THE ARMY REVIVAL .- A correspondent of the Richmond Enquirer speaks as follows of the great religious revival now going on in the Confederate Army at Fredericksburg:

"The religious interest is the most extensive army revival of which we have heard in the Confederacy. Exclusive of reclaimed backsliders-of those who have been savingly benefited, not stationed in the city, and of others still who have not made known their impressions-one hundred and sixty soldiers out of one brigade have enrolled their names as professing religion and members of the Soldiers' Camp Church. WHAT DOES IT MEAN.

We sometimes see in the papers the remark, that unless certain things are done, "the people will stop the war." What does it mean? MESSRS. EDITORS:-The dispatches daily published in your paper from the seat of war in the Mississippi Valley are so erroneous in topography, as to be totally unintelligible to the mass of your Mansfield, Connecticut, at Antietam, September readers. To me they are provokingly absurd. This remark applies as well to our as to the Yankee accounts. Having lived five years in the middle ground of the deha formed by the Mississippi and Yazoo rivers, it may not be presumptuous to state that from Memphis to Vicksburg, there is no high land. The country is one unbroken swamp permeated by rivers and byous, and dotted over with lakes and cypress ponds. These rivers and byous have none of the characteristics of and fall being mostly dry, they grow up in frees, place, and the fire leaped cheerily up the chimney Lake, flows on into Swan Lake, a little east of Black or Alligator Byou. From Swan Lake it and circumstances of the alleged offence. The takes the name of Steele's Byou, continuing parallel with the Missisippi, at the distance of not more than eight miles at any point, till it enters the Yazoo just above its mouth. It is through this Byou that the Yankees boast of having passed cun-boats to get by our batteries on the Yazoo. It amounts to nothing more than a by-path through the woods to arrive at the same mouth of the Yazoo, which is indeed opposite to Grant's late camp at Young's Point, twenty miles above Vicksburg, and twenty miles below Milliken's woman was married to a colored man; but not one Bend, his present encampment. To-day, April 2d, they say their expedition through Deer Creek is a success This is the next Byou (for it is nothing else) eastwardly, and rises or runs out of Lake Bolivar, passing through Yazoo just above the battle-ground of last Decems pay the expense, not exceeding $50, in each case ber. It divides near the county line between the two last named counties, losing half its waters through Rolling Fork into the Little Sunflower River. This was the place meant in the dispatch of the 25th from Mobile, which asserted that Col. Furgerson had repulsed the enemy at the mouth of Deep Creek on the Sunflower, 38 miles from its junction with the Yazoo. That account is not true, as the fleet (if it could enter the upper Sunflower at all) would have had to cut its way at least 100 miles through that portion of the river never hitherto navigated by keelboats even. I assert that no expedition can leave the Missis- and hypocrite, made use of the following language: sippi river and enter the Yazoo through Deer Creek, either in high or low water, now that the Mississippi is up, but because of 75 to 80 miles of rafts and living trees.

Next is the Sunflower, which rises in Coahoma county, a little below the Yazoo pass. Being in the-middle of the great basin it is much larger, and having a length of 200 miles or more, it runs all the summer, and may be properly called a river. At or about the county line of Washington and Issequena it too divides -- one half, called the Big Sunflower, entering the Yazoo above Haine's Bluff; the other half, called Little Sunflower, en-The General Assembly of this State at its recent | tering the Yazoo six miles below the "Mound," ession passed the following Act. MORALS OF YANKER OFFICERS .- A COFFEEpondent in the Yankee Army, writing from Tennessee to the Chicago Times, says :

that section. Old Brownlow.- In the course of his reception speech in New-York this miserable old scoundrel

Andrew Johnson has in him to-night a devil as big (and there is one in the bosom of every Union man in Tennessee) as my hat; and whenever the Federal army shall find its way there we will shoot the rebels like dogs, and bang them on every limb we come to. [Applause.] They have had their time of hanging and shooting, and our time comes next, and I hope to God that it will not be long. I am watching in the papers the movement of the army, and whenever I hear that my country is captured I intend to return, post baste, and point out the rebels. [Cheers.] I have no other ambition on earth but to resurrect the Knoxville Whig and get it in full blast with 100,000 subscribers. [Cheers] And then, as opinion of some of them " [Great laughter.] If I have any talent in God's earth it is the talent to pile up epithet, one upon another. [Laughter
