the following directions by a correspondworth looking after these hard times :-"The high pressure in the main pipes, if allowed to go unchecked to the burner valves, will consume a much larger quantity of gas than they otherwise would, even if it is regulated at the burner vilves. The proper place to regulate is the main valve near the metre, which should be shut off until the burners are just right, with their valves open full. By this means all your burners will be uniform, and the light will be as good with two-thirds of the main valve on as it would turned on full."

FOREIGN ITEMS.

Leave has been granted to Lord Palmerston to bring a bill into the House of Commons, to alter the government of India. There is nothing later from China, but details of the news show that Canton is virtually in possession of the British. Bombay dates are to the 24th of Jan. The capture of Furruckabad and Futtygur by Sir Collin Campbell is confirmed. After subjugating Robiland he will march on Lucknow. Gen. Outram has twice defeated the rebels at Alumbaugh. In Parliament the British government has been defeated on the law introduced by the Administration to amend the law relating to murder and conspiracy, upon an amendment offered by Milner Gibson, be sure, this frippery is spiced with a little Wild animals in Swakop, according to find it to their interest to call on which censures ministers for replying to envy and malice, and prepares its small Gatton, do not frequent salt licks like they the French minister's (Walewski) dispatch but professes readiness to amend the laws upon due investigation. The capacity of the Mexican population for appreciating a constitutional rule is not so re markable that we should volunteer to administer it."

REVIVAL OF THE SLAVE TRADE.—The N. O. Delta has a long article on the revival of the African slave trade. Cargoes from the African coast have been lately landed in Pearl river, Mississippi, and the emigrants are already at work. The vessels engaged in this traffic carry the French flag, which the British squadron on the African coast treats with proper respect The Delta perceives the germ of a cordial alliance between the Southern States and France, in opposition to the aggressive abolitionism of England and of the North. The Washington correspondent of the South says that a movement is already afoot to import and place on the soil of the South, a stated number of Chinese coolies. A large amount of Southern capital, says the writer, will be enlisted in its favor, in French, English, German, and Americaa the event of Gen. Cass giving his opinion (which has been asked for by a gentleman of Georgia.) in favor of the constitutionality and rectitude of the enterprise. . ----

CHEERFULNESS.

Mr Edwin P. Whipple, of Boston, one of marks upon that idle sort of conversation | named the inhabitants of Mauritius and the | property at sea. which has been aptly called "tattling :"

"But of all the expedients to make the I have, says M. Gatton, recently learned heart lean, the brain gauzy, and to thin of another tribe who never eat sait. It is life down into the consistency of a cam- the Damaras of tropical South Africa. bric kerchief, the most successful is the little talk and tattle which, in some Europe it is universally believed that salt charmed circles, is courteously styled conversation. How human beings can live on such meagre fare-how continue existence in such a famine of topics and on such short allowance of sense-is a great question, if philosophy could only search it out. All we know is that such men and women there are, who will go on dwindling in this way from fifteen to fourscore, and never a hint on their tombstones that they died at last of consumption of the head and marasmus of the heart! The whole universe of God, spreading out its splendors and terrors pleading for their attention, and they wonder "where Mrs Somebody got that divine ribbon to her bonnet!" Gaz. cant of substance and sap, is it not one, out of many nobler causes, of the rumored lack of cheerfulness in American women? -a fact of which we know nothing except from the melodious wail, alternating with melodramatic shricks, that comes up from so large a portion of our best feminine literature. The men of course, are great rascals and deprive women of their rights, and circumscribe the sphere of their influence, and hypocritically sonnetize Desdemonas of the kitchen and Imogens of the nursery, and are, besides, as superficial as they are wicked-all that is freely granted; but still is it not possible that women, the autocratic rulers at least of social life, can make it a little better subserve its great purpose of educating and enriching the mind without any loss to its more festive grace and airier charm?" In the course of the same essay Mr. Whipple exposes the fallacy of Shelley's assertion, that most men forget that such experience, passed through the dissolving imagination of robust natures, comes out in the form of beauty, are apt to get up an anguish to sing about; to make their particular grievance their whole stock of trade; and, mendicants for sympathy to pass around the hat to collect such coppers of compassion and small change of tears as tender hearts can spare to relieve their puny and puerile miseries. If any good friend to them and to good letters would just hint that the greatest poets are the most cheerful, they would as quickly affect vivacity as they new worship gloom. Sterne states that when he visited Paris, in 1797. he found that every French woman of fashion went through three stages :- first; a coquette; then, as her charms began to fade, a deist; then, as she caught a glimpse of the grave, a devotee. One lady, who ught, he says, to have been a deist for ome five years before he had the honor of making her acquaintance, expressed to him her fear that she was beginning to doubt the truth of the Christian religion. Sterne looked in her face where beauty was palpably on the wane, and, as if he were overcome by its loveliness, said, "Madam, it is too soon-too soon!" Sle overjoyed, dropped the deist, reassumed the coquette, and reported all over Paris that the Reverend Mr Sterne had said more for revealed religion in half an hour than all the Encyclopædists had ever said against it. Now the affection of misery in half the sentimental poetry that spoils the spirits of its readers is capable of a conversion as instantaneous as the affectation of deism in Sterne's fadded coquette; for this much is to be said for human nature, that men will adopt sense as readily as nonsense, provided it flatters their vanity as
