carefully skimmed. When builing the be rapidly removed as it rises.

If some of the syrup can be taken between the thumb and finger and when moderately cool a thread half inch or inch long can be drawn, it is thought boiled sufficient. If you wish only to make syrup it is not boiled quite so much. To make it grain into sugar a few spoonsfull of limewater has been recommended.

water has been recommended.

The only fixtures used by Mr. Vaughan in boiling were a common ten gallon pot and three other pots about the same size. The process is neither intricate or tedious. Corn standing in the field may be cut, ground up and converted into an ele-gant syrup in three or four hours.

From the foregoing description it will be seen that the principle upon which the mill is construct-ed is the same as that of Mr. Webb's of Dela-Cultivator for 1842, with the exception of the Cultivator for 1842, with the exception of the dumb returner or third roller, which is not found in Mr. Vaughn's mill.—The process of boiling and manufacture is the same. Neither the plan of the mill or process is now; mills of a similar description have been used by planters in the lower part of Georgia for making sugar and modern the mills was from sugar cape for the mast. lasses for family use from sugar cane for the past twenty years.—To Mr. Webb of Delaware, is, however, due the great credit of substituting Corn stalks for canes.

Is it profitable? is a frequent question. Mr. Vaughan thinks he can make sixty gallons of moasses per acre which at present prices retailing in this neighborhood would yield a profit of 25 or

When the manufacture becomes comm the West, such is our unbounded capacity for making compor course the profits would be nomi-nal. But if only made for family use it will be a great saving and become when we get in the a great saving and become when we get in the way of making plenty of molasses, an actival blessing to children and Negroes. Three days are sufficient to grind up and make 60 gallons of molasses and the work will come on at a season when the time can be easily spared. The refuse juice is alone valuable for making a most grateful beer and good vinegar.

As to making sugar, Mr. Vaughan failed in the last year but will plant 15 acres the present spring and "try again." The supposed causes of his failure I gave you in my communication of Octo.

are I gave you in my communication of O

ber last.

The corn I had like to have forgotten to mention, is the common sort of corn, planted and cut in the same manner as my corn, with the exception of removing the shoots as they appear. Mr. Vaughan cut his corn as the fodder began to ripen, at which time he thought the juice would be most apt to be matured; of course he stripped off the fodder before he cut it. Cost of Mill $6.

BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENT .- The following extract is taken from an address delivered at Urbany, to the Free Masons by John A. Bryan, Esq., the present Ass't. Post Master General: "A mothers love! How thrilling the

Oh how faithfully does memory cling to the past mementoes of parents. home to remined us of the sweet counsels of a mother's tongue. And oh! how instinctively do we hang over the early scenes of boyhood, brightened by the recollections of that waking eye that never closed while a single wave of misfortune or danger sighed around her child. despair.
The charished object of her affection has risen to manhood's years, and exchanged the sportive morn of being for the busy and Stirring adventures of the world; and yet, wherever he may wander, to whatever clime or country inclination or duty invite his wayward steps—whether facing the wintry storm or buffeting the mountain snow—the undying prayer of a mother's love lingers on his path, and sheds its holiest incense on its billows."

PERILS OF OUR GALLANT NAVY .- Within little more than a year, we have lost two fine sloops of war, the Peacock and the Concord, the captain, purser, and one sea-man of the latter drowned. The Flying Fish, tender to the exploring squadron, has never been heard from. The Saratoga, a new sloop, was recently dismasted, and only saved with all her crew, by extraordinary scamanship on the part of her officers. The Vincennes, sloop of war, has recently been ashore in the West Indies. Commodere Hull, Captain John Gallugher, and Commanders Ralph, Vorhees and Bercam, have been dropped from the roll of our little navy by the command of Him who ends all'

The Cincinnati Sun estimates the amount of property lost by accidents to steamboats on the western waters, within the last two months, at $250,000. A list is given of fourteen boats that have been snagged.

INGENIOUS L. . ENTION .- A Washington correspondent of the New York Aurora thus describes an invention which is now in operation in the former city:

There has been lately constructed at the national arsenal here a contrivance for testing the strength of powder by the recoil of heavy ordnance and the momentum of the shot, which is truly admirable in its way. I will try to convey to you some idea of this valuable invention A thirty-two pounder is suspended by an iron pendulum ten or twelve feet long, at the top of which is a heavy bar of the same metal, the extremities of which rest upon smooth iron plates, which are sustained by strong abutments of stone. Underneath the gun is placed a segment of a circle, regularly graduted, upon which a piece of iron slides, the upper part coming in contact with the gun.

When the cannon is discharged, this piece of metal is pushed, by the recoil, along the scale, and indicates exactly the extent of the vibration of the pendulum. Opposite the above, at the distance of about sixty feet, is a similar contrivance, which, instead of a gun, is provided with a receiver, resembling a large mortar, filled with sand. The ball in passing from the cannon enters the mouth of this mortar and causes it to recoil, thus indicating, in the manner before described, the velocity or force with which the shot is projected. You will see at once that two important points are thus ascer-tained, to wit: the distance which a gun will recoil with a given charge and the force with which a ball of a given weight can be thrown with a certain quantity of powder. This, it is believed, is the only dynameter of the kind in this country, and should you, or any of your readers, visit Washington, is well worthy of a visit.

SENTIMENTAL .- " What are you multer ng there about?" asked a tender father of son he had just spoken harshly to. "Oh, let him alone," said the mother. His eyes are full of the heart's rain, (poetic woman) and his soul is clouded with grief."

"It is, eh?" queried the husband, "his nuttering there is a sort of mental thunder, "Yes," sobbed the wife. " Well," was the reply, " we must ex-ect electricity, so I'll apply a lightning rod." Thus saving, he took a trim piece of birch and whaled him in warm style.

FASHIONABLE TAIL CORING ASHEVILLE, N. C.

er, N. Y.

HELLO, there? ye young men, and old ones, too—Run here, and I will make you the best and most fashionable COAT of any man in the six counties!!!

The subscriber would most respectfully inform the public that he has received the WINTER FASHIONS; and now, let any person wishing a cheep and Suit of Clothes made, come to me, and he shan't go off displeased. He has in the last twelve months so greatly improved in the art of CUTTING, that he flatters himself that he cannot be excelled by any one west of the Blue Ridge. IT He has REDUCED his PRICES, so that his customers cannot grumble, and will give as long a time for payment as any reasonable man would ask, IT He tenders his thanks for the liberal patrenage already bestowed. IT He still occupies his old stand.
