POMOLOGICAL SOCIETY .- The North Carolina State Agricultural Society appointed the following gentlemen as delegates to the Convention to be held in this town on the 4th inst. for the purpose of organizing a Pomological Society: Joshua Lindlev. G W Johnson, J B Zollicoffer, S W Westbrook, and Daniel Asbury.

MR CLINGMAN'S ADDRESS .- We devote a considerable portion of our space this week to the publication of Hon. T. L. Clingman's address before the State Agricultural Society on the 21st ult. We don't like to publish such lengthy articles, but supposing that our readers, and especially our farming friends, would like to read this Address, we insert it to the exclusion of our usual variety of matter, and we think it interesting and instructive enough to repay a perusal.

Lest Persons who wish to attend the S. C. State Fair at Columbia on the 9th inst., will be allowed to go and return over the Charlotte & S. C. Railroad for one fare.

SENTENCED TO HANG HIMSELF .- The Chinese are a great people and have a queer way of doing things. Keying, who negotiated the recent treaties with certain foreign powers, it appears has fell under the displeasure of the Emperor. He did not make as good a treaty as the Emperor thought he ought to have made, therefore he was sentenced to be strangled to death; but he protesting against such a mode of extinguishing his day-light, the sentence was changed and he was ordered to hang himself, which he was fool enough to do like many others before him.

Personal.-It is not agreeable to us to allude to personal matters, and we never do it when we can consistently refrain from it; but we must be Holden nominated for Governor so that he might get possession of the Standard, is a very great liar and destitute of principle. We could not be induced to change our present location or position for any other in the State or out of it. We deem it necessary to say this much in order that the report may not mislead any one as to our intentions or desires. [As to the Standard changing hands we know nothing about that, but presume such an occurrence has never been contemplated by its Editors; for had Mr Holden been nominated, his partner, Mr Wilson, no doubt would have contianed the Standard, as he is every way competent to do so.

But it should be borne in mind that there are some people who are simple enough to consider it no more harm to be friendly to Mr W. W. Holden than to Mr anybody else, and at the same time not be liable to have their motives impugned. We desire to avoid and brevent strife between gentlemen professing the same political principles, but if ever the time comes when privileges are denied one class of our fellow citizens and accorded to another, we shall be prepared to resist it; and we entertain no fears as to how the people will decide the matter. We say thus much-we want to say no more.

AN ELECTIVE JUDICIARY .- In New York much dissatisfaction is expressed with the present node of electing Judges by the people, and a movement is made for another Convention to amend the State Constitution in this respect.

The New Orleans Picayune, speaking of the evils of an elective Judiciary, says:

"The experiment of an elective judiciary is a brief one; yet how disastrous has it proved. In San Francisco, where the judges have always been elective, the utter inefficiency of the legal tribunals originated the celebrated Vigilance Committee, that overbore all the authorities of the State. In Wisconsin, a judge lost his election for to about $3,000. having given a decision sustaining the Fugitive Slave law. In this State, notwithstanding the comparative integrity, ability and impartiality of A. P. Calhoun, Esq. President of the Society, the judiciary, several decisions have been attributed to the influence of partisan prejudices, and the majority holding office are denounced, in many quarters, simply because they have known political partialities. The bench, filled by party action, has become the shuttlecock of the press-buffeted for its outgivings -- its mode of election, its motives, Judge Manly is one of the oldest as well as one and even its efficiency and integrity impeached. of the ablest of our Superior Court Judges, and is That we have any able men in such a station is

MR EDITOR: For two years past the commercial interests of our town and county have been much depressed. This has been owing to the short crops and financial embarrasments of the country

It is gratifying, however, to see the greater activity and enlarged business now going on with the merebants of this place.-Their sales have never been better to a better class of customers. This results from their activity in business and the For the best tho ough-bred Stallion over 4 years | natural advantages of the position of Charlotte for commercial enterprise. It is the terminus of two lines of Railroad connections leading North and South, and connecting with the ports of Charleston, Augusta, Wilmington, Newbern and Norfolk or Portsmouth. Its advantages of shipping are Young, $25; best bull calf, W W Holden, $10; therefore superior to any other town in Western North Carolina. Hence the high prices paid for ail kinds of produce, and the cheap rate at which goods are sold. The natural markets for all the leading products of this portion of the State is after rewards. > The rates of shipping by Charleston from New York and New Orleans, are from 20 to 50 per cent. cheaper than by any other route. The reasons of this are obvious. In the first place Charlotte is 83 miles nearer by railway to Charleston than to any Atlantic port in North Carolina. In cultural implements. For best sugar cane sirup, the second place, the S. C. Railroad is the oldest and best established Road in the South. It is almost without grades and curves from Charleston to Columbia-can, with one locomotive, transport 30 cars with 16,000 or 18,000 lbs. of freight in each-its business is principally through freight and its receipts amount to over one and a half millions of dollars annually; hence, it can carry freight at 25 per cent. less than any other road of limited business, and realize more clear profit.

Of all the routes which we have tried and compared by freight bills, Portsmouth is the dearest. The freights are about 50 per cent, higher by this line than via Charleston. But this is not surprising when we consider the number of roads that the freights have to pass over; and the further fact that it is 115 miles further by land than to Charleston. In addition to this, while there has been more delay and expense on freights via Charleston this season than usual, in consequence of the severe affliction of that city from vellow fever. yet owing to the large commercial interests of 'harleston, the amount of her shipping both foreign and coastwise by schooners, brigs, ships and steamers, we are enabled to get goods from New Beautiful DeLain Robes a Laise, points, in about half the time it takes to receive cheap: Satin striped and printed DeLains, (worth $1.25 with active merchants, have created a commercial interest and prosperity invaluable to the farmers, mechanics and manufacturers of Western North OLD MECKLENBURG.

DETENTION OF GOODS.—We have heard serious complaints from some of our merchants, that goods out on the cars at Carolina city for them were not received inside of fifteen or twenty days.
