FODDER.

We consider pulling fodder "behind the age" in all respects. It should be discontinued by all enlightened and economical planters. We confidently offer the followingsubstitute: Corn Fodder .- Break up, very deeply, a piece of rich land, harrow it finely, and with a broad shovel plow lay it off in drills three feet apart. In these drills scatter corn at the rate of 49 or 50 grains to the foot, and cover with a hoe, rake, board or harrow, drawn lengthwise along the drill. When well up, "run around it," pretty close, with a long rooter, and repeat after 10 or 15 days. In the course of 10 or 15 days more, break out the entire middles with the rooter, and finally lay with the shovel plow, running up and down in the same furrow, midway between the drills .-On good land, prepared and worked in this way, the yield will be from 3 to 6 tons, (sometimes even 10) of excellent fodder per acre. This is as much as can be pulled from 20 to 30 acres, in the common way, and at one-tenth of the labor. Pound for pound, it is as good, if not better that pulled fodder, as it contains the entire juice and strength of the plant, which, in the other case, has gone to the formation of the car of the grain. The loss of weight and inju-Ty to the grain, by depriving corn stalks of their leaves before all growth has ceased, is fully equal to the value of the folder pulled. We, therefore, desire that our readers should abandon this "old fogy" practice, and give drilled corn-fodder a fair trial. It is not yet too late, but should be done immediately. Any one who fairly tests it will, we are guite certain, abandon fodder pulling for-

Curing Corn Fodder .- The proper time to cut drilled fodder, is when all the stalks are fairly tasseled out, or in full bloom. It may be cut close to the ground, with a long, sharp knife, or a sickle. Select a dry day, commencing early in the morning, and cutting until dinner time. As fast as it is cut, spread it thin along the row, and let it lie and take the sun after dinner, when the up per side will be pretty well wilted. Then turn it over carefully, and leave it on the ground until 5 o'clock in the evening, when it must be gathered up, tied in bundles of moderate size (say a foot through at the see SMALL samples of band) and set up on the buttend, in shocks CE.OFFIING !!! of 4 or 5 bundles each-turning one bundle upside down, over the others, as a "capsheaf." The next day, after sunrise, these bundles must be untied and the fodder spread out again until noes, and then turned and sunned till evening, as before. This may be repeated the third day, which will generally be sufficient, if the weather is favorable. It may then be permanently stacked or packed away under cover; and sprinkled with salt, at the rate of 8 quarts to an ordinary two-horse wagon load, it will be more highly relished by stock, and all danger of heating obviated. Many persons make a great mystery of curing drill or broadcast corn-fodder; but we have always found this simple method sure and effectual.

Cutting up corn in the field, and using the stalk and leaf for the winter feeding of Porte-Monies, Pen and Pocket stock, has also many advantages, which we will speak of more in detail hereafter.

How to PLOW UNDER WEEDS-Where given, at the Emporium of Fashion, weeds have not been kept down by other crops, or by close pasturing, they have, as might be expected, made luxuriant growth; and as many such fields will have to be plowed for wheat, and other fall crops, it becomes a matter of much importance to know how we can best turn them under with the plow, so as to be completely out of the way of the harrow and drill. An excellent way to do this, is to fasten one end of a upon each different object of Taxation as follows, heavy log chain to the end of a double tree to which the furrow or off horse is attached, bringing the other under the beam of the plow, just before the share, and confining it there. The chain should lag enough to touch the ground, or nearly so. A little practice will teach how tight it should be. By this plan the weeds are drawn into the furrow-slice, it falling on them while there. Will somebody tell us of a better way?

------SCYTHES .- A complaint is often made by workmen of their scythes not acting well, of the edge not cutting uniformly and the form being wrong, &c.; now the form best suited to each mower may be ested by a very simple experiment. Let a man On eac. $1.0 worth of Irterest, with a piece of chalk in his hand, walk up to a high wall, or barn-door, and raising it as high as he can, strike a curve from right to left; the line so traced is the exact form that his scythe should be; and if he applied the edge of it, and find it correspond, it will cut uniformly from point to heel, and save himself much trouble and labor.

Pickles .--- An excellent way to make pickles that will keep a year or more, is to drop them into boiling water, but not boil them; let them stay in ten minutes, wipe them dry, and drop them into cold spiced vinegar, and they will not need to be put and water, and are always ready | On each for use.

A GOOD RECIPE.—The following recipe for making tough meats tender, we clip from an exchange:

Cut your steaks the day before using into slices about two inches thick, rub over a small quantity of the common Carbonate of Soda, wash oil the next morning, cut into suitable thickness, and cook to your taste. The same process will answer for fowls, Each Dog. legs of mutton, &c. Try it all who love delicious tender dishes of meat.

A nice dish for breakfast might be made as follows: Take one egg and beat it up, add a teaspoon full of salt, pour in about two-thirds of a pint of water, then slice some bread, dip it in, and fry in a little butter; serve warm.

The Editor of the Democrat will oblige a friend by giving place to the following: TO THE MEMORY OF AN ANCIENT FRIEND.

Shaded by large walnut trees, In a pleasant situation, There stands upon a hill top, An ancient habitation;

And from the door, at bark of "Queen," Advanced an aged dame, With old slouched hat and stick in hand, To meet the friend who came!

Unto the bars, and there she stopped: "Who's there?" she then would ask-"Oh, ves! I think I know your voice Tho' my seeing days are past." Back to the small log house she went, Between two doors we sat, And there would while away some hours In a pleasant, cheerful chat.

Her age was ninety-eight, she said-(She of en told me so-) Though others said that she was less, Sur, surely, best should know. "If you live long," she used to say, He temperate and be good," And to the principles she preached

As a monument she stood. Alone, 'neath the logs where she was born She lived and there she ded. She spoke with revetence of the Just, Of her country's deeds with pride.

Her shroud she made of her wedding dress-But a thief broke in and took it, "Much good may it do him," she laughing said, And was willing to overlook it.

The last words which to me she spoke Were from the Bible quoted: In childhood learned, and cared in age. At death they upmost floated. Her deeds were those of mercy, And her words were those of candor, And long shall live her honored Name, Susannah Alexander!!

THE BITER BIT. The Albany (New York) Police Tribune tells the following-which forcibly illustrates the truth of the old adage that "honesty is the best policy:

Some time since, two well-known gentlemen left Albany to seek their fortunes at Washington. Mr. C. got a contract from the Government, and made a snug little pile of some $40,000 worth of real estate .-While accumulating this property, his par:ner, Mr. R., contracted about $7,000 worth of debts, $2.500 of which belonged to Mr. C. Mr. C. is not any more honest than the law allows. So he thought he would get rid of 'those cussed bores,' his creditors, by making over his property to his niece, a fine looking young lady, aged about eighteen .-He accordingly went to a lawyer, made out the papers, and assigned the whole of his real estate to his niece, the interesting young lady already spoken of. Having concluded his arrangements, he thought he would go South and look at the country. This took place last summer .-During his absence in pursuit of quietness and cotton fields, Mr. R. ascertains ell about the assignment, and goes in for making all things square. He commenced operations by courting the niece aforesaid, and finished up by marrying her. When Mr. C. returned from Ceorgie, he finds he has been 'done for'-that Mr. R. has not only got the value of his debt, but $37,500 worth of real estate in addition, to say nothing of a most desirable wife. Mr. C. is now swearing in eight syllables, and insists that it is a conspiracy.

DROFESSOR WOOD'S HAIR RESTORA TIVE, is, no doubt, the most wonderfu discovery of this age of progress, for it will restore, permanently, gray fair to as original color, cover the head of the bald with a most luxuriant growth, remove at once all dandruff and itching, cure a scorfida and other cutaneous eruptions, such as schaldhead, etc. It will cure, as if by magic, ner yous or periodical headache; make the hair soft, glossy and wavy, and preserve the color perfectly, and the hair from falling, to extreme old age. We could give the testimony of more than one hundred thousand to the truth of every word we have written. See circular and the following: The following is from a distinguished member of the medical profession:

St. Paul, January 1, 1855.

Professor O. J. Wood—
Dear Sir: Unsolented, I send you this certificate. After being nearly balo for a long time, and having tried all the hair restoratives extant, and havng no taith in any, I was ind ced, on hearing of yours, to give it a trial. I placed myself in the hands of a barber, and had my head runb d with a good stiff brush, and the restorative then applied, and well rubbed in, till the scalp was a glow. This I repeated every morning, and in three weeks the young tair appeared and grew rapidly from August last till the present time, and is now thick, black, and strong-soft and pleasant to the touch; where as, before, it was harsh and wiry, what little there was of it, and that little was disappearing very rapidly. I still use your restorative about twice a we k, and shall soon have a good and perfect crop of hair. Now, it I had read of these things-and who has not? but have not seen hitherto any east where any person's hair was really benefited by any of the hair tonics, etc., of the day; and it reall gives me pleasure to record the result of my experence. I have recommended your preparation : others, and it already has a large and general sale Richmond, Va. throughout the Territory. The people here know its effects, and have confidence in it. The supply you sent us, as wholesale agents for the Territory s nearly exhausted, and daily inquiries are made or it. You deserve cred t for you: discovery; and I, for one, teturn you my thanks for the benefit it has done me, for I certainly had despaired long ago of ever effecting any such result.

PROPESSOR WOOD-Dear Sir; Having made trial of your HAIR RESTORATIVE, it gives me pleasure to say, hat its effect has been excellent in temoving inflammation, dandruff, and a constant tendency to itching, with which I have been troubled from my childhood; and has also restored my hair, which used no other article, with anything like the same J.
