From the A. Y. Journal of Commerce. The Main Law In Maine.

The Tribune traines it on !" The State of Maine he stronghold of Computerry Temperance, is sold o rom dealers and rum sellers, and the "glory of Ichahod is departed." All of which in plain English, means, that at the recent election Gov. Morrell has been detested, and an anti-confusion, anti-Republican" Senate and Assembly have been elected. As every sensible person foresaw, the mighty excitement with regard to liquor selling produced a reaction to the same execut. One year ego, it was already perceived that in most places the then existing statue was a dead letter. Men darst not and would not any longer menr the offium attached to making complaints in the mannor prescribed, and we heard, with an surprise, that the epinion of s ver lot the foremost original advectors of a restrictive law had changed, and that they took dup in the experiment as a tailore. More enthustassic persons thought differently, and under the leadership of Neal Dow, they succeeded in procuring the addition of more stringent provisions to the Low than it had before contained, and Mr. Dow was elected Mayor or Partland, royal courteses resulted in convincing I am apt to mainly as a token of the gratitude of the inhabitents of that place, for his benevolence and philan- ness had departed for ver.
