SWEET DEFINITION.—A sprightly school girl who attends the "Central High," where the teachers have a way of inciting the pupils to understand what they say in the classes, was reading the "Last of the Huggermuggers," and stirred by the spirit of inquiry, stimulated by her teachers, if not by natural feminine curiosity, asked a boy cousin of hers, the meaning of huggermugger. John looked thoughtful for a moment, and then said-"I'll show you," -and before the incipient woman had time to make any further remark. John had his arm around her waist, and subjected it to a gentle pressure-"That's hug ger; and this (putting his lips to hers in affectionate collision) is mug ger!" "Yes," said the not more than half displeased Sarah Ann-"and this is the last of the huggermuggers Dr. E. NYE HUTCHISON & CO., -for if you ever attempt to give me another such definition, I'll box your ears. I've a great mind to tell Mr. Hall, as I go to school, what sort of dietionary you are carrying about you all the time."-Boston Transcript.

AN ENGLISHWOMAN'S OPINIONS OF AMERI-CAN LADIES .- Madame Bodichon, who has recently published a tract on "Women and Work," expresses her opinion that the life of most women is a practical denial of their duties to God. While on a visit to this country, she was struck by the utter idleness of the "lady class" in society. There is, she says, "in America a large class of ladies who do absolutely nothing. In every large town in the United States there are large hotels or boarding houses, containing several hundred inhabitants each. This hotel population mainty consists of families who live altogether in hotels; and the ladies-having no housekeeping whatever to do-have few of the usual duties of women in Europe, and are more thoroughly given up to idleness and vanity than any women, I believe, in the

These ladies have not the cultivation which glosses over the lives of so many women in Europe, and gives them some solid value in society as upholders of the arts and literature; but are generally full of the strangest affectations and pretentions. The young ladies, especially, reminded me of certain women I have seen in sera-glios, whose whole time was taken up in dressing

E. N and painting their faces; with this difference—the ladies of the East spend their days in adorning themselves to please one lord and master-the ladies of the West, to please all the lords of creation. Which is the noblest ambition?"

She also notices the fact that there is in this country a strong public opinion against women working for a livelihood as in England. We never hear of a father in independent circumstances he can live in some style, he counts on his daughters marrying; and if he cannot, he probably sends them to some relative in a city, who receives them for a long visit, in the hope of 'getting them off.' Many thousands of young girls come to the cities to stay with brothers, uncles, or friends, for this purpose. A worse preparation for any serious life cannot be conceived. Years of idleness are often passed in this way; years spent in nothing but dressing and dissipation; and what does it lead to? Marriage, probably, but what sort of marriages can be formed by young girls looking at the world from such a false position? With such a beginning to life, it is almost impossible the girl can ever become a noble human being." "In America-in that noble, free, new country-it is grievious to see the old, false, snobbish ideas of English, French and American BRUSHES. 'respectability' eating at the heart of society— Lubin's EXTRACTS, Genuine Cologne, for sale by making generations of women idle and corrupt and retarding the onward progress of the Great Republic."

We find a floating paragraph to the effect that when the Hon. Hutchins G. Burton was Governor of North Carolina, a bill was before the House of Commons for furnishing the Governor's house. It met with much opposition, and while it was pending the Governor invited sundry of the warmest opponents of the bill to dine with him. Before the company arose from the table the Governor called for candles. Mrs B ordered the ser- Hardware, Cutlery, Guns, &c., Pills, by return mail. vants to bring them, and as there were no candlesticks, they were set in long necked black bottles. and set upon the table. The next day the bill passed.

THE CHICAGO HEIRESS .- The Chicago Tribune says the name of the young lady who proves to be heir to an immense fortune is Lydia R. Schooley, and not Mary. Her uncle died in England, leaving an immenee estate. His der h occurred in 1790. His heirs were advertised for in the London Times, but never appeared, and the property went to the Crown, and has been accumulating ever since his death. The grandfather of Miss Schooley came to this country wealthy, VALUABLE TOWN PROPERTY leaving wealthy parents in the west of England. The amount of estate is not, of course known, but will probably prove a splendid legacy. Miss Schooley receives the intelligence of her good fortune in a modest and becoming manner, and continues to fulfil her duties as a steamstress, as if the event was of the least importance to her.

JOKE ON THE GOVERNOR .- The Raleigh Giraffe relates the following:

About twilight the other evening, just as our Governor was passing down street to his residence a stranger rode up to the sidewalk before one of the stores and bawled out to His Excellency:

"I say, stranger, won't you be so kind as to hold my horse while I step in here and do a little tra-"Why, my dear fellow," said a bystander, "that is Governor Ellis." "That? He the Governor?"

"Yes." "Well, who cares if it is? Didn't I vote for
