There were seven of us children, I the oldest one of all; So I tried to whisper comfort, But the blinding tears would fall.

On my knees my little brother Leaned his aching brow and wept; And my sister's long black tresses O'er my heaving bosom swept. The shadow of an awful fear Came o'er me as I trod

To lay the burden of our grief Before the throne of God. "O, be kind to one another!" Was my mother's pleading prayer, As her hand lay like a snow-flake

On the baby's golden hair, Then a glory bound her forehead, Like the glory of a crown, And in the silent sea of death The star of life went down.

Her latest breath was borne away Upon that loving prayer, And the hand grew heavier, paler, In the baby's golden hair.

YOUNG LOVERS.

One of the queerest and funniest things to think of in after life, is "Boyish Love." No sooner does a boy acquire a tolerable statue, than he begins to imagine temself a man, and to ape manish ways. He casts sidelong glances at the girls he may meet, becomes a regular attendent at church or meeting, sports a cane, carries his head erect, and struts a little in his walk. Presently, and how very soon! he falls in love -yes, "falls" is the proper word, because it best indicates his happy, delirious selfabasement. He kives now in a fairy region, somewhere collateral to the world, and yet, somehow, blanded inextricably with it. He perfumes his hair with fragrant oil, scatters essences over his handkerchief, and desperately shaves, and anoints for a beard. He quotes poetry in which "love" and "dove," and "heart" and "dart" peculiarly predominate; and, as he plunges deeper into the delicious labyrinth, fancies himself filled with the divine afflatus, and suddenly breaks upon the looks of his beloved; is raised to the seventh heaven if she speaks a pleasant word; is betraved into the most astonishing ecstacies by a smile; and is plunged

He believes himself the most devoted lover in the world. There never was such another. There never will be. He is the one great idolater. He is the very type of magnanimity and self-abnegation. Wealth! he despises the grovelling thought. Poverty, with the adorable beloved, he rapturousblessings; and "Love in a Cottage, with water and a crust;" is the beau-ideal paradise of dainty delights.

He declares to himself, with the most solemn emphasis, that he would go through fire and water; undertake a pilgrimage to China or Kamitschatka; swim storm-tossed oceans; scale impassable mountains, and face legions of bayonets, but for one sweet smile from her dear lips. He doats upon a flower she has cast away. He cherishes her glove-a little worn in the fingers-next his heart. He sighs like a locomotive letting off steam. He scrawls her dear name over quires of foolscap-fitting medium for his insanity. He scornfully deprecates the attention of other boys of his own age; cuts Peter Pibbets dead, because he said that the adorable Angeline had carrotty hair; and passed Harry Bell contemptuously, for daring to compare "that gawky Mary Jane" with his comparable Angeline.

Happy! happy! foolish Boy-love; with its hopes and its fears; its joys and its sorrows; jealousies; its delights; its raptures and its tertures; its ecstatic fervors and terrible heart-burnings; its solemn ludierousness; and its intensely prosaic ter-

ANECDOTE OF THE NEW CHAPLAIN.-The Rev. Henry Clay Dean, the present chaplain to the United States Senate, was some years ago a resident of Northwestern Virginia. While preaching one day at a church situated a few miles from Fairmount, he was annoyed by the inattention of his congregation as manifested in turning their heads to see everybody who came in .-"Brethren," said be, "it is very difficult to preach when thus interrupted. Now do you listen to me, and I will tell you the name of every man as he enters the church." Of course this remark attracted universal attention. Presently some one entered :-"Brother William Satterfield!" called out the preacher, while that "brother" was astonished beyond measure, and endeavored in vain to guess what was the matter. Another person came iu-"brother Joseph Miller!" bawled the preacher, with a like result; and so perhaps in other cases. After a while the congregation were amazed of Charlotte, in a healthy and agreeable neighat hearing the preacher call out in a loud | borhood, near the Church, contains voice: "A little old man with a blue coat and a white hat on! don't know who he is! half of which is cleared and in a high state You may look for yourselves.'- [ Fairmount Virginian.

SHE KNEW WHAT SHE WAS ABOUT .- A Chinese widow being found faming the tomb of her deceased husband, and being asked the cause of so singular a mode of contains showing her grief, accounted for it by saying that he had made her promise not to marry again while the mortar on his tomb remained damp, and as it dried but slowly, she saw no harm in aiding the operation.

"When I goes shoppin'," said an old lady, "I allers asks for what I wants, and if they have it, and it's suitable, and I feel inclined to buy it, and it's cheap, and can't be got at any place for less. I most always takes it, without chappering about it all day, as most people does."

PHE undersigned has established an agency in the town of Alligator, Columbia County, Fla., for the purchase, sale or location of into a scarlet rash-of rhyme. He feeds | Land Warrants, the purchase and sale of lands generally, improved and unimproved. The fact now being established that a Rail Road is to be constructed immediately connecting the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico, running through the entire length of the county, East and West, and in view of the great fertility into the gloomiest regions of misanthropy of our soil, the unusually fine growth of pine timber on the land, the healthfulness of the climate, and the reasonable terms on which lands can now be obtained, there is perhaps no section of the Union which affords equal inducements to the emigrant from the older States. Having had some experience in farming on the different kinds of land, and acquired a general knowledge of them throughout the county, and having acquired unusual facilities for pointing out such as are for sale either of public or private lands, he feels ly apostrophizes as the first of all earthly very confident of making it the interest of all persons wishing information, or who may have deter mined to settle in Florida to call

Broad-Street Hotel, RICHMOND, VA.

THIS well-known Hotel has been purchased by, and is now under the control of the undersigned, who has introduced such improvements as make it equal in accommodation and comfort, he trusts, to any hotel in Richmond. It is situated on Sheckoe Hill, within 100 yards of the Depot of the Richmond and Fredericksburg Rail-Road; thus affording a convenient and desirable stopping place for travellers going North or coming South. I will not follow the fashion of the day, and make high-sounding promises; but I will ask a trial of my House from the travelling public-believing that my accommodations and charges will be the best recommendation.
