..... A SCORE OF PRINTERS.

In our office, says the Cincinnati Unionists, are twenty printers engaged. Only look at them! In ages ranging from twenty to thirty; in size and complexion, from the ordinary stout (we never knew a fat printer) to some that might crawl through a greased flute, as white as Circassians, and others brown or rosy-as your "Georgia cracker," or Pennsylvania publican.

Some bearded like the Pard, others smoothfaced as the Greek slave. One has traveled all over Arkansas, and seen the wild horse in the Pampas of South America; another has been out on the broad ocean, and has seen life before the mast ; another graduated at West Point, served in the army, and accompanied Col. Doniphan in his Xenephonic grand campaign all over New Mexico. What a book he can write. Another has kept tavern, sold goods at auction. traveled over the United States several them at their own homes, is most powerful times, been well off and broken-often .-Two have been "on the stage," a profession printers are much addicted to, for about half the actors on the American board are printers. One we believe has preached sermons, another has lectured to crowded houses. Another has served in Mexico with Gen. Scott. A sixth has been a stump orator. member of the Legislature "out West," and fought a duel, we believe .-Three have practiced medicine, kept store and dealt in horses, cotton and negroes .zen of this State, but resides beyond the limits of ally to give away, which God has greatly Two have held municipal offices. To diminish fat our physician directs the patient to live principally on meat, cating little else, and drinking as little as possible. Vegetables, soups, puddings, tarts, fruits, breads and cakes, in their protean forms, have carbon and oxygen for their principal bases, and water is the protoxide of hydrogen ; all of which substances are the elements of fat. The principal base of meat is azote or nitrogen, which does not enter into the composition of fat; hence lean meat is a good diet for the aspirant after leanness. Carniverous animals are never corpulent, and pigs are fattened by meal, vegetables and milk, rather than meat .--The smallest possible quantity of liquid is an indispensable condition.

able lean persons to become corpulent .----

According to the doctor, a sedentary life.

promotes obesity; so also, a great fondness for farinaceous, starchy and sugary diet, want of thought, a great absorption of fluids

by drinking much, by frequent tepid baths, or even by constantly breathing damp air.

The chief cause mentioned, however, is eating and drinking more food than enough.

Almost every one takes more food than is requisite for the support of the system; such as have good digestion, says the learned writer, convert the surplus into fat, while,

those who have not, transmute it into pains, cramps and headaches.

In addition to these counsels of Dr. Dancel, we are told that soap pills and alkalis are administered to aid in relieving the system from fat, though, with the caution that the remedy is sometimes worse than the disease. It is stated that some terrible cases of fat have been cured through reading this book, and that, among others, a monster baker, so fat he could not walk or lie down, was enabled to loose forty pounds in three months, and to diminish his abdominal equator about forty contimeters .---The treatment prescribed for him was-for breakfast a beef steak or cutlets, a cup of coffee and a very small quantity of vegetables-for dinner, plenty of meat and little else; and a bottle or a bottle and a half of liquid per day.

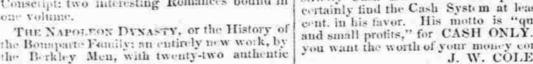

We think, then, we cannot be far wrong in recommending our lean and shadowy countrymen to take the doctor's directions to fat people, and violate every one of them. Eat farinaceous food ; think as little as possible; delight in bread and vegetables, and devour little meat-especially while the weather is so hot and the prices so high -and only use soap pills on the surface of the body. Then shall we have men about us that are fat, and women, substantial and genuine, like the solid dames of our early history, from whom sprang the giants of '76.

-----DESFERATE FIGHT WITH ROBBERS .- The

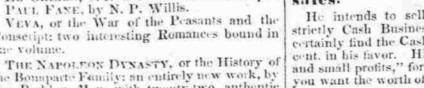

San Antonia (Texas) papers of the 30th ult., are filled with the most exciting accounts of a recent dreadful encounter with a band of ruffians, in that city, during which five persons were killed, and one wounded. It appears the Sheriff, with a posse, surrounded a house in which a party of well-known thieves and other desperadoes were found concealed, and a desperate fight ensued. The Texan says :

"A man named Fieldstrop killed one of the desperadoes, and was shot through the head by another. At this awful juncture. Jim Taylor, than whom a braver man never lived, gave orders to some three of his comrades to follow him, and at the same moment he broke through the window into the darkened room. As he entered, Bill Hart, a notorious character, shot him through the breast, and at the same moment a gun was
