WEALTH OF CITIES .- The wealth of the two from the field, and all the skimmings from his ket- great cities of Boston and New York amounts to waste the public time by diffuseness, would be tles were turned into his hog troughs. His hogs eight hundred millions of dollars-New York coughed down, or silenced by ridiculous cries of fattened on it, and saved him nearly all the grain having $525,000,000, Boston $275,000,000 or a "Hear, hear." As for any man's reading what He is constantly receiving fresh supplies of the above he had usually consumed for this purpose- little more than one half that of New York. The he may call a speech, that is entirely out of the amounting in value, to not less than $100. He property of Boston is one hundred millions more question. In the first place, it is unparliamentary made one thousand gallons of sirup, which, at fifty than that of the city of Philadelphia, and nearly and the man who attempted it would be put down cents per gallon, amounts to $500. Thus we have twice that of Baltimore. It is said that Boston with crics of "Order," on which the Speaker would $600 for the crop, not to say anything about the has more property, per capita, than any other city have to tell the honorable member, in the gentlest ian name was Desire, it being in his course of member of either house to have an undelivered ference between the renewed and unrenewed man in the exercise of love, he delivered himself to the amusement of his audience, in this way: "Formerly I had no Desire to love, but now I have a Desire to love and I love freely."

. . . . . LIBEL .- The Grand Jury of Williamsburg, Va. found an indictment for libel against the editor of the Williamsburg Gazette, because he had published a card, over a responsible signiture, and paid for as an advertisement, which related to a citizen of that place. The Judge dismissed the case, says the Norfolk Examiner, as unworthy the attention of the Court.

GIRL IN BOY'S CLOTHES .- A young girl, who gave her name as Jane Anderson, was arrested for being found in boy's clothes. She was brought before the Police Court, together with a young man, who answered to the name of Joseph Anderson, and claimed to be her half brother. She states that she has worn the toggery in which she at peared in Court about three years, and that her sex has never before been discovered; that during that time she has been employed upon the steamers, on Lake Erie as cook, steward, &c., and only came west two or three days previous to her arrest, in search of employment. She is about eighteen years of age, and with her hair cut short to her neck, close fitting cloth cap, frock coat, black pants and hopes to secure a share of public patronage in that and boots, looks the youngster of sixteen very well. She has a bright eye, and rather an intelligent look, and although not disposed to talk much, answers all questions civilly. She says that her parents, who are both dead, formerly resided in Buffalo, N. Y., and that that city is her home. She is hardly a fair specimen of the female portion of the city of "ye gentle zephyrs." She claims the right to wear men's clothes if she likes, but says, if they are determined to clothe her in feminine habiliments, they must furnish her with an elaborate wardrobe .- Cincinnati Times.

SOMETHING LIKE BUSINESS.

If the rules of the British Parliament in regard to speech-making, could be introduced into the American Congress, the business of legislation would be much promoted, and the country would talk with which it is every year inundated. We quote the Philadelphia Press:

"There is only one speech on record, delivered in either house of Parliament at any time, which ever approached the longitudinal character of five thousand rupees, for a pair of those woolen heavy Congress oratory, and that was delivered in the Commons, in 1828, by Henry Brougham, on the subject of the administration of the law, in which he exposed its abuses, and suggested all the principal reforms which have since been made. That speech occupied over six hours in delivery. O'Connell, Peel, Lord John Russell, Palmerston, Roebuck, Cobden, Bright, and a few others, have made long speeches-but these long ones are the exceptions. As a general rule, half an hour's speech is considered a very liberal allowance, and that only to a first rate man."

Whoever, of inferior standing, should attempt to manner to "shut up." An extract from a book maybe read in a speech, or a statement of figures. CLERICAL PUNNING .- Parson Twiss, of New but to read a speech itself is impossible. Of Hampshire, has just married a lady whose Christ- | course, then, it is equally out of the question for a remark on a certain Sabbath to illustrate the dif- speech admitted as spoken, and so introduced into the reported debates.

WHAT'S IN A BEARD - A Paris correspondent of the Courier des Etats Unis, tells, in substance, the following story, as one of recent occurrence :--A young man of Lyons, engaged in commercial pursuits, had courted a young lady of that city, and been accepted by her. With much difficulty he was persuaded by his parents to sacrifice, for the ceremony of betrothal, a fine and well cultivated beard. No sooner, however, did he present himself before his intended, than she grew pale, nearly fainted, and finally entreated her parents to postpone the ceremony. The young man yielded, rather surprised; but was still more so, a few days later, when the young lady's parents called on him to state that such was her present aversion to the marriage, they were forced to beg he would discontinue his suit. He consented; but, considering the matter as a mere freak of girlish fancy, still entertained hopes, until he learned the cause of this sudden change. When quite a girl, the young lady had been led by one of her relatives to the scene of a public exccution, and the features of the criminal had left such judelible traces on her mind, that the slightest circumstance was sufficient to bring them before her, as it were, in horrid reality. In the shaved visage of her suitor she recognized a strong resemblance to the executed criminal, and soon felt that not even time could overcome her horror and disgust." attained toold add a digo shiney datt

SCARLETINA AND MEASLES .- Mr. Witt, member of the Royal College of Surgeons, has published a pamphlet, in which he states that bicarbonate of ammonia is a specific for the cure of searlet fever and measles. He cites Dr. Peart, of Liverpool and other practitioners, who have never lost a case out of hundreds since adopting this remedy. Two drachms of the bicarbonate of ammonia are dissolved in five ounces of water, and two tablespoonfuls of the solution given every two, three, or four hours, according to the urgency of the symptoms, No acid drink must be taken, but only water, or toast and water. The system is to be moved by a dose of calomel if necessary. The room must be well ventilated, but the patient protected from the slightest cold or draft. Gargles should also be employed for clearing the throat. The ammonia seems to counteract the poison which causes scar-FOOLISH WAGER .- A man made a wager in letina, and also acts on the system by diminishing Cincinnati on Friday, that he could eat a cheese the frequency, and at the same time increasing the weighing twelve or fifteen pounds.
