"HOE OUT YOUR ROW."

One lazy day a farmer's boy Was hoeing out the corn, And moodily had listened long To hear the dinner horn. The welcome blast was heard at last, And down he dropt his hoe; But goodman shouted in his ear, Hoe out your row ;---O, Hoe out your row.

Altho' a "hard one" was the row, To use a plowman's phrase, And the lad, as the sailors have it, Beginning well to "haze"-"I can," said he, and manfully He seized again his hoe; And goodman smiled to see the boy Hoe out his row-O, Hoe out his row.

The lad the text remembered. And proved the moral well, That perseverance to the end At last will nobly tell. Take courage man ! resolve you can, And strike a vigorous blow, In life's great field of varied toil Hoe out your row-O,

Hoe out your row.

GOOD LAND ... AND ITS VALUE.

There is perhaps nothing in which farmers show their discernment more than in properly estimating the value of land. We will here call attention to a few general principles which may be useful in coming to every article in their line. correct conclusions on this subject.

We will take it for granted that land which produces only enough to pay the cost of cultivation is worth nothing-merely worth having and nothing more-like a laborer that is hired for his board and clothing. Land then has a money value when it will, under proper care, produce a crop worth more than the cost of cultivation .-Thus, for example, if it cost as much as the price of eight bushels of wheat to grow a crop of wheat on one acre, then land which will yield only eight bushels to the acre has no value. But if land which yields eight bushels to the acre is just worth cultivating, and no more, how much is land worth that yields nine bushels to the acre? Perhaps some one may answer, that it is worth as much as a bushel of wheat, and that when wheat sells for one dollar a bushel, an acre which will produce one bushel of wheat more than the cost of cultivation, is worth one dollar. A little reflection will, however, show that such a valuation would be entirely wrong. The money paid for land, like any other investment, should be required only to return a fair interest on its cost. Therefore if one bushel of wheat is worth one dollar, this is the return made by an acre of land for one year, the value of this acre is the sum which would draw one dollar of interest. Supposing that ten per cent. is considered to be an adequate return for landed property, then an acre which yields one dollar's worth of produce above the cost ness of it-manufacture our own Goods, and of tillage is worth ten dollars. If six per cent. is considered to be a fair return, then it is worth sixteen dollars and sixty-six The Largest and most Fashionceats. At first sight it may appear unreasonable to maintain that land capable of producing eight bushels to the acre is worth nothing. whilst that which will produce nine may be worth from ten to sixteen dollars per acre. But every prudent man knows that it is the same thing as giving money away to pay for that which will bring nothing in return. If he pays out money he will expect to receive something for interest on the amount expended. Reasoning in the same manner as above. it will be easily seen that land which will produce eight or ten bushels to the acre above the cost of cultivation will be worth from one hundred to one hundred and fifty dollars per acre. Of course, a great deal will depend upon the rate of interest, and therefore upon the abundance or scarcity of capital. We have used the expression "cost of cultivation," and we mean thereby the whole cost of labor and seed, including the expense of keeping up fences and taxes, and also another item which is frequently omitted, namely the wear of the land, or rather the amount which, spent in manuring, will make the land as good as it was before the erop was grown. For it is to be taken for granted that no wise farmer will let his land become poorer from cultivation. And therefore a larger price should be paid for land that will "wear well," than for that which requires a great deal of manuring to keep it up. The principles which we have endeavored to explain is perfectly accurate, and still there is danger of its being misunderstood in practice. We will therefore state it again in a somewhat different manner. To find the value of land we must know the worth of the crop which it is capable of producing the cost of producing is less than the value forded by modern improvements. He has now of the crop, then the land is worth a price on hand a large number of the ket, made on the RIAGES, ROGKA wAYS, &c., made on the

PROFESSOR O. J. WOOD-Dear Sir : Unsolicited, I send you this certificate. After being nearly balu for a long time, and havg tried all the hair restoratives extant, and havg no taith in any, I was induced, on hearing of urs, to give it a trial. I placed myself in the hands a barber, and had my head runb d with a good stiff brush, and the restorative then applied, and well rubbed in, till the scalp was a glow. This I repeated every morning, and in three weeks the oung | air appea.cd, and grew rapidly from August last till the present time, and is now thick, black. and strong-soft and pleasant to the touch; where as, before, it was harsh and wiry, what little there was of it, and that little was disappearing very rapidly. I still use your restorative about twice a we k, and shall soon have a good and perfect crop of hair. Now, if I had read of these things-and who has not? but have not seen hitherto any case where any person's hair was really benefited by any of the hair tonics, etc., of the day; and it really gives me pleasure to record the result of my experience. I have recommended your preparation to others, and it already has a large and general sale throughout the Territory. The people here know its effects, and have confidence in it. The supply you sent us, as wholesale agents for the Territory is nearly exhausted, as d daily inquiries are made or it. You deserve credit for you: discovery ; and I, for one, return you my thanks for the benefit it has done me, for I certainly had despaired long ago of ever effecting any such result.
