Important Change in the Internal Policy of Turkey.

From the London Times, April 7. When we stated vesterday that the changes now introduced in the Ottoman Empire by the influence of the Powers which have allied themselves for its defence amount to a revolution in its social condition, we did not foresee the very striking confirmation of this remark which reached us a few hours later by the telegraph. We are informed by a communication from Constantinople, dated the 27th of March, that the possessions of the mosques are to be declared the property of the State, and that the refusal of the Sheikul Islam to consent to this measure was the cause of his deposition. If this statement be correct, it is beyond all comparison the most important resolution taken by the Turkish Government since the destruction of the Janissaries, for it is a measure from which Sultan Manmoun himself recoiled, though he had often contemplated it as one of most essential conditions of the regeneration of the Empire. In fact, a measure so contrary to the prejudices of the Mussulmans and the interests of the Ulemus could hardly have been attempted with any chance of safety to the Sultan or his Ministers unless he had the support of a considerable force in the immemediate neighborhood of the capital; and even now we shall not be surprised to learn that a coup d'etat of this description has been followed by agitation and excitement among the Mussulman popu-

The mosques and religious foundations of the Ottoman Empire form important spiritual corporations, exercising an independent, legal and theocratical power in the State. The Ulemas, or masters shows a regard for it, and is not as easy in it as if of the law and the Koran, are the sole possessors it was a plain one .- Chesterfield. of the vast wealth belonging to these foundations, and at the same time, as the expounders of the faith and fundamental laws of Islam, they enjoy an authority to which the highest powers in the State have been compelled to bow. The insecurity of property under an arbitary Government and many other causes have induced Turkish landowners, from generation to generation, to assign over the fee simple of their estates to the mosques -reserving only the usufract to themselves and their direct male descendants. Land thus held by the mosques or religious corporations became vaccof, or, as it is termed in India, wulf, and is held forever in mortmain. Such lands have hitherto been exempt from taxation and personal confiscation, and this tenure has so increased and extended by the mere influence of duration and security in an Empire where all other property is fluctuating and insecure, that full three-quarters of the soil of the Turkish dominions are said to be thus held. To dispossess these powerful corporations of landed property which they have held for centuries by the two-fold band of legal usage and religious veneration-to resume the direct authority of the Sultan over so large a portion of the lands of the Empire, one-third of which was allotted to the mosques by Manuaer the Conqueror - and to defy the whole power which the Ulemas and relious orders may be able to put forth in defence measures ever taken in a great emergency. But we entertain no doubt that this resumption of lands is an indispensable preliminary to the real reform and progress of the country. Sooner or later in its history, every Christian State has undergone it, and the vast possessions which the superstition or the rapacity of former ages placed in the hands of the church have been restored to the common uses of society. The social revolution which is being effected in Turkey by the emancipation of the Christians, and the establishment of a principle of equality between all races and religious of the Empire, led by an inevitable consequence to the abolition of the exclusive supremacy which the Mussulmans have hitherto exercised over the largest portion of the soil, except in the Archipelago and in the provinces from which they are excluded by treaty. And, although changes of this nature are never accomplished without the dangers and sufferings inseparable from revolutions, the future strength and independence of Turkey depend on the introduction of a system totally distinct from that which has reduced so magnificent an empire to the verge of dissolution.

Turkey, from Another point of View. An American citizen in Paris, writing, to a gentleman at Washington, who communicates the letter to the National Intelligencer, mentions that he has seen a letter from Constantinople, giving a most gloomy account of Turkey, her finances, &c. The writer says :

She is "dying," as the Emperor Nicholas !ruly said, and cannot survive much longer. The very treaty made with France and England granting many privileges to the Greeks, if no other cause existed, would be enough to cause her dissolution. The long encomponent of the Moslems in Europe is to be broken up, and if Russia does not now succeed, five years will gradually accomplish it. If peace took place, the disbanding of two or three hundred thousand troops (mere Arabs,) would cause universal wretchedness. They will be scattered, and have to return without pay, nearly naked will plunder the Christians, and cause general insurrections. The latter number eleven million of people of different religion to their Moslem masters, who are only three millions. Be assured that Nicholas has not made this leap without looking it was begun; it was done when it was half done; before him, and secrets of state will soon be divulged, which will astonish Europe.

You cannot over-estimate the deplorable condition of Turkey. The slavery and degradation the invasion of Alaric, "The Scourage of God;" Rome, while in possession of the terrible Genseric, by murder, plunder, and desolations of every kind, never suffered worse than the miserable Greeks, under the iron rule of their Moslem masters, for the last 400 years. Recollect the capture and The tocsin of vengence, however, about being upon, sounded, the soil of Turkey will be manured by he blood both of the Greek and the Moslem; but the latter must decamp.

It will be a war of religion and the Turks will here will be no culture of the earth, and all will door after them. to certain destruction. The Russians will beat hem as easily as we did the Mexicans, with one. ourth the number of disciplined troops contending with a comparatively unarmed rabble, calling on Mahomet in the hour of battle. The English and French troops may garrison the Balkan mountains, Constantinople, and all strong places, so as to prerent them from falling into the hands of the Rusnans, though it would not surprise me if these lear friends should fall out even before the conest is over, and still more probably after it is closed.

Tua laisu Exopus .- According to the Galway Packet, the Celtic race is fast disappearing even in its western stronghold. The editor has just eler could not see a human habitation-all was important branch. atter desolation; not a trace of farm cultivation, and in heu of houses, nothing remained but heaps of stones and unroofed gables.

Short and Sweet.

Love.-Love covers a multitude of sins. When a scar cannot be taken away, the next kind office is to hide it. Love is never so blind as when it is to spy faults .- South.

Honor .- The Athenians erected a large statue of Æsop, and placed him, though a slave, on a lasting pedestal, to show that the way to honor lies open indifferently to all. - Phaurus.

FAME. - If a man do not erect in this age his own tomb ere he dies, he shall live no longer in monument than the bell rings, and the widow wceps .-- Shakspeare.

Age. - There cannot live a more unhappy creature than an ill-natured old man, who is neither capable of receiving pleasures nor sensible of doing them to others .- Sir William Temple.

PLEASURE, - Mental pleasures never cloy; unlike those of the body, they are increased by repetition, approved of by reflection, and strengthened by enjoyment.-Cotton. PRESENTS .- When thou makest presents let them be of such things that will last long; to the end they may be in some sort immortal, and may frequently refresh the memory of the receiver. CHRISTIANITY.-If ever Christianity appears in its power, it is when it erects its trophies upon the tomb; when it takes upon its votaries where the world leaves them; and fills the breach with immortal hope in dving moments. - R. Hall. DRESS .- Next to clothes being fine, they should be well made, and worn easily; for a man is only the less genteel for a fine coat, if in wearing it, he DRUNKENNESS .- Some of the domestic evils of drunkenness are houses without windows, gardens without fences, fields without tillage, barns without roofs, children without clothing, principles, morals or manners .- Franklin.

INJURY .- An injury unanswered in time grows weary of itself, and dies away in an involuntary remorse. In bad dispositions, capable of no restraint but fear, it has a different effect-the silent digestion of one wrong provokes a second.

Sour.-We may compare the soul to a linen cloth; it must be first washed to take off its native hue and color, and to make it white; and after-

KINDNESS .- Life is not made up of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things, in which smiles and kindness, and small obligations, given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart, and secure comfort. - Sir H. Davy.

OCCUPATION. - Indolence is a delightful, but distressing state; we must be ' ng something to be happy. Action is no less necessary than thought. to the instructive tendencies of the human frame.

CRITICS .- There is a certain meddlesome spirit, which, in the garb of learned research, goes of their vested rights, is certainly one of the boldest | prying about the traces of history, casting down its monuments, and marring and mutilating its fairest trophies. Care should be taken to vindicate great names from such pernicious erudition. Washington Irving.

> A WEENTY TEENTY BABY .- About a week ago, the wife of a gentleman living in the east part of this city, presented him with a baby which is regarded as a " perfect little wonder."-It is a boy, still living apparently in good health, and when just born, weighed one pound! NEGRO TRIAL.—The trial of the other negroes implicated in the murder of Mr. Craig has just come off. The trial occupied three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday last. Nine of the negroes belonged to Mr. Geo. McC. Witherspoon, and two were the property of Dr. Thornwell. The trial took place at Landford before Magistrate Connoll. Four of Mr. Witherspoon's negroes were found guilty, and sentenced to be hung on the first Friday in June next. We understand Mr. Witherspoon will appeal for a new trial.

CASHMERE WOOL, - We are indebted to Mr. T. R. Waring for samples of the fleece of the Cashmere goat, raised on his plantation near this city. The animal, he informs us, seems perfectly at home in our climate, as hardy and as easily raised as the common goat. The fleece is of exceeding beauty. In weight it is probably about equal to that of the choicer varieties of sheep, while its value is probably ten times greater. We regard, therefor, the successful experiment of raising these animals as of very great interest, and the whole State owes a debt of gratitude to Dr. James B. Davis, of Columbia, to whose enterprise and public spirit their introduction is due. Charleston Mercury.

The Greatest Discovery of the Age. DLANTERS, Farmers, Families, and others, can purchase no remedy equal to Dr. Tostas' VENE-Colic, Croup, Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Swellings, Headache, Chronic Rheumatism, Toothache, Coughs, Vomitting, Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest, &c. If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded. All that is asked is a trial, and use it according to the Directions. It is an English remedy, and was used by William the Fourth, late King of England, and certihed to by him as a cure for the Kheumatism, when everything else had failed. Over 10,000,000 of Bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated, they would not be without it, if it was $10 per bottle in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied. It cures Cholera when first taken, in an hour; Dysenterry in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly in-nocent to take internally, and recommended by the most eminent Physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents. Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with eer-LARGE stock of Chimisetts, Colors and Undertificates of Cures accomplished by his Limment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief need not pay for it. Dr. Tobias has put up a Liniment expressly for Horses in Pint Bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Colic, Galls, Cuts, Bruises, Swellings, Scratches, &c. Price 50 cents.
