It was printed exactly like the Dispatch at Richmond, and filled with desponding and despairing his communication with the York, capturing or articles, pronouncing the southern cause without hope, and predicting that McClellan would take Richmond. To-day the remains of that confident and threatening host lie upon the banks of James river, thirty miles from Richmond, seeking to recover, under the protection of his gunboats, from the effects of a series of disastrous defeats.

The battle beginning on the afternoon of the 26th June, above Mechanicsville, continued until sistance were overcome and our army swept resistlessly down the north side of the Chickahominy until it reached the rear of the enemy, and broke causing the destruction of many valuable stores, and, by the decisive battle of Friday, foreing the enemy from his line of powerful fortifications placed by the enemy in his rear would permit; the blockade, at $1,379,289 68. three times overtaking his flying column, and as often driving him with slaughter from the

The Washington correspondent of the New York Times states that Gen. Fremont was relieved of his command in consequence of his having boasted of a great victory at Cross Keys "when we were actually repulsed with terrible loss." The War Department thus lost confidence in the candor of the commanding General. If this be the fact, what is to become of Gen. Halleck and Gen. McClellan, whose magnificent Munchausenisms have made their names world-famous?

The Yankeeized New Orleans Delta, of the 5th instant, notices in a very spiteful manner the fact that the British armed vessels in the Mississippi river near New Orleans did not, on the 4th of or thrown away by the Yankee troops while exewere necessary to pursue and overtake the flying July, pay the usual compliment to the United cuting their "grand strategic movement." THE EVACUATION OF COBINTH .- A COTTOSndent of the New York World, writing from Corinth, Miss., under date of June 1st, says: "But I do religiously believe that it is best now for the commonwealth to hear and heed what is a bitter undisputed fact-the Confederate strategy since the battle of Shiloh has been as successful as it has been superior. Taking the enemy's stand point and writing when and where I do, I cannot possibly imagine how it could have been sore eminent for perfection or success. Taking our stand-point, the stand point of the Union's hopes and Halleck's fame, I cannot possibly imagine how it could have been more mortifyingly disastrous. If the attack at Shiloh was a surprise to Ge. Grant, the evacuation of Corinth was no less a surprise to Gen. Halleck. If the one ruined Grant, the other has laid out in pallid death the military name and fame of Major Gen. Halleck. That order, " Don't bring on a general engagement," now a household word that makes this army wince, lasted, I am reliably informed, down to an hour when there was no enemy with whom it was possible to bring on a general engagement."

Yankee prisoners say they lost in the last tion before Richmond, Government clocks sees at battles not less than 50,000 men, killed, wounded and prisoners. This estimate is corroborated by every person we have conversed with, who had an opportunity to form a judgment. Including the battle of Williamsburg, and the loss from sickness, we feel convinced that McClellan is a sufferer, since he landed on the fatal peninsula, to the tune of at least 80,000 men. Our own loss-putting that in the last battles at 15,000 killed, wounded and missing, is about 25,000 in the last three months. McClellan has been several times reinforced; on one occassion by 40,000 men. He has now probably, about 70,000 with him.

Since the great battles below Richmond, the railway and wagon trains have been kept busily employed in bringing in the property abandoned wards of twenty-five thousand muskets have been received at the Government Arsenal, many of them in a damaged condition; besides a number of superior field pieces, and a vast quantity of ammunition, equipments, and clothing .- Richmond Dispatch.

Speculator gave it as his candid opinion, founded upon minute investigations and inquiries among wheat growers, as well as a profound acquaintance with the operation of demand and supply, that prices would range this season from forty to one hundred dollars per barrel, and indeed if corn was short, they might go up to one humilred and fifty. Upon these assurances every grain of wheat is treasured up as though it were that much silver, and in the minds of some it was worth its weight in silver. These delasions are going to hurt the farmers. The yield of wheat was scant, and very inferior, but a much larger breadth of land than usual having been sown in that grain, it may be queetioned whether there is not after all, almost as much wheat is Georgia as there was last year. NINE SONS IN THE ARMY .- A. E. D. Chauneey, of Montgomery county, N. C., writes us that he has nine sons in the Confederate service. Five of them are in Co. E, 28th Reg't. They average in height a fraction over 6 feet, and in weight 165 lbs. They are all between 18 and 35. Mr Chauncey may well challenge the Confederacy to beat this. We hope that his "material aid" to the cause will not be at the expense of either life or limb in his large family .- Fayetteville Obsercer.

WHAT ALABAMA HAS DONE .--- The Montgo mery "Advertiser" says that "from the most accurate estimate that can be made from the returns of the probate judges and sheriffs of the counties, Alabama has sent to the war from first to last, about sixty-five thousand men, out of a voting population of some eighty-five thousand. Of these the State has armed nineteen thousand and equipped eight thousand. Alabama also turned over to the Confederacy twenty-one thousand stand of arms, captured by their own troops from Mount Vernon arsenal."- Richmond Enquirer.

Alabama has done well, but not quite as much as North Carolina. In fact, no State is up to N. Carolina in the good work, except Virginia.

THE ARMY OF THE WEST .- Gen. Bragg has issued a general order assuming the command of the Army of the West, as successor to Gen. Beauregard, who has been relieved. He concludes as follows:

"A few more days of needful preparation and organization, and I shall give our banners to the breeze-shall lead you to emulate the soldiers of the Confederacy in the East, and with the confident trust you will gain additional honors to those you have already won on other fields; but he prepared to undergo privation and labor with cheerfulness and alacrity.'

The Knoxville (Tenn) "Register," of June 26th, says that the Federals are commiting serious depredations on private property in East Tennessee, while passing themselves off as Morgan's men. This is doubtless done to bring odium upon the gallant Morgan, and induce the people to fear the Confederates. The Colonel will, no doubt, set things to rights there ere long. The "Register" says that he is to be transferred to the department of Gen. Bragg, who succeeds Gen. Beauregardthe latter retiring on account of ill health.

field, leaving his numerous dead and wounded in our hands in every conflict.

The immediate fruits of our success are the relief of Richmond from a state of siege, the rout of the great army that so long menaced its safety. many thousand prisoners, including officers of high rank, the capture or destruction of stores to the value of millions, and the acquisition of thousands of arms and fifty-one pieces of superior artillery.

The service rendered to the country in this short but eventful period, can scarcely be estimated, and the General Commanding cannot adequately express his admiration of the courage, endurance and soldierly conduct of the officers and men engaged.

Those brilliant results have cost us many brave men; but, while we mourn the loss of our gallant dead, let us not forget that they died nobly in de fence of their country's freedom, and have linked their memory with an event that will live forever in the hearts of a grateful people.

Soldiers! Your country will thank you for the heroic conduct you have displayed - conduct worthy of men engaged in a cause so just and deserving a nation's gratitude and praise. By command of General Lee.

------ANNOYING THE ENEMY

On Thursday a Confederate battery of eight guns having been placed in a position on James River commanding the channel below Berkeley, opened a very effective fird on several Federal transports, convoyed by two or three gunboats, as they were ascending the stream. The river was narrow, and as the shot from our guns fell thick and fast among the federal craft, the consternation among the yankees was great. The gunboats attempted to return the fire, but the elevated position of our guns rendered the enemy's fire comparatively harmless. Over fifty shots were fired, striking several of the federal boats and damaging them severely. The large transport Daniel Webster, crowded with troops, suffered more than any other; she, from some cause unknown to us, making slower progress in escaping from the scene of danger. In addition to the fire from our field pieces, we had some 250 sharp-shooters lining the bank of the river, who poured repeated volleys on those occupying the decks of the steamers. Many must have been killed, the range being short, and the sharp-shooters comprising several of our most expert marksmen.

The Daniel Webster was afterwards seen lying but a short distance from Berkeley apparently useless, many holes in her sides being distinctly visible, and her smoke stack, railings, and other upper works bearing palpable evidence of the damaging and a nuisance. Away with him ! effects of the fire from our guns. Our men escaped without injury. The latter facts we learn from a gentleman who passed up James River carceration in a Northern dungeon. under a flag of truce from Old Point.

THE "ANACONDA" DEFUNCT.

The Tribune acknowledges that the great Inaconda which was to surround and crush out this "infamous rebellion," is defunct. He is right, hear him :

Advices from various quarters justify the grativing belief that that conception of ineffable stuidity, the grand Union "Anaconda" is defunct. Henceforth, we are confident, the policy of massng our disposable troops into one grand army and urling it swiftly and strongly upon the chief strongholds of the rebellion will be successfully adhered to. The Anaconda has cost us a year's ime, one hundred thousand men, and five hundred millions of money, and its fruits are not at all commensurate with the cost. Had it never be assessed 23 cents, every time a lawyer humbugs been conceived, we should have failed to take a judge $5, for humbugging a jury $1, and on New Orleans and some other ports quite so soon, every judicial charge, exceeding twenty lines, while we should have ere this utterly extinguished $1 50 per line. the rebellion in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee.

The "Anaconda" makes a present to the rebels of the all but exclusive use of railroads and telegraphs. It enables the enemy to choose among our several army corps that one on which he shall precipitate his entire movable force. It enables every possible sack and barrel of that commodity, the field than he has. It enables him to know the of the planters. Under the impulse of these result of any conflict within a few hours after its demonstrations flour rose at once from ten to occurrence, while we must wait a fortnight for any twenty odd dollars per barrel, and prudent house account of it but such as he chooses to give us.
