VOL. V.—NO. 693. CHARLOTTE, N. C., SATURDAY, AUGUST 17, 1861. [$6 PER ANNUM.]

A Voice from Connecticut. The Hartford (Conn.) Times says: Since the recent terrible defeat of our Northern army, the truth begins to be acknowledged by our neighbors, that we can never conquer the South. Our abolition papers at the North have constantly impelled us on to destruction. The South have an enrolled militia of over 1,000,000 muskets, besides powerful artillery, equal to ours; and how they have captured five of our best batteries. In the face of these stubborn facts, are our war-bred Abolitionists to push us on in this ruinous civil war?

Within a few months, or perhaps weeks, we must be subject to the war-draft upon the enrollments which are now being made throughout this State, according to the recent act of our Legislature. Men must be taken from their families and their peaceful occupations to fight for what Cas President Lincoln told the wealthy can pay the $75 demanded, and stay at home; but where is the poor man to obtain the cash to pay his penalty in this present time of business ruin? He must go to war, and there is no discharge except by death. In a few days comes upon us the Assessor appointed by Abraham Lincoln, from whose assessment there is no appeal; soon upon his heels come the United States Collectors, also appointed by Mr. Lincoln, and the war tax must be paid forthwith—$463,000 is the sum taxed upon Connecticut for the war.

About $1,000,000 have already been borrowed by this State, to pay and equip our five regiments. Our snug State found her near $500,000, well invested in bank stocks, has been spent, and more than double that amount already incurred and demanded. For the first time in the history of our little State, have Connecticut bonds been hawked about the country, and yet the war just commenced. The great West begins to feel the crushing weight of war. She has no money to pay her troops; her bonds are unsaleable, and her credit declining. Their form, which once found an outlet down the Mississippi, now brings ten cents a bushel. Instead of blockading the South, they confess that they are themselves blockaded. Here is positive proof that the distress and necessity of some of the Western States will induce them to quit the Union.—Who will then assume our enormous national debt of perhaps one or two thousand millions of dollars? Nothing going wrong," sir.

Prattice Bought Up! The following appeared in a late number of the Boston Gazette: George D. Prentice, of the Louisville Journal, was born in Preston, Conn., in 1802, and graduated at Brown University in 1827. Our Boston merchants have given recently substantial proof of their appreciation of his manly course, and we trust others will do likewise. The meaning of this is that the recent of the Journal has been properly estimated by the trading Yankees of Boston.—They found out his price, and bartered him into the traitorous position he is occupying against his adopted South!

We have heard this charge repeated before, says the Memphis Appeal, by gentlemen in whose integrity we have the utmost confidence. No other logic, indeed, cannot account for the stultified position of the paper.

Challenge for a Naval Engagement. We learn that on Saturday last the Confederate war steamship Patrick Henry, formerly the Yorktown, came down James river to within a mile or two of Newport News, and offered a challenge for combat to a large United States frigate lying off that point. So great was the agitation and confusion on board the frigate, it is said, that they did not take time to fire their awnings, but pulled them right-down and beat to quarters. The Patrick Henry stood off at her position, with her ports open ready for a combat, if she could induce the Yankee to come from under the guns of the shore-battery, but the latter positively declined the invitation, and stuck to her safe place. It is believed by those who witnessed the operation that the Patrick Henry would have ventured battle regardless of the shore battery, but for the presence of two or three Federal gun-boats.

Salt and Coffee. We copy the following from the "Talk on Change" in the New Orleans Crescent of Saturday: The suggestion may as well be considered as disposed of for the present. Before the present stocks are consumed, there will be many salt vats in operation. Three hundred thousand bushels of packing salt, the stock now on hand, will go a great way toward curing three hundred thousand barrels of pork, which quantity will cover more barrels than we have received here before in one year. As salt can be manufactured to a large extent in the Southern Confederacy, it is unnecessary for consumers to submit to any extortionate prices.

There is some talk that a few dealers in coffee have monopolized the stock of the berry in the market, and are compelling consumers to pay famine prices, say from 25 to 35 cents per pound. This is one of the vicissitudes of war. The South can subsist without coffee. Rye will make a very good substitute, as it did during the war and interdiction of foreign trade in the years 1812 to 1815. The impression is that there will be no suffering for the want of the general necessities of life. As for the luxuries, we shall endeavor to dispense with them, and the country will not be any worse off this day twelve months hence by pursuing a course of abstinence.

REPORTED NAVAL ENGAGEMENT.—A gentleman who reached this city yesterday from the coast reports that on Wednesday afternoon last, near Murray's Inlet, with the aid of a glass, he witnessed a naval engagement, several miles distant, between a full rigged brig and a steamer. The engagement lasted about two hours, when the brig finally bore away about East, and the steamer about South-west.

CHARLOTTE COURIER, 13th inst.

From the New Orleans Delta. Asa Hartz—But is Conforted. "A Zouave having taken prisoner one Klubs, a fellow from Louisiana, who was on the field as a spectator, he endeavored to escape, when the Zouave very properly gave him the full benefit of his bayonet, killing him instantly." (New York Herald.)

A cloud of sorrow rests upon the spirits of me, Asa Hartz. A well of grief has sprung up in my bosom. Distress, affliction, woe, misery, desolation, pain, anguish and agony; all, have a place in the bosom of Asa; and tears, are forced from the eyes of Asa Hartz, by each in turn of the above emotions.

Klubs is dead, and I mourn his taking off in all the bitterness of soul which should attend the death of a friend who has been a trump and his right-bower.

No more will we two, with singleness of heart and oneness of soul, visit the camp of the Lapetone Rangers. Never again will we together board the Brooklyn, with a full supply of "ammunition," and scarce the bull pups of Dr. Abraham upon silence. No more can we twain go into the secret missions of my Uncle Davy to Washington and "fringe the souls of" our adversaries in the White House of the Federal Government. For Klubs has departed—gone to that bourne whence no individual ever comes back again.

The deceased partner of my troubles and sharer of my ammunition, was a son of his father and mother, and was born in the South at a very early period of his own history. As soon as he could talk, the first words he uttered with distinctness were "pa," and "ma," and he continued to improve in understanding as he approached the period of round jacket, trousers and boots. The rudiments of his education were obtained by the study of books, and an observation of men and things which happened to be about him.

As he grew up he got larger in size, and as year after year was added, he grew older. But time with him is no more. He has crossed Jordan's classic stream, and is added to the grand collection of the Klubs' who have gone before "Requiescat in pace."

I have made a good thing of it, even if I am shut up in the city of Washington. Immediately upon hearing of the death of Klubs, and paying a mournful tribute to his memory, I hunted for Bob, the only son of Dr. Abrahamum.

I found Bob. The result of my interview with Bob may be summed up briefly. Bob is now my Klubs—my all. Bob has a contract to purchase provisions for the grand army, and I am his silent partner. We are now swindling the United States Government to the tune of $22,000 a week. In other words, we clear that amount.

The most important items in the terms of partnership are as follows: Third.—It is further stipulated and agreed by the parties hereto, that the undersigned are to do their level—best toward getting all they can out of the Federal Treasury without being caught at it.

Fourth.—That whilst it is to be the constant endeavor, in every instance, to swindle the Government out of the very last dollar practicable, the rule of "honor among thieves" is to be strictly observed, and between the parties hereto, and the profits are to be equally divided.

Fifth.—That the profits thus arising are to be appropriated jointly to purchase sugar plantations in the State of Louisiana, and negroes to work them.

Southern Express Returned. Among the passengers from California, arrived at New York by the steamer Northern Light, on Friday, were Captain John Adams, of Tennessee, lately resigned from the First Dragoons, and Dr. Ridgely, of Maryland, late of the army; Austin E. Smith, of Virginia, late Navy Agent at San Francisco; Henry Clay Smith, of Virginia, late clerk in the Navy Agents office; J. H. Barry, of Mississippi, Mr. Hollins, of Virginia, son of Captain Hollins, a Confederate officer; Mr. Nesbit, of St. Louis, Mo.; J. B. Sikes, of Virginia, late Indian agent, from Oregon; Mr. Hattenberger, of Louisiana, late of the San Francisco custom-house; H. P. Thornton, of South Carolina, member of the Legislature of California; R. D. Crain, of South Carolina, from the Senate of California, and Dr. E. Sewall, of California.

OFFICIAL DENIAL.—Admiral Sir Alexander Milne, Commander-in-Chief at Halifax, in a private letter to the British Consul at Boston, says: "I see a long article in some of the papers, and extracts from Fort Pickens, alluding to orders I have given; all I can say is, that it is not my version of blockade nor my orders on the subject."

A downeaster is poking fun at the Massachusetts regiment, which is said not to have stood fire very well at Bull Run, in the following verse: "At last a bomb shell fell kersplang! And knocked the life light out on 'em, The boys of Yankee Doodle."

Application will be made to the present Session of the Legislature for the incorporation of a Company for the Manufacture of ACIDS, CHEMICALS, &c. Address, Aug. 17.
