God's PLAN OF YOUR LIFE.-Never

complain of your birth, your training, your employment, your hardships; never fancy that you could be something, if you only had a different lot and sphere assigned you. God understands his own plans, and he knows what you want a great deal better than you do. The very things that you most depreciate as fatal limitations or obstructions, are probably what you most want. What you call hindrances, obstacles, discouragements, are probably God's op-portunities; and it is nothing new that the patient should dislike his medicines, or any certain proof that they are poisons.

No! a truce to all impatience! Choke that foolish envy which gnaws at your heart because you are not in the same lot with others; bring down your soul, or rather, bring it up to receive God's will, and do

His work in your lot in your sphere, under your cloud of obscurity, against your temptations; and then you shall find that your condition is never opposed to your good, but really consistent with it .-

My boat is on the open sea Which storms and tempests toss, I know not of the ills to meet Before I get across.

I do not know how long or short The fitful voyage may be; But patiently I'll abide His time Who built the boat for me.

'Tis fully manned in every part, Hope is the anchor fair; The compass that it has is faith,

And every oar is prayer. Sometimes I see the breakers nigh, The ocean madly roars,

But all I do is simply this:

Bend closer to the oars. At times the waves run mountain high And threaten me to strand; I fear not, for he holds them in The hollow of his hand.

The fog at times obscures my course, I see the way but dim; But well I know I cannot drift Beyond the sight of him.

I know not where the shoals may lie, Nor where the whirlpools be, It is enough dear Lord, to feel That they are known to thee. And thus content I glide along,

If either slow or fast, Well knowing he will surely bring Me safe to port at last.

A Husband's Love.

It is easy enough to win a husband Most any attractive little dumpling with a bright eye and a coaxing voice can gather in a noble husband, but it is pretty difficult to retain him. Noble husbands are thicker than hair on a dog, but the grand difficulty is to draw out their true nobility and others-Special Proceedings for Partition. understands her business she can introduce entitled cause, the undersigned will sell at the business. Most men like to be loved and scothed. There is something in the man's day of April, 1882, all the Real Estate devised to J. H. and A. W. Terms-1/4 cash, balance and pie than by the logic of the broomhandle and a bilious course of reasoning with bread-and-milk diet.

We have seen a girl who understood her business take a reformed road agent by the nose, so to speak, and lead him through life in such a way that he wouldn't know but that he was boss of the ranch. So perfect was the delusion, that when she asked him to bring in a scuttle of coal, or to get up in his night-shirt and kill a burglar that he knew was nothing but a bob-tailed cow four blocks away-he always went, and he felt as though he counted it a mark of special favor that a poor unworthy worm of the dust like him should be sought out and delegated to go and chase a lame cow across nine vacant lots with an old barrel stave, and clothed in nothing but a little brief authority and a knit undershirt. We cannot exactly describe this magic power of a devoted wife over her husband, and we do not intend to try it. It is an security, with interest at six per cent from day of unseen motive, a nameless leverage, that makes the husband get up in the dead hours of the night and set the pancake Railroad, on the Pacolet River, and are very de- batter near the parlor stove. About a month ago, as the German Crown Prince was crossing the Fennbrucke on his way to the barracks of the Guard Lancers at Moabit, his attention was attracted by a group of shabbilydressed persons, consisting of a middleaged man and three strapping lads, ranged in line on the curbstone, and giving the regulation military salute. His Imperial Highness walked up to the man present them within the time prescribed by law, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their reand spoke to him, saying, "I see you have been a soldier; these are your boys, I presume. Have you any more of the sort!" "No, Imperial Highness, I was discharged invalided, and have been bedridden for a long time." "Where were you wounded?" asked the Crown Prince. "At the battle of Soor, 28th June, 1866, shot through the shoulder, right arm lamed for life." "Give me your hand, I am truly sorry for you. Write to me, enclose your certificates, and inscribe the word 'Soor' on the back of the envelope." So saying, Frederic William shook hands heartily with the astonished veteran and went his way. A few days later, the man's case having, meanwhile, been investigated by the Crown Prince's orders, he received a handsome sum of money from the privy purse of the Imperial Field Marshal, with an intimation that steps were being taken by the latter in person to provide him with a permanent appointment suitable to his capacities.

McLeod vs. Bullard .- 1. Where a mortgagor conveys his equity of redemption to the mortgagee, (the deed for the land containing a power to foreclose by sale) and the former brings an action for possession, and that an account of the rents be taken and the deeds cancelled, the burden is upon the mortagee to show by evidence other than the deed itself, that the trans-action was fair and that he paid for the property what it was worth, in order to rebut the presumption of law that the conveyance is fraudulent, a mortgagee being included in the class of trustees to whose dealings with their cestui que trust

2. A proposition of law, given in a charge to the jury, which is in terms too comprehensive or without its necessary limitations, cannot for that reason be assigned for error, if it be appropriate to the case and not calculated to mislead.

the presumption is applied.

Malloy vs. Bruden .- 1. The remark of a Judge, that he felt compelled to exclude a certain deed as evidence of title, but regretted to do so, is not the subject of exception—especially so where the objection is not made in apt time.

2. In order to put the statute of limitation in motion against the true owner of land, it is necessary that there should be an actual, open, visible occupation of the land by another, began and continued under a claim of right. The assertion of a mere claim of title, as for instance the payment of taxes thereon, is not sufficient. 3. A widow to whom dower is assigned comes in under the heir to whom her pos-

Burnett vs. Nicholson.-In an action that plaintiff sustained injury to his mill by reason of defendants' erecting another mill and dam lower down on the same 1. That the measure of damages is the value of the injury actually sustained by plaintiff up to the time of trial, and in estimating the same the decrease of custom (in the matter of toll) cannot be considered.

2. Evidence to show how much it would cost the plaintiff to raise his dam and water wheel to escape the injury complained of was properly excluded.

3. In the absence of an allegation in the answer raising an issue of the liability of the feme defendant, she cannot be permitted to set up her coverture as a defense to the alleged tort.

State vs. Hughes .- 1. It was held error to quash an indictment framed under the act of 1879, chapter 323 (amending the act 1875, chapter 166,) charging the defendant "did enter a dwelling house in the night time otherwise than by breaking," and containing other necessary aver-

2. The act, by construction of the court, makes it a misdemeanor for any person to wilfully break into a store house, &c., "or to enter into a dwelling house in the night time otherwise than by breaking.

DON'T BLOCK UP YOUR WAY .- I was sitting in the office of a merchant not long since, when a lad about sixteen entered with a cigar in his mouth. He said to the "I would like to get a situation in your shop, to learn a trade, sir." "I might give you a place, but you carry a bad recommendation in your mouth, said the gentleman. "I don't think it any harm to smoke, sir; nearly every one smokes now." "I am sorry to say, my young friend, I can't employ you. If you have money enough to smoke cigars, you will be above working as an apprentice; and if you have not money enough, your love for cigars might make you steal it. No boy who smokes cigars can get employment in my
