From the Carolina Wetchman. ADDRESS

On amending the State Constitution. "The people have a right to assemble together, consult for the common good, to instruct their presentatives and to apply to the Legislature for

of grievances.
[189 Bill of Rights of N. Carolina.]

TO THE FREEMEN OF NORTH-CAROLINA: spily we live in a country where no ais required for addressing a free gle upon subjects connected with their government. It is an office which any may assume without just reproach or if consure. A recurrence to the proceed ag of a meeting held in Raleigh during winter will exempt us from the imputaof vanity in addressing you, and exre you. A large portion, we believe a e disminished with the Constitution of the State. They complain, we believe, with ustice, against evils proceeding from causes ich the people alone can remedy, and erefore they have through their repre-statives, determined to call for an expresnon of the public will upon their complaints. By the 18th section of the "Bill of Rights," e right of the people to instruct their reds of a reform of our State Constituon, fiel confident that a voluntary declaraand a change of the Constitution," will received as instructions, and must in-ence the General Assembly to accomste in some way, the unhappy divisions the State, and provide a remedy for the is of a most unequal and expensive govsome, to defeat the pretences of many, deperate as a recommendation to all, the recates of Reform have put forth for dissubject could claim that attention th its importance merits and no feelings arty anunosity were mingled with its sideration, there would be no difference

By the present constitution, the People

Yet such is the real con-tion of this State. Those whom it effects by choose to deny it. We confidently m the fact and challenge them to a fair and caudid investigation of the sub-We may do no more than invite a careful examination of the last census and honest perusal of the Revenue list made of at the Treasury of the State, and inquality in our Representation. The white population of the State alone being taken as a basis of calculation, one-third govern d tax two-thirds. Assume the Land tax ra basis and it will bring us to the same Take for a basis the public taxes all kinds and the conclusion is not more avorable to our present system. Let all brany of these be combined and it will amp upon our county representation the be marks of inequality and injustice. The whole white population of the State is about 472,000. Thirty-three Counties testain 156,000 and the other thirty-one Counties contain 316,000, and yet these shary-three Counties pay annually a land lax of 8,000 dollars only while they exact ix of 8,000 dollars only, while they exact in the other thirty-one a similar tax of 7,000 dollars ! These same thirty-three counties—this ruling minority—pay for axes of all kinds 24,000 dollars only, and they levy taxes from the other thirty-ose Counties to the amount of 48,000 dol-governments (including none but such as are necessary) being about 80,000 dollars per year and the State being divided into 64 Counties, the proportion of each county in this expenditure is $1250. These same thirty-three Counties-this ruling minority -therefore do not contribute their own expenses to the government unless their taxse amount to $41,250! and how is the fact? They pay no more than 24,000 dollars | and nearly one half of them do not contribute nearly one half of them do not contribute taxes sufficient to pay their own members of the Assembly! What? a majority of two-thirds of the people taxed by one-third to pay the minority for exercising this control? Incredible as it might seem to be—It is true. There are 40 counties in the State which do not contain an average population, and more than 40 whom people do ulation, and more than 40 whose people do not pay taxes equal to their average share of public necessary expenditures while they elect nearly two thirds of the General Assembly! One of the least counties in this State contains a white population of 2,700—the largest contains 17,600, and while the former pays a tax of 600 dollars, the latter is required to pay 2000 dollars! yet both these are alike represented. Another County with a population of 3,300 and an annual assessment of only 430 dollars, elects the same number of representatives to our General Assembly with a fourth county whose white population is 16,000 and whose taxes are 2,307 dollars annually. And another county with a white population little exceeding 3,000 who pay no more than 300 dollars for taxes is allowed to send the same weight into our councils with a sixth counwhose white population is 13,000 whose taxes exceed 2000 dollars. Comparing these six counties together what will be the result! Forty six thousand six hundred people who contribute a tax of 6,600 dellars are allowed no larger share in a free government than Nine thousand members of the same community, who pay a tax of only 1,300 dollars. The smallest number and they who contribute least to the support of our government are invested with all its powers. There are in the State twelve countries whose people pay a tax of $5,400 collectively-the compensation of the representatives they elect, exceeds this sum more than 2000 dollars! These coun-ties partake equally with others of all the benefits of the government and they elect nearly one fifth of the General Assembly. yet they compose but little more than one tenth of the population and pay very little exceeding one thirteenth of the public expenses! They pay 5000 and cost 15,000 dollars. These things are so. But is it just—Is it equal? Is it republican that they should continue? Must they be entered for the state of th dured forever with no better reason for it, than that they are evils which a patient people have already submitted to for many Are the maxims of freedom re versed and shall usurpation establish right

The interest of the whole State requires and her necessities demand reform in our -long usage justify oppression?

The General Assembly is bound by esent constitution to meet annually.-When the constitution was ratified the State vas divided into 36 counties and the Gene-Assembly was composed of no more than 115 members, but the number of counties is now increased to 64 and the mem-bers of the Assembly to 199. The annual expense of the Assembly alone is now $40,000 and this sum falls very little short of what the whole government of the State once cost the People. By the proposed amendments to the constitution it is ted that the assembly shall not be required to meet oftener than once in two year that their number shall be reduced from

In the early period of our independence before the States of America had formed their "more perfect Union" -- before the people had become settled into habits of selfgovernment, the annual meeting of the Legislature was both wise and necessary; but in our day it is a most unnecessary tax upon the public, and a serious obstacle anent legislation; for the people are barely informed of the acts of one Assembly before the succeeding lawmakers have repealed or modified them .-The reform that is here proposed will diminish the expenses of the State more than 25,000 dollars annually. A clear saving of 25,000 dollars per year is equal to a reduction of the taxes one-third, and yet some have put their resistance to a reform of the constitution upon the real or pretended ap-prehension of an increase of the taxes. It is astonishing with what tenacity, men will sometimes adhere to power in opposition to their own interest as well as against the just rights of others. The minority are now striving to maintain it in North-Carolina while its exercise is subversive of the rights of two-thirds of the people and costs that minority infinitely more than it is worth .-Under the influence of some cabalistic party phrase they are deceived into apprehensions that this majority are demanding the amount of 48,000 dol-The expenses of our State tising oppression on others. But it is im-dred dollars. And a reform of our constitution must diminish the expenses of the government and of necessity reduce the public burdens of the people. We wish an intelligent people to mark these facts: that for 25 years, our General Assembly has cost $40,000 per year. Here is an expenditure of one million, when half the amount might have been saved ;that for 25 years to come, this expenditure must again be incurred; and yet, a prudent foresight will enable us to diminish it one half; that the Treasurer of the State in his last annual report, states, " that for many years, the ordinary public revenue of the State, has not been adequate to the purpose of defraying the necessary expenses of the government, but this deficit has varied from 12,000 to 17,000 Dollars per year; that the sources, which have supplied this deficiency, have been fluctuating and tempora-ry in their nature, and of late, are nearly discontinued." What Statesman, what in described than will say, that this can be prudently allowed, or safely continued in a State? But it has been allowed, and must continued, unless the expenses of the Legislature, are decreased, or the taxes of the People increased. We may leave it for you to determine which course is to be preferred. Unless the People shall do the one, their Representatives, must do the other. Policy may induce them, to put this burden on the people, in some disguised form, and to conceal the application of their only remedy for the disease that has been hidden for so many years, but that it must he imposed, is inevitable, except by a reform of the Constitution. The necessary expenses of a wise government, should be met by her ordinary revenue. A people who are properly vigilant of their rights, cannot permit it to be otherwise. Assuming that these "many years" include no more than 25; then what have been the fruits of our thriftless policy? We have consumed over and besides the whole or-dinary revenue, $400,000, in the necessary expenses of the government. Had we adopted this reform 25 years ago, the funds of our State Treasury would now exceed a million of dollars! Defer it 25 years longer, and the end of that period will find the State yet more depressed than she We are not complaining of extravagant is. We are not complaining of extravagant compensation to our public officers; they are faithful workmen, "worthy of their hire." The true evil is that the laborers of the vineyard are too many—the work of the people may be better done, and much more economically performed by 127 laborers, than by 199! The responsibilities of Legislatures for this State, are too much divided to be felt properly, and the honor of Legislatures for this case, and the bonor of divided to be felt properly, and the bonor of successful public exertion is unwisely disuccessful public exertion among 199. Who minished by a partition among 199. has not heard complaints, that our laws are fluctuating, that our General Assembly sets too long, and our public expenses are in-creased? These evils exist, and have been falsely attributed to a want of virtue in the people of the present generation, and a defect of talent among those who serve them. We have no hesitation, in saying that they will be removed by diminishing the number of representatives, establishing a fair basis of equal representation, and making the Assemblies less frequent.

In the 32d Article of our Constitution,

there is an odious RESTRICTION UPON CONSCIENCE.

By excluding from public trust, all per-Gud, according to the dictates of their own consciences." The friends of reform, here also propos ed an amendment to the Constitution, which will put the election of GOVERNOR, into the hands of the People.

The Executive chair of this State ought to be the highest post, that the people can offer to the most patriotic of her citizens. Is it not so esteemed? But make the stahence, the high independence which properly belongs to a co-ordinate branch government, is sacrificed to a desire for than half the sum-and that for all time to ed from its obligations. But you need not possible that this majority in a State shall popularity among the members of the Asoppress the minority of the people by taxasembly. We do not affirm that it is albeen experienced, and yet endured? Is it no tion. If two-thirds impose a borden of 100 ways so, but it has that tendency; for he dollars on the minority, it will be a tax on themselves at the same time of Two hundred to incur public diagrace. Is the office of Governor, oftener coveted for its own honor's sake or as a stepping stone to other stations of preferment, in the gift of the Legislature? Does it comport with the dignity of the office, that the incumbent shall be forced to win it by personal elec-tioneering, among the members of Assem-Our fathers have wisely thought. that the "executive and legislative departments of the government, should be kept separate and distinct," and what evil can arise, from not observing this fundamental principle, that has not been felt in our own Moreover, the time of the Legislature is unnecessarily consumed, in can-vassing for the office, and the harmony of our councils is disturbed by the frequency of this contest. And why may not the People elect their own Governor? He is their servant, and should be directly accountable to them for the faithful execution of his trust. They have not clothed him with patronage, that he can use to corrupt their elections—they have not invested him with power, the independent discharge of which can be, in any way, incompatible, with their right to pass upon his course.

In obedience to the real or supposed wishes of the people, they have been allowed to assume the right of electing their Sheriffs and Clerks, and why should they the right of electing their be refused the power to elect their Gover nor? No good reason can be assigned

It is further proposed, TO ABOLISH BOROUGH REPRESENTATION.

This privilege is no blessing, but rather curse to the towns which possess it, or to most of them. It is a public burden, from which the people derive no corresponding benefit. And it is grossly unjust that a hundred people, because of the circumstance, that they reside within the bounds of a village, should be permitted to send a Representative to the Assembly, who may out-vote the organ of thousands residing in the Commercial cities may population, that would, when taken in connexion with their peculiar interest, justify this exclusive right. But in some of the Borough towns there are not many more than 100 roters, and as they enjoy no commerce, they cannot lay any claim to its pe-

Experience has demonstrated that some mode of AMENDING THE CONSTI-TUTION, should be pointed out by the instrument itself.

All will agree that this should be made certain, and economical, and few will dissent from the propriety of so modelling it, that while it does not invite a spirit of innovation it may not exclude the hope of Reform. Such considerations recommend amendment that has been proposed, vizthat amendments to the Constitution shall first be sanctioned by two thirds of both houses of the General Assembly, and subsequently ratified by a majority of the Peo-Other States have adopted it, and it has been found to be, neither mischievious

While few men, FELLOW-CITIZENS, can be found who have the temerity to deny that our representation is unequal, and the legislation of the State extravagant and un-wholesome, yet, some will seek a retreat behind the position, that it is impossible to arrive at perfection in any government. This is a position, that we do not deny. It is true, of the exertions of human creatures in their lives, as well as their governments, that they cannot attain perfection. But shall this prevent them from coming as near sons who deny the protestant faith. We shall this prevent them from coming as near are protestants, and therefore we can have to it as they can? It may very satisfacno personal interest in the abrogation of torily account for the gross inequality in this restriction. But will it be expected of the government, which has arisen from a us at this day to offer arguments in favor of change of circumstances that it could not religious toleration, we hope and believe be certainly foreseen; it does excuse the not. The article itself is in conflict with our Bill of Rights, when it declares "That all men have a natural tolerated, are they tolerated without change, upon the pretext, that no system of human laws can be perfect? Are all governments to be abolished because men cannot frame without a fault?

But it has been said, that the objections against our present Constitution, are the-oretical only—that the state labors under no practical evils—that the majority suf-fers no practical inconveniences. And is it no practical evil to the state, that her councils are divided by sectional strifetion independent, by putting the election that by the form of her Constitution, the with the people, and we shall have done much towards it. Custom has now made and that our expenditures exceed the ordiexpenses of the Legislature have doubled, and that our expenditures exceed the ordi-nary revenue? practical evil that a majority of the People are disuffected towards the Constitution that they are complaining, and will contin-ue to oppose a system, which is ruinous to the whole state, and obliges two-thirds of the people to submit to a taxation imposed by one-third? Is it no practical evil that those taxes are and must continue to be expended, not for the common good, but mostly in paying the delegates of a minority for exercising this control over the rights and property of a majority? If indeed, these are not practical evils, it will be diffi-cult to find them in any free government. They are those evils which have mainly contributed towards keeping us back in developing the internal resources of the state, and shall we put forth no efforts to cure them? They are those evils which have destroyed the harmony of the state, and if not remedied by liberal concessions of power to the just demands of right, must proba-bly, rend the peace of North Carolina. And will not moderate men, in all sections, come forward in a spirit of amity and conciliation, and help to remove them are evils similar to those which induced our sister states to revise and reform their Constitution, and do we find that we are more happy, more prosperous, more free than they are? Alas! it is but too melancholv a truth, and but too evident to the senses of us all, that we ARE NOT.

They are evils which a MAJORITY of the PEOPLE have a RIGHT to REMOVE.

To deny this right is to argue against the very foundation and principle of all popular governments. It is retained in the front rank of our own Declaration of Rights, and in that of every other State in the Union, that in the concerns of this life all power and sovereignty reside in the People .-They can alter their government when they please, whenever indeed the happiness and prosperity of the larger number imperious-ly demand a change. Herein they are the ly demand a change. Herein they are the sole rulers and sole judges. No limit has been set to their authority but that which the Almighty has imposed, that they shall exercise it in Justice and Equity. This may be denounced—but it is the doctrine of free American Institutions. It is the doctrine of the Revolution—It is the Republican doctrine of this country. Whenever lican doctrine of this country. Whenever the People shall consent to repudiate it they will cast away the great check they have retained against the usurpation of their rulers. Let us not be misunderstood or mis-represented. Whilst we earnestly maintain this "fundamental principle," we heartily deprecate licentiousness, we would rather invoke a speedy co-operation of all parties in our beloved State to settle the causes of agitation which alone can produce it, but which are now too justifiable to be contemned, and too potent to be harmless.—And why may it not be hoped for? We profess to venerate the fathers of the Revolutions of the sec lution and the principles that they established, and shall that great leading principle of the Revolution that "representation and taxation shall go together," be excluded from the charter of our own government? We have demanded of Congress an abandonment of the Protective tariff system, because it infringes the great principles of political Justice, and shall we be deaf to the calls of majority of our people for Justice at ome? We triumphed at the advancement of free principles when the question of Reform in the English parliament—of a reform of the unequal representation of the pe was sanctioned and sustained by the K of England against his House of Lords; and can a demand for equal representation in North-Carolina be denied? When Ireland had won a partial restoration of her rights by the removal of an odious restriction upon her Catholic people, we witnessed a flow of generous gratulation from the hearts of North-Carolinians; and will they turn from us with indifference when we remind them that the same hated tyranny of a majority, but it cannot be successfully over the consciences of Catholics is sancurged as a reason for its continuance. Is tioned by the very charter of their liberty?

Unless we choose to indulge a degree of of action which arise from observation and experience, a remedy for these evils is neither difficult nor dangerous. at the Elections in August, pronounce your determination upon the question "whether a change is needed in the Constitution"that expression of your will being sent to your Representatives, they will be bound to provide a remedy, or to pass a law by which you shall be enabled to effect it yourselves. If this obligation does not arise from that article in the Bill of Rights which secures to you the right of "petitioning the legis-lature for redress of grievances," then it was a privilege far too triffing to be retained in so solemn a charter. This expression of your will, will be instructive to your representatives and if they do not obey it, then indeed a period has arrived in the history of the Institutions of this country, of dollars for her annual assemblies, when when the People are bound by the Consti-
