CONTENTMENT BETTER THAN WEALTH.

"Helen, don't you wish you were that little girl riding in the grand carriage?" said little Sarah Brown to her sis, as they sat by an open window, one pleasant summer's afternoon, watching the passers-by.

"Why, Sarah?" asked Helen.

"Why, Helen, don't you see her beautiful pink bonnet, and her lovely white parasol? and, oh! dear, what a splendid silk dress! Helen, she must be very happy. If I had a frock just like that, and could ride in a carriage, how happy I should be!"

Helen and Sarah Brown were the children, of a laborious mechanic in humble, though very comfortable, circumstances.

Mrs. Brown, who was working in the back part of the room, overheard Sarah's remarks, and to correct in the bud what might in the end become a covetous disposition, called the two children to her side.

"Sarah, my daughter, are you not happy?" said the mother.

"Oh yes, mamma, I am very happy indeed," replied Sarah, somewhat surprised by her mother's question.

"And yet my child, did I not hear you wishing for articles, that you might be happy?"

Sarah blushed, as she replied:

"I was only thinking, mamma, that rich people, who can have everything in the world that they want, must be very happy."

"Listen to me, Sarah, and I will tell you a fable of a rich man—and try, my children, to take note of its moral.

"There lived a rich man at the court of King Herod. He was lord chamberlain, and clothed himself in purple and fine linen, and lived in very great magnificence.

"There came to him, from a far distant country, a friend of his youth, who had been his companion when he was a simple country boy, whom he had not seen for many years.

"To do honor to his friend, the chamberlain made a sumptous feast, and invited all his great acquaintances. There stood upon the table a variety of costly delicacies, in gold and silver dishes and costly vases with perfumes and ointments, together with wine of rarest vintage.

"And the rich man sat at the head of the table and was hospitable to all, and his friend who had come from a distant country, sat at his right hand. And they ate and drank, and were satisfied.

"Then the stranger addressed the chamberlain of the King: "Such splendor and magnificence as your house contains is not to be found in my country, far or wide," And he spoke highly of his state, and pronounced him the happiest of men.

"But the rich man, the king's chamberlain, selected an apple from a golden dish. The apple was large and beautiful; its color was yellow, streaked with red. And he took the apple and said: "This apple has rested on gold and its form is very beautiful!" So he reached it to the stranger, the friend of his youth.

"The friend cut the apple, and behold in its middle was a worm. Then the stranger cast his eyes on the chamberlain; but the lord chamberlain looked upon the ground and sighed sorrowfully. There was a worm at the heart of all his grandeur.

"My children, beware of covetousness; for, as Christ Jesus has said: "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." A contented heart, a quiet conscience, a soul at peace with God—these are the true sources of happiness.

"And, now, my daughter, I want you to carry this little proverb in your heart: Contentment is better than wealth."

MESSAGE OF THE PRINCIPAL CHIEF OF THE CHOCTAW NATION.—In the Memphis Enquirer, we find the message of the principal chief of the Choctaw Nation to the local Legislature, convened in extraordinary session, to consider what course the nation should pursue in view of the probable dissolution of the Union. While counselling the several Indian Nations to cast their lot with the Southern States, in the event of their secession, and to send delegates to a Southern Congress, the chief advises the sending of commissioners to Washington to confer with the President of the United States, and to look after the security of their moneyed investments. In conclusion, he calls upon his countrymen to stand by their rights, and never surrender them, even though national annihilation should be the consequence of refusal to submit. The general council responded to the message of their chief by passing a series of resolutions recognizing it to be the duty and interest of the Choctaw Nation to unite their destinies with the Southern Confederacy.

THE COOLEST THING ON RECORD.

As General Scott's army was marching triumphantly into the city of Mexico, a procession of monks emerged from the gate of a convent situated on an eminence to the right, and advanced with slow and measured tread until they met the army at right angles. The guide or leader of the procession was a venerable priest, whose hair was whitened with the frosts of many winters. He held in both hands a contribution box, upon which there was a lighted candle, and when within a few feet of the army the procession halted. As the army proceeded, many a true believer in St. Patrick, dropped some small coin or other in the old priest's box. And when it was observed that a soldier was searching in his pockets for something to bestow, the old priest would step forward and hold his box to receive the donation.

Ultimately, there came along a tall, gaunt, limber-sided, gander-looking Yankee, who, on seeing the old priest, thrust his hands to the very depths of his breeches pockets, as if in search of a dime or something of the kind. The priest, observing this movement, advanced as usual, while Johnathan holding forth a greasy looking roll of paper, commenced very deliberately unfolding it. The old priest anticipated a liberal donation, and put on an air of the most exquisite satisfaction. Jonathan continued to unroll piece after piece of dirty paper, until at length he found a piece of tri-twisted smoking tobacco. He next thrust his hand into another pocket, and drew forth a clay pipe, which with the utmost deliberation he proceeded to fill by pinching off small particles of the tobacco. When this was done, having replaced his tobacco in his breeches pocket, he stooped forward and lighted his pipe by the old priest's candle, and making an awkward inclination of the head, (intended perhaps, for a bow,) he said, "Much obleged to ye, Squire," and proceeded on.

SUICIDE.—An inquest was held at Holly Grove, Gates county, N. C., on the 23d ult., over the dead body of Dr. R. T. Brothers, a recent graduate of the Baltimore Medical College. The facts adduced before the jury were briefly these: Deceased went in the store (of which he is part owner) on Saturday morning, took down a bolt of cotton cloth, tore off a small piece, and went out the back door. His conduct was a little strange, but excited no suspicion at the time. At dinner he was absent, but still there was no suspicion of anything like personal violence. His continued absence, however, until and after night aroused the fears of his wife, who soon made them known. A party started in search of him and found his body lying in the woods, a few hundred yards from the store. Beside it lay a cocoa-nut which had evidently contained chloroform, and the piece of cotton cloth, steeped in the liquid, was placed on the ground, and the unfortunate young man lying with his face upon it.—Petersburg Express.

MRS. WINSLOW,

An experienced Nurse and Female Physician, presents to the attention of mothers, her

SOOTHING SYRUP,

For Children Teething,

which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflamation—will allay all pain and spasmodic action, and is Sure to Regulate the Bowels.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves and relief and health to your infants.

We have put up and sold this article for over ten years, and CAN SAY, IN CONFIDENCE AND TRUTH, of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED, IN A SINGLE INSTANCE, TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW," after ten years' experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfillment of what we here declare. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.

FOR CHILDREN Teething.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most EXPERIENCED and SKILLFUL NURSES in New England, and has been used with never-failing success in thousands of cases.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve GRIPING IN THE BOWELS, and wind colic, and overcomes convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death. We believe it the best and SUREST REMEDY IN THE WORLD, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in Children, whether it arises from teething, or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—Do NOT LET YOUR PREJUDICES, nor the prejudices of others, stand between you and your suffering child, and the relief that will be sure—yes, absolutely sure—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

Sold by Druggists throughout the world.

Principal Office, 13 Cedar street, N. Y.

Price only 25 cents per Bottle. ☜
