THE LAST SMILE.

I'll never smile that smile again, Which thou didst wake one happy time; I knew thee not, but lov'd thee then As all love in that sunny clime. Thou know'st how wild-hast felt how warm The heart pulsates in such a clime: Which throbs to love's delicious charm Before it dreams of manhood's prime.

I'll never smile that smile again, Because the struggle which it woke Has left behind that ling'ring pain Of apathy. The spell is broke And coldness with its silent power Eats out the freshness of my heart, As when the frost falls on the flower The rosy hues shrink from its mark.

I'll never smile that smile again; For thee it rose, and ne'er before Nor since has beamed; I know 'twas vain ! In mercy think what pangs it bore! The wick must cease to shed its rays, The smiling fountain, too, go dry; The spirit cannot grieve always, The tender feelings too, must die.

The harp that warbles magic tone Must hear its chords in silence break, When vainly are the fingers thrown O'er it, fond notes again to wake;-Even so, this heart, whose chords awoke To thrill for thee, has heard them break; And even thou canst not invoke Those throbs again which thou didst wake. Charlotte, March, 1859.

Agricultural.

FERTILIZING PROPERTIES FROM THE AIR .-A quantity of ammonia and nitric acid, equal perhaps on an acre to one hundred weight of guano, is annually brought down to the soil by the rain, for the benefit of vegetation. Let not the farmer, however, deceive himself, and imagine that he may indulge in idle repose, while nature is thus keeping up the fertility of his lands. But he may profit by this newly-discovered bounty of nature if he will take full advantage of the atmospheric manure by means of drainage, which promotes the equal flow of water through instead of over his soil; by deep cultivation and thorough pulverization of the land, which brings every part of it into contact with the air. The atmosphere is to the farmer like the sea to the fisherman-he who spreads his nets the widest will catch the most.

DITION .- "If I were asked to account for my horses' legs and feet being in better order than those of my neighbors, I should attribute it to the four following circumstances: First, that they are | Manufactory to run by the water power. Also, a good all shod with few nails, so placed in the shoe as to permit the foot to expand every time they move; secondly, that they all live in boxes instead of stalls, and can move whenever they please; thirdly, that they have two hours' daily exercise when they are not at work, and fourthly, that I have not a head-stall or rack-chain in my stable: these four circumstances comprehend the whole mystery of Road, and other articles keeping horses' legs fine, and their feet in sound working condition up to a good old age."

PORK-PACKING IN THE WEST .- In closing up the packing season of this great staple, it is four 1 that the great increase over last year, is over -101 per cent. A recapitulation of sales in the Western States, gives the following result:

will be sold separate from the other Mills, with twenty As imported from the Islands of Chincha and Nevassa; combined and closely manipulated by machinery. No. 1 warranted to contain 8 per cent Ammonia, 45 to 50 per cent Phosphate of Lime. No. 2 warranted to contain 5 per cent Ammonia, 55 to 60 per cent Phosphate of Lime. Surpassing Peruvian Guano in the production of a first crop, and Bone Dust in the durable improvement of soil. "My Manipulated Guano having become the accepted and successful rival of Peruvian Guano, I trust I shall be pardoned for putting upon public record what is so universally known in Baltimore, that I am solely and exclusively the originator of this article by the use of machinery."-American Farmer, 1857.

E have accepted the Agency for the sale of "Kettlewell's Manipulated Guano" at this place, and respectfully call the attention of our planting community to this popular and celebrated Fertilizer. From testimony received at home and from abroad we do not hesitate to recommend it as the most reliable and economical manure now offered to the public for wheat, corn, totton, oats, vegetables and grasses. It will ommend itself for the following reasons:

1st. Because it is imported Guano, intimately combined, so as to meet the wants of crep and soil, and not 2d. Its fine and dry condition, making it ready for immediate application, without seiving and grinding. 3d. In production of crop and permanent improvement of land it surpasses all other Fertilizers, not excepting Peruvian Guano. 4th. Its low price.

Peruvian Guano contains 16 per cent of Ammonia and only 25 to 30 per cent of Phosphate of Lime. By reducing the costly Ammonia one-half, and doubling the Phosphate of Lime, a far more valuable Fertilizer per cent of Ammonia is enough for all crops-more is injurious, besides expensive. Indeed, many prefer the No. 2 Manipulated Guano, because it contains a larger per centage of Phosphate of Lime. In Maryland and irginia this article has been in use extensively for several years on all crops, renovating the old and worn out lands of those States. Our sister State, South Carolina, is a large patron. Cotton planters give it the decided preference where it has been tried.

We beg that you will at least try this article if you are not disposed to venture largely, and assist us in distributing what we believe a public good. CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 27, 1858.

Mr John Kettlewell, Dear Sir: I have tried several kinds of fertilizers the past Spring, viz: Peruvian Guano: Manipulated Guano, prepared by yourself; Tafeu, from the Lodi manufacturing company of New York; also, stable and cow-house manure; all of which I applied to cotton; and I will say that I prefer Kettlewell's manipulated Guano to all of the above named I used the Manipulated in the same field with the Peruvian, and in the same quantities, about 125 lbs to the acre. and I can see no difference in the yield nor in the quality of the cotton. In the same proportions I believe the Manipulated Guano will make as great a yield on cotton, and the quality will be equally as good, as the Peruvian Guano: and it has decidedly the advantage in price and also in the facility of applying it to land. So, at the same price I would prefer the Manipulated Guano. I believe the Peruvian Guano is too high to make it pay in this chmate as the drought of the summers here make our crops too uncertain to use costly Respectfully, yours,
