A SLIGHT MISTARE. - A lew days since n German was riding along Sansonie street, in Sagrato nto, when he heard the whizzing of a ball near him, and felt his hat shoke. He surned about and enw a man with a revolver in his hand, and took off his hat and found a fresh bullet hale in it.

.D.d you shoot at me?' asked the German. .Yes,' replied the other party; "that's my horse. It was stolen from me recently.

'You must be mistaken,' said the German; 'I have owned the korse for three years." Well said the o her when I come to look a him I believe I am mistaken. Excuse me sir; won't you take a drink?

The rider dismounted and tied his horse. The two found a drinking saloon-they drank together. and parted friends. This is the California way of making acquaintances.

MY A good story was told some years ago of old Bunce, who prided himself upon never being mistaken in his judgment of a person's character | where they have constantly on hand a large and splenonen countenance. "She's honest," said Bunce to himself; and at once asked her if she had a young goose. "Yes," said she; "here's as fing a one as you will find in the market;" and she look dup in his face with a perfect sincerity that would have taken his heart, if he had not already made up his mind as to her character. "You're sure it's young?" "To be sure it is;" and Bunce took it home.

All efforts to got it were fruitless, it was so tough; and the next day he hastened down to the market, angry with himself, and more so with the honest-faced girl who had chested him.

vesterday?" he exclaimed, striding up to the girl and Gentlemen to his superior "To be sure I did."

"You cheated me," said Bunce: "it was a tough old gander."

"You don't call me old, do you?" she asked. "No-I should think not," he replied.

"No-I should think not, too. I am only twenty, and mother told me the goose was hatched just six months after I was born.

Bunce had forgotten that a gonse lives a hundred olinian once said: "I was born the last day in the year, the last day in the month, the last day of the week, very late in the day, and have alscaus been behind hand. I believe it would have teen one thousand dollars in my pocket if I hadn't been born at al!."

IF A little boy of our acquaintance recently attended church, and after listening attentively to the parable of the wise and foolish 'house-builders, said to his mother, on the way home, il don't think that man was so very wise after all.' 'And why not, my son?'

Why if the house was built on a rack, where could be find a place for his cellar?" Sure enough, sonny, where could he? That idea never struck me before.

The Hoosiers on the Wabash turn their "agy shakes" to some account; they climb to the top of a "shellbark" just as the chill comes on, and by the time the "personal earthquake" leaves them. there's not a single hickory nut left on the tree.

A very loquacious lady once offered to bet her husband fifty dollars that she would not speak a word for a week. "Done ?" said the delighted husband, staking the money, which the lady immediately put into her pocket, observing very gravely, that she would secure it until the wager was decided. "Why, madam," cold the husband, "I have won it already."

"You are mistaken in the time," said the lady, "I mean the week after I am buried."

In Turkey whenever a man is convicted of telling a lie his house is painted black, to remain so for one month. If there were such a law in force in this country, what a sombre and gluomy appearance some of our towns and cities would remak Hand, Store next to the Court House, where you will find all kind of Goods and prices to some all.
