The Convention.

We publish a fair abstract of the proceedings of the Convention for the past week. Our readers know that we have not been censorious or abusive of the members of the Convention; but the proceedings will justify us in finding fault with some of the acts in spending the people's money.

The action of the Convention in voting to each member Eight Dollars per day and traveling expenses, and Twelve Dollars per day for the President, is outrageous extravagance. Many of the tax-payers of the State are greatly embarrassed, and have much difficulty in procuring bread and meat for their wives and children; and yet these persons who went to Raleigh to reconstruct the State government, vote themselves an enormous amount of pay. It is creditable to seven of the colored members that they voted against such extravagance. No member of a Convention or Legislature in this State ever before voted himself more than six dollars per day, (good money) and when the pay was only $6, board in Raleigh was higher than it is at present.

Executive Chamber, State of N. C., Raleigh, Jan. 23d, 1868. Gentlemen of the Convention:—I had the honor yesterday to be informed through your committee, that your body was duly organized and ready to receive any communication that I might be willing to make. I desire you to accept my thanks for this mark of your courtesy. I regard your resolution as simply an official notification of your organization, with a view of such official intercourse and communication as may be deemed necessary, as it seems to me it would be improper if not indelicate, that I should present to you any views of mine, touching the object for which you are assembled, unless in response to a specific inquiry.

Upon due notice of your wish to be furnished with any information, contained in the archives of the State, under my control, such will be promptly supplied. May a superintending Providence inspire you with wisdom to conduct your labors to results beneficial to our unhappy and distracted people.

THE COTTON TAX.—Congress has at last settled the question about the tax on Cotton. The tax is repealed, but only to apply to that hereafter produced. The past year's crop is not exempted from taxation.

CONSISTENCY.—Last Spring the New York Herald urged Congress to pass the Reconstruction measures, forcing on the South negro suffrage and the disfranchisement of white men; and now, every day, the Herald abuses Congress for passing those Acts. "The longest pole knocks down the possessor"—and the most money will buy the N. Y. Herald. Such papers are a disgrace to civilization, while honesty and truth veil their faces in shame and disgust.

LOOK OUT FOR HORSE THIEVES.—The Wadesboro Argus states that several horses have recently been stolen in Anson county. It would be well for people to keep a look-out on their stables—and if some grand rascal gets shot it will make no difference.

CHARITABLE.—We notice in several of our State exchanges gratuitous advertisements and editorial notices, advising the people to subscribe for certain Northern newspapers and Magazines. This is decidedly charitable. But the result, generally, is the failure and suspension of the papers that publish such advice. They have no right to complain if people take their advice and withdraw support from their home publications. Charity is a good thing sometimes for somebody.

DIVORCING.—It is but seldom that a Divorce case appears on the docket of the Courts of the good Old North State, but whenever such an unfortunate affair does happen it attracts general attention, and therefore we give the following item from the Goldsboro News. Although unusual, the man in this case came out first best:

The extra term of the Superior Court for Wayne closed on Saturday afternoon after a session of two weeks, in which there was a great deal of business transacted. The only case of general interest was that of Mary A. Wood vs. J. N. Wood, for Divorce. Messrs. Faircloth and J. F. Wooten appeared for the petitioner, and Messrs. Dorch, Strong and Morfey for the defence. During the two days occupied in the trial, the most intense interest was manifested, and the case was submitted to the jury without argument, who found all issues in favor of the defendant.

Our friends of the Newbern Journal of Commerce, Wilmington Journal, Wilmington Star, Salisbury Old North State, &c., will take your notice thereof and govern themselves accordingly.

Physician and Surgeon—Dr Robert Gibbon. Medical Notice—J P McCombs, M. D. Boot and Shoe—J D Love, Wilmington. Boot and Shoe Store—B R Smith & Co.

The Relief Ordinances (SO CALLED.)

It will be seen by the proceedings of the Convention that several measures for the benefit of debtors have been introduced in the Convention now in session at Raleigh.

The first stay law that was passed by the Legislature in the Fall of 1861 was unfortunate, and we protested against it at the time. If it had not been for that stay law most of the debts would have been arranged during the first two years of the war in Confederate money, and the people generally would now be free from embarrassment. But, inasmuch as that law deceived the debtors, it is necessary to continue the relief in some way to prevent the ruin of a few good men. No doubt a great deal of rascality and dishonesty have been practised under the protection of stay laws, and those who passed the first law of that sort are to blame for it, and ought to receive the censure of debtors as well as creditors.

Honesty, fairness and common sense would dictate that the creditor should receive some protection as well as the debtor. The man who credited his neighbor, when in distress, by selling him property or goods, or loaned him money, is certainly entitled to protection and relief, but law-makers do not seem to ever think about that, and the result is that the stay laws which have been passed, as well as those proposed, are incentives to dishonesty and villainy. We use plain words because we think that much harm and but little good have been done by stay laws. Though we are not now opposed to fair and honest protection to debtors who are willing to do what is right and honorable.

There are many good men who still need credit for supplies, or for money; but how can they get it when Legislatures, Conventions and military orders only protect the debtor, and treats the creditor as a hard-hearted vampire? The legislation that we have had in this State for several years past is enough to squeeze every sympathetic and charitable feeling out of any man.

We repeat, that we are not opposed to any measure for protecting and relieving honest debtors, but let it be afforded in an honest manner, and let the creditor (the man who has shown a disposition to trust and aid his neighbor) be also protected.

Individually, we are not particularly interested as a creditor or debtor, but we intend always to stand up for right, honesty and fair play.

The Latest Reconstruction Measure.

The House of Representatives has passed another bill in regard to reconstructing the Southern States. This new measure deprives the President of the exercise of powers expressly conferred upon him by the Constitution of the United States. We published the Bill last week, and will now merely give its main provisions:

Section 1. That the existing provisional civil State Governments in the ten unreconstructed States, shall not be recognized by the Executive or judicial authorities of the United States.

Sec. 2. That the General of the army (Gen. Grant) shall have full and absolute authority in the execution of the Reconstruction laws over each and all the ten States embraced in the five Southern Military districts.

Sec. 3. That the General of the army, in his discretion, may remove and appoint the civil officers in each of the ten States, and the President shall not interfere with him in these matters or in the appointment of the military district commanders.

According to this, Gen. Grant is to exercise the power heretofore exercised only by Presidents. Grant can't give us any worse commanders than Mr Johnson gave us, but the principle of the Bill is the thing—it is subversive of the Constitution, and all who voted for it violated their oaths.

The Bill was under consideration in the Senate on Thursday and Friday last. The proceedings of Thursday give the following item:

Mr Doollittle spoke in opposition to the bill, and said that when Latium, a Roman province, revolted and was subdued, it became a question in the Roman Senate what should be done with Latium and the people of Latium. There were some who cried disfranchise them, and others said confiscate their property, and there were others again who said, "subject them in vassalage to their slaves," but old Camillus, in that speech which revealed his greatness and made his name immortal, said: "Senators make them your fellow-citizens, and thus add to the glory and power of Rome." Doollittle added: "In this high place, in this Senate of the great republic of the world, the outgrowth of the civilization of the world, cannot we, Senators, rise to the height of that great argument?"

LOOK OUT FOR HORSE THIEVES.—The Wadesboro Argus states that several horses have recently been stolen in Anson county. It would be well for people to keep a look-out on their stables—and if some grand rascal gets shot it will make no difference.

CHARITABLE.—We notice in several of our State exchanges gratuitous advertisements and editorial notices, advising the people to subscribe for certain Northern newspapers and Magazines. American and English Laborers.

Some of the laborers of this country (and especially the negroes of the South) may think they have a "hard lot" in their toils for a living, but if they reflect as to the condition of many of the laboring class in other portions of the world, they will learn that theirs is a comparatively easy one.

Our authority for this remark is an article in the London Quarterly Review. Speaking of the hardships of laborers in the agricultural districts of England, it says:

"The situation of the cottages in some of the rural districts is most lamentable. Their narrow dwellings barely suffice shelter to inmates, and in cases of large families they crowd together so closely that imperfect ventilation and insufficient food, prove fruitful sources of pestilence and disease. In such cases, the narrow tenement forbids the possibility of separating the sick from the well, the parent from the children, or the children from each other; that miserable economy in fitting up the cottage, which so generally has denied the only bed-room either a fire-place or a window to ventilate the air, the noise of quarrelous children, the stench of confined air, rendered epidemic by malarial effluvia; the vermin so frequently swarming on the bodies and rags of the wretched inhabitants. All these causes acting together prostrate affliction, prevent a return to health and indicate a depth of misery which it is hardly possible to endure. Such, with few exceptions, is the state of more than a million of human beings in England alone."

Again: "And this distress arises not so much from sickness, idleness, or prodigality, as from the absolute impossibility which a day laborer finds in supporting his family by his daily wages. The poor scarcely know what it is to eat meat, and yet dispensing with that material requisite for comfort, does not enable them to keep their families together in such a but as we have described."

When was the usage of even the negro at the South such as this?

This Review also gives a specimen of the way children are worked: "Little girls are employed in bellows-blowing for fourteen hours a day, standing on platforms to enable them to reach the handles of the bellows. The children who work at home in the various domestic manufactures, are so injured by premature labor, often commencing from the age of seven, that, as a rule, they are stunted, dwarfed, and deformed. An instance is given of a father having worked his three young boys from four in the morning until twelve at night for weeks together."

Again: "Two girls, nine and ten years of age, were working as strikers, and a little girl of eight, occasionally relieved by a still younger one of six, was working the bellows."

List of North Carolina Soldiers who yet remain Buried at and around the Battle Field of Gettysburg.

Capt. J. M. Tate, an officer in one of the N. C. Regiments (now a resident of New York, 53 Chambers Street) has recently been to the battle field of Gettysburg, and procured the following list of North Carolina soldiers who still lie buried in that vicinity. He procured the list from Samuel Weaver of Gettysburg, who marked the graves and will disinter and forward the bodies by Express to any point in North Carolina for the sum of $20:
