"HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY." We have it from undoubted authority, that General Leach, the Know Nothing candidate for Congress in this District, the man who was first in Surry, and in other adjoining counties, openly and boldly, to proclaim it, that he had taken, and subscribed to those iniquitous oaths, which we published in our issue of the 20th of May, at Fraley's Store in Iredell county, held up to the people Secretary Cobb's Financial Report, telling them that he was going from that document to show some of the extravagant expenditures of the Ad ministration; and at the same time stating, that if what he was about to read were not true, then, Secretary Cobb had not told the truth. The General commenced reading, as from the above named document, which he held in his hand, extravagant items of expenditure, which his competitor, Mr. Scales, at once detected as being fraudulent and spurious-not being contained in the Report of Mr Cobb. Mr. Scales demanded the document, placed his fingers upon its pages, and was about to use it in reply, when the General discovered that he had been detected, took it from the hands of his competitor, and endeavored to conceal the fact that he had been reading from a base pamphlet, laid within the opened book, that had been gotten up in the State of Virginia, for the purpose of traducing the Administration of Mr. Buchanan, and of defeating the election of the Democratic candidate for Governor in that State, instead of from the document which he held in his hand. A MIRACLE IN NAPLES. -Liquefaction of the blood of San Genarro-A great Humbug.

Learning that the semi-annual miracle of the iquefaction of the blood of San Genarro was to take place on Saturday, being the last day of its eighth repetition, we repaired at an early hour in the morning to the church of Santa Restituta, and so great was the crowd that it was with difficulty we could gain an entrance. The ceremony of liquefaction is the greatest religious festival in the ngdom, and such is the importance attached to it by the ardent imaginations of the Neapolitans, that all the conquerors of the city have considered a necessary piece of State policy to respect it.

eremony, I will explain what is meant by the liquefaction. In the right aisle of the Cathedral in which are preserved two phials said to contain dividing, spread through the town. An alarm the blood of the saint. The ceremony of liquefaction takes place twice in the year, and is each time hastened to secure his goods; but before they had repeated for eight successive days. The tradition even time to shut their shops and stores, bands of of the church represents that when St. Janarius eight and ten soldiers presented themselves at was exposed to be devoured by lions in the different points in the city, some seizing upon all amphithentre of Pozsuoli, the animals prostrated the goods they could arrive at, others preventing themselves before him and became tame. This the tradesmen from closing their doors by main miracle is said to have converted so many to force. At the same time the sergeants and corporals Christianity, that Dracontius ordered the Saint to entered the shops, and by threats forced the owners be decapitated, which sentence was executed at to bring out all the best things they had for the Sallatara in the year 805. The body was buried soldiers to carry off. at Pozzuoli until the time of Constantine, when it | The first goods plundered were those of Madame was removed to Naples and deposited in the church | Scotti, modiste, and of a merchant named Gallarati; of San Genarro. At the time of this removal a after these came those of the silversmiths, then woman who is said to have collected the blood with some provision stores and taverns. The general a sponge at the period of the martyrdom, took it bakehouse was plundered also, and several bundred in two bottles to St. Severus, the bishop, in whose sacks of the flour and wheat, besides a sum of hands it was said to have immediately melted. money, were carried off; the stables were all Here, again, voters of the 6th Congressional The iron tabernacle which contains the phials is robbed, and in every street you saw a Croat with municipal authorities, and the other by the encampment, with a cool impudence which

In fact, the libations were so The New York Sun understands that soldiers bearing crucifixes, banners and candles, copious and frequent that at night they all returned several bets have already been made in that city proceeded with the phials of blood to the cathedral.

At the Cathedral, some time before the ceremonies commenced, a number of old women, of the altar, exhibiting the most wild and uncontrolable excitement. Some of these women were very old. and exhibiting countenances shrivelled and wrinkled ever seen. The relics were exposed in one of the side hapels, called the Chapel of St. Genarro, which was magnificently decorated, the alter being silver, cut in statutes of bas-relief, representing the history of Cardinal Caraffo's bringing back the head of the Saint to Naples. All the dukes and princes were also present in the robes of royalty; and soldiers with muskets and bayonets, were scattered throughout the immense edifice, their plumes waving over the heads of the people in every direction. The Saints head, with a rich mittre upon it-it being fixed to the statue of the Saint-with an archbishop's mantle about the shoulders of the statue, and a rich collar of diamonds | had some experience in the treatment of searlet and cross about the neck, was the first sight that fever, and seen the following remedy used with attracted my attention. The bottles containing the blood, one of which appeared like pitch clotted and hard in the glass, were then shown to the people and turned upside down to show that the among whom were a considerable number of per tea at night; on the third day, if there is any altar a glass was put over them through which salts, which will generally effect a cure; the dose they could be seen by all present.

A series of masses was then commenced, at the of the patient." conclusion of each of which the old women set up the months of August and September will be spent in a most fearful and unearthly howl, the drams and trumpets joined in the discordant blast, and it was difficult to imagine such a horrible clamor to be intended for Christian worship. They, however, seemed almost frantic with religious fervor, as did Particular attention will be given to the moral and also the priests and a large portion of the people present, the cries, screams and sobbing pervading every part of the edifice. These Masses were continued from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon without cessation, except for another procession in the afternoon, during which thirty five large, solid silver statues of saints and martyrs were carried by the soldiers. At the conclusion of the procession the Masses were again resumed with all the accompaniments of excitement and clamor that prevailed in the morning, without the desired liquefaction of the blood taking place. At 5 o'clock, however, the glass was again removed from the bottles, and the blood in the larger one was found to be as limpid as water; and was shown The Institute Buildings are the largest, most elegant and commodious for the accommodation of Cadets in the Southern country; and the Board of Directors trust blasts of trumpets. THE HORRORS OF AUSTRIAN WAR FARE.

The horrors committed by the hordes of savages under the command of Gen. Gyulai are only to be equalled in the accounts of the invasion by Attila. At 81 in the morning, or thereabouts, a numerous band of Austrians, in dirty and torn attire, entered the city of Tortona, and took up their position in the castle. Other bodies followed, so that the town was soon overrun with these beings, more like wild beasts than men. Two superior officers called upon the municipal functionaries to demand food and forage to the amount of 50,000 rations but their conduct was not unbecoming; on the contrary they seemed tolerably polite, and even the behavior of the soldiers at first gave no cause to suspect Before proceeding to give an account of the that they secretly meditated plundering the town. Whatever our first hopes may have been, they were not destined to last long, for very shortly a Santa Restituta, is the chapel of San Genarro, company of Houlans issued from the castle, and spreading through the population, each shop-keeper other trade than thieving. Meanwhile, a certain The ceremony of the liquefaction commenced number of them wended their way to the suburb Stassano, who gave them as much food and drink in a state of intoxication, howling like demons, interspersing their howls with the epithet of "porca Piemontesa" (as a welcome to any inhabitant they the lower orders, who claim to be the relations of might meet) firing their muskets into the windows Saint Janarius, collected around the balustrade of of the houses, and occasioning a general belief that the town would be inevitably set on fire. The citizens had no arms to resist, even had they been so disposed, and now have no food, and the beyond anything in the form of humanity I have place is cleared out completely. The Bishop was assessed at 30,000 francs, some say 35,000, for his share of the war contingent. In the suburbs of the town the same horrors took place; every house was sacked and plundered by these ferocious brutes brilliant with gold ornaments and diamonds and who are styled the "defenders of public order, precious stones. The face of the alter is of massive sustainers of our nationality and our religion. Now that this band of savages has satisfied its appetite, it is leaving us. An order of recall has arrived from headquarters, and they are going off. We hear that at Castelnuova-Scrivia Viguzzio, and Prossecurone, the same outrages were committed and by that threat of firing the town these bandits extorted whatever they wanted from the poor terrified trades-people.

REMEDY FOR SCARLET FEVER .- A lady who has never failing effect, asks us to publish it for the benefit of our readers. It is as follows:

"Immediately on the first symptoms of searlet blood in it was hard and insoluble. They were fever, which is sore throat, give a full dose of jalap, then placed on one side of the alter, one appearing to an adult 60, 70, or 80 grains; at night give like a smelling bottle and only had a mere stain strong red pepper tea, from a tea cup full to a pint, of blood, whilst the other was larger, and seemed according to age and violence of symptoms; the to hold enough to fill a wine glass. They were next day give a small dose of jalap, say half the shown to the persons admitted within the balustrade, quantity given the day before, continue the pep-English Protestants. After being placed on the soreness remaining in the throat, give a dose of must of course be regulated according to the age

The above remedy was used with great success in South Carolina some years ago by Edward Chaplin, who then turnished it for the public.

PLEASURE RIDES .- On several occasions we have noticed the assembling of ladies at funerals merely to get rides to the burial grounds, and have pointed out the impropriety of this conduct, with the hope of bringing about a reformation, but so far little or no change has taken place-the same familiar faces are seen in every procession, and the public have become so accustomed to them, that if one of the party is absent it is immediately concluded that Mrs or Miss is sick or out of town. Even on the streets these ladies are recognized as "universal mourners," and are referred to by that name only .- Richmond Dispatch.

WE CAN'T QUITE SWALLOW IT .- The Medina (Ohio) tells this as what it knows:

and in her struggles also severed the broom-stick Whenever there was any number of English or in twain. Mr Adams, still more alarmed, again the stick was visible at this hole, when it was taken from her. The cow is doing well.

A little three year old girl was riding in the care with her mother a few days since, when a lady remarked, 'That's a pretty baby.' The little girl's eyes flashed fire as she drew herself up to her full "Faith!" replied the Irishman, "an' I thought height, and replied, 'I ain't a baby, I wear daiter be whole strate belonged to ye." Bless her little soul.
