"TWENTY-FIVE YEARS MARRIED."

This is the signature of a writer in the Germantown Telegraph, who gives her sister wives some excellent advice. We copy in part and have an extract from a South Carolina paper contial benefit from them. Such are too apt to say tea. Coffee was then scarcely known. In the whiningly with the song,

"Oh, if I was but young again I'd lead a different life, Save my money, buy me a farm, Take Dinah for my wife," and so forth. Now it would be a great deal better if you and Dinah would just "buckle to" and go it strong for the time you have left. Never too late to become industrious and economical. Try it. Read the good advice we append:

"I have had considerable experience in the routine duties of housekeeping, and with your permission will say a word or two on this important subject to every family.

"There is far more depending on a well ordered household, than a vast majority of married women would seem to believe. On looking around how much system and economy would accomplish, if properly observed. I began married life early; my husband had no other income to rely upon than the labor of his own hands. We lived in a small house, having attached to it a small garden. Providence blessed us with good health. My dutics multiplied by increase of years; but they were carefully laid down and punctually performed. We rose early, breakfasted, dined and supped at exact hours, as most families do. Every hour in the day had its allotted duty or arrangement, and everything was done in accordance with it.

By this means a perfect system was maintained reducing the labor of a family nearly one-halt; and in this way I had ample time for reading, receiving and returning visits, out door exercises, &c. Expenditures in every department were made caretully, and thus while we wanted for nothing which persons in moderate circumstances needed, there was an exact account kept of the amount of income and outlay, and we made it a point always to keep extended business on the part of my husband, and | ment be made between the banks in other cities? profits augmented until we have a full, and I may ay an abundant share of this world's goods. My husband and I unite, however, in the conviction that this fortunate result of circumstances is mainly owing to the system and economy established in our young married life, and the smiles of Providence upon our industry, and our effort to perform | the branches of a liberal education has been employed our duty in every relation of life.

The great error committed by young housekeepers is the thoughtless and unnecessary expenditure of money which they cannot afford; and in play-houses, bar-rooms, club-rooms, worthless exhibitions, parades, and other places of resort. By remaining at home with their wives and families, and enjoying domestic comforts, they will in the Tuition for day Scholars, end he found to be more enduring and satisfying than all the rest combined. Young wives, also, should find their highest happiness in their homes -in meeting and welcoming their husbands to the spot which ought to be their mutual paradise; and I am certain, their safest road to prosperity is in establishing and observing strictly system and

A PLUCKY WOMAN .- We know of a Northern burn and Northern raised lady, who married a Southern planter, and who, with her husband, makes her abode at a point just back of a certain city on the Mississippi river, not a hundred thousand miles above New Orleans. This lady has never let an occasion slip on which she could abuse and villify the Southern Confederacy. A short time since she was on board a steamer, going up from New Orleans, and was, as usual, wagging her tongue at a 240 rate against our section. Among her auditory was a lady of the true Southern grit, who listened to the harangue, while her cheeks grew pale and red by turns, and her teeth made deep indentations in her coral lips. At last, when she could stand it no longer, the Southern matron | W. H. Simpson, surviving Executor of Henry Chaney, rose from her sent and walked over to where the female speaker was letting off her abolition gas, and, shaking her finger in that lady's face, slowly and distinctly said :

" Madame, I have a husband, two sons and three brothers in the army of the Southern Confederacy. They are fighting for their country, and if they are killed, they will die like gallant men, and however great the loss may be to me, I shall have the consolation of knowing they fell in a good cause. You are a woman, and you talk as you do because you know that no Southern gentleman will force you to stop. I am a Southern woman, and I | tion set for hearing. now tell you that you shall not abuse my people in my presence. If you say another word against the Southern Confederacy, I shall whip you in the

have been an awful wreck of de laini and crinoline if that Yankee woman hadn't been immediately struck dumb. To make safety doubly sure, she also retired to her state-room, and locked the door, with the key inside.

That's the style of woman for Louisiana to awear by -N. O. Delta.

NORTH CAROLINA TROOPS .- It is highly grating to observe how completely equipped and med, the N. C. troops are that pass through this city to the seat of war. We have not in a single instance, noticed an inefficiently equipped man from that State. Their uniforms are plain, but comfortable and most substantial, they are made for wear and use-not for show. Their arms are all brightly burnished and kept in the best possible order. North Carolina may well be proud of her gallant troops; they are the admiration of all who see them .- Petersburg Express.

SUBSTITUTE FOR COFFEE. From the Payetteville Observer.

Messrs. Hale: In one of your late papers, you change of time coffee has become, especially at the South, an essential article of household beverage. been used. I have seen rye, wheat, and peas, roasted and used. Carrots also, I have seen sliced, dried and used for the same purpose. But of all the articles used as a substitute, there is nothing so good, whether in place of tea or coffee, as a plant which is abundant in eastern Carolina, viz: vopon. I speak from personal knowledge. I have used it for several years, and have no hesitation in saying that for me, at least, it is much better than the Chinese tea, or coffee. For three years I have scarcely tasted any other table beverage. Seamen employed in some of our seaports use it much, and it is an observation made among them that they can do more work, and endure more fatigue in using yopon than coffee. The taste may at first not be quite so palatable, but a little use makes it quite agreeable. A little more care in preparing the article would undoubtedly improve the taste. In the Province of Paraguay, and in neighboring territories, yopon forms an important article of commerce. It is gathered in large quantities, and is an established article of traffic among the traders. In this day of retrenchment, I know of no article which so justly merits the attention of every North Carolinian as a substitute for these table beverages that have become so difficult to be
