

POETRY.

MISCHIEVOUS WOMAN.

By the Ettrick Shepherd.

Could this ill world has been contrived
To stand without mischievous woman,
How peaceful bodies might have lived
Released fra' a' the ills so common;
But since it is the wae'fu' case
That man has this teasing creny,
W' sic a sweet bewitching faec,
O had she no been made sae bonny!

I might hae roam'd wi' cheerfu' mind,
Nae sin or sorrow to beide me,
As careless as the wandering wind,
As happy as the lamb beside me;
I might hae screw'd my tuncfu' pegs,
And caroll'd moun'tain airs fu' gaily,
Had we but want a' the Meigs,
Wi' glossy een sae dark an' wily.

I saw the danger, fear'd the dart,
The smile, the air, en' a' sae taking,
Yet open laid my wareless heart,
An' gat the wound that keeps me waking,
My harp wares on the willow green,
Of wild witch-notes it has nae ony
Sin'er I saw that pawky queen,
Sae sweet, sae wicked, an' sae bonny!

From Friendship's Offering.

MEMENTO.

My son, be this thy simple plan:
Serve God, and love thy brother man;
Forget not in temptation's hour,
That sin lends sorrow double power,
Count life a stage upon thy way,
And follow conscience come what may;
Alike with heaven and earth sincere,
With hand and brow and bosom clear,
"Fear God—and know no other fear."

THE PRINTER'S LOVE.

We love to see the blooming rose
In all its beauty dress'd;
We love to hear our friends disclose
The emotions of their breast.
We love to see a ship arrive,
Well laden to our shore—
We love to see our neighbours thrive—
And love to bless the poor.
We love to see domestic life
With uninterrupted joys—
We love to see a youthful wife
Not pleased with trifling toys.
We love all these—yet far above
All that we ever said,
We love—what every PRINTER loves,
To have SUBSCRIPTIONS paid.—Constellation.

NELLY FIERS.

And pray good Mr. Printer, who is this Nelly Fiers that's kicking up such a thundering hull-oo in South Carolina—she must be a rip roarer, a real swinge cat, I sorry reckon. My honey and thunderations! if she and my wife were only to be together one week, I'd guess as how they'd storm a fort or two—for my wife has a tongue that can run from the first day of January to the last day of December without ever being greased—and I'm told as this Nelly Fiers aint slow at a short game—but if she can hold out with my wife she must have the wind of a gray hound and the strength of a lion. My wife says as how that Sal Tattle told her, that Granny Hobbie said, this Nelly Fiers was going over into that are city of Washington to ring old Hickory's nose for him—just as she would a young beffer's to make her stand still—but if my wife was there if there wouldnt be a real dog bite—for Jack is a tarrapin and my wife's a real Jackson man up to the hub. Now I'll tell you what—I always was Clay—but my wife kept such a ding donging at me all the time that she made me promise to vote for Jackson at the last election—and so I slipped off and voted for Clay, and came home and told Nancy I'd went for Jackson—but what do you think? Next day one of the squairs came to my house, and while I was out told her I voted for Clay by the hokee, the house has been too hot for me ever since. But I'm told as how this Nelly Fiers has turned all Carolina inside out, just as a boy would a meal bag to shake it well—by hokee she must be a screamer, raised in a nigger quarter I know—led on sweet taters, and gets her living cleaning hogs noses for old Kaintuckians. Well if ever I can get to lay my eyes on Miss Nelly, if I dont squintize her mighty prodigious close, for I've a sort a likin arter all great wimmen, and would like em still better if my wife's tongue wasn't continually ringing in my ears like an old sheep bell—only ten thousand times more keen and quick.

Well after killin' time is over, I'd advise Nelly to come over into old Kaintuck and get soap enough to wash her clothes, and a new kind of cotton seed, eighty of em will weigh a pound—and I can throw one of 'em into a squirrel's eye a hundred yards every crack, out of my old Kaintuckey bar of iron. Hoop, hoorah for old Kaintuck! I'm Kaintuck up to the hub and two inches deeper.

BILL SCRATCHTAIL.

If a woman writes in a bold manly hand, depend upon it she has got a masculine mind, and, in all probability, wears the breeches. There is much greater analogy between the hand-writing and the character of individuals than people are aware of.

A person on his way from New Orleans to Ohio, writes that the Cholera exists on board almost every boat upon the Mississippi. Several of the passengers were attacked on board the boat in which he took passage, of whom two had died, one a Captain in the army.

The Long Lawyer.—A writer in The Metropolitan, has the following speculations and facts relative to the longitude of Mr. Charles Wilkinson, the long lawyer, who is sometimes seen at even-tide, towering like Pelion, among the common herd of men. "His length must have been very inconvenient to him. Nature, when she invented him, ought to have constructed him on the plan of a fishing rod,—he should have been made to take in two; one half to screw into the other half, so that when he awakened in the morning, he might ring the bell for his man, and say, 'John, bring me my legs and pantaloons parts directly, for I want to run down to Westminster.' Then the upper part of him might be got into any decent-sized bed, and the lower part being hung up with his boots till the morning, or left on the mat at his chamber door, ready for him to jump into it at a moment's notice. One of the nymphs who walk under the Moon without being chastened by her beams, was, it is said, in love with him to desperation, and once tried to throw herself out of the hackneycoach into his arms, but she pitched with her nose into his coat pocket; and as he could not stoop to her, and as there was no ladder standing near, by which she could rise to him, she was obliged to give up her ambitious passion in despair.

It is said, that he was the sole cause of the Strand being lighted with gas, the Commissioners found it impossible any longer to sustain the loss of oil which his head running against the old lamps nightly brought them: they did not so much mind the glasses, but the waste of oil was awful; and, as Russia looked refractory about that time, there might have been a stoppage in the usual unctuous supply. Money, of Fleet street, who used to shave him, was obliged to mount a dining-table to get at his chin, and even then he strained his tendon Achilles from standing so long on tiptoe. It was considered wonderful he did not unbarnd himself in the manner of the Irish giant, who went up a ladder to shave himself! His tailor, when he measured him, like a sensible man, stood on a flight of steps; but three of his journeymen, unaccustomed to such a perpendicular position, were said to have broken their necks in the attempt, and their widows and children are now pensioners on the master; who swears that these accidents lessened his profits so much, that he did not make more than 40 per cent. by his custom.

A land tortoise was lately met with on the plantation of Mr. J. A. Beyer, in Amity township, Berks county, Pa. having engraved upon its shell roof, "G. Lorah, A. D. 1771." Mr. B. immediately recognized it as the one he had seen 31 years ago, and it has been seen for almost every year since by some one of the family.

Trust Sale OF REAL ESTATE.

BY virtue of a Deed of Trust, executed to me by Col. Sloan for certain purposes—and at the request and desire of Col. Sloan—who wishes to close and settle all his public business—I will sell to the highest bidder, at public sale, on Thursday, the 11th of July next, the following property:

Three parcels of Land adjoining the Town of Charlotte, one of 26 acres, another of 56 and the other of 20 acres.

Also, a Tract of Land, lying in the upper part of the County, on Clark's Creek, containing 200 acres, the place where William Pickens formerly lived.

His interest in a Tract of 110 acres, in the lower part of the County, upon which is a GOLD MINE, known as the Lemond's Place.

Also, 2 Horses, a small stock of Cattle and Household and Kitchen Furniture.

I will sell publicly, on same day, the Lots and DWELLING HOUSE in which the said Sloan now lives, in the east part of the town near the Court-House. The Dwelling House is large, commodious and well finished, containing 4 large and 4 small rooms with a garret and good cellar, and is well calculated for a Tavern. The lots run from the front to the back street. There is also attached to the lot on the front street a new Store House with counting room and good cellar. This situation is well worth the attention of those who either wish to engage in the mercantile business or to keep a House of Public Entertainment, as it is located in the business part of the Town. There is also on the lot a well of good water. It will be sold, as also all the other real estate, upon a credit of one and two years. Possession given immediately.
