Mecklenburg

Ieffersonian.

How. He leathern

"The powers granted under the Constitution, being derived from the People of the United States, may be resumed by them, whenever perverted to their injury or oppression." - Madison.

VOLUME 4,

CHARLOTTE, N C., DECEMBER 13, 1844.

NUMBER 188

EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY Frederick H. M'Dowell.

TERMS:

The "Mecklenburg Jeffersonian" is published weekly at Two Dollars a year, payable invariable in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously and correctly insert ed at One Dollar per square for the first insertion, and Twen ty-five Cents for each continuance-except Court and other udicial advertisements, which will be charged twenty-five ner cent. higher than the above rates, (owing to the delay, gene rally, attendant upon collections). A liberal discount will be made to those who advertise by the year. Advertisements sent n for publication, must be marked with the number of inserjons desired, or they will be published until forbid and charg

Letters to the Editor unless containing money in sums of Five Dollars or over, must come tree of postage, or the amount paid at the office here will be charged to the writer n every instance, and collected as other accounts.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

To the Senate and House of

We have continued cause for expressing our gratude to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe for the menefits and blessings which our country, under his kind Providence, has enjoyed during the past year. Notwithstanding the exciting scenes through which we have passed, nothing has occurred to disturb the general peace, or to derange the harmony of our political system. The great moral spectacle has been exhibited of a nation, approximating in number to 20,000,000 of people, having performed the high and important function of electing their Chief Magistrate for the term of four years, without the comof a spirit of insubordination to the laws. The great and inestimable right of suffrage, has been exreised by all who were invested with it, under the aws of the different States, in a spirit dictated alone wa desire, in the selection of the agent, to advance e interests of the country, and to place beyond jeoparty the institutions under which it is our happiess to live. That the deepest interest has been nanifested by all our countrymen in the result of with more individual exceptions, every achment on the part of the People, to the institu others. ions under which we live, which proclaims their erpetuity. The great objection which has always revailed against the election, by the People, of heir Chief Executive officer, has been the apprevolve in rum the entire Government A security election. The popular vote in each State is taken at the time appointed by the laws, and such vote is of suffrage, and the mode of conducting the election, is regulated by the laws of each State; and the electuers. Thus it is that, unlike what might be theresults under a consolidated system, riotons proceedings, should they prevail, could only affect the elections in single States, without disturbing, to uny dangerto its local interests, and its internal peace and hapa sacred observance of the guaranties of the Constill the best efforts of the Government will continue to ption, will preserve the union on a foundation which be directed to this end.

more be offered up to the Father of the Universe urged upon her attention. tor his wisdom to consummate these high purposes.

One of the strongest objections which has been urged against confederacies, by writers on Governwith by foreign Governments or the People of for safety of the whole Confederacy. We cannot hope to be entirely exempt from such attempts on our too important in population and resources not to at- make up for lost time. tract the observation of other nations. It, thereions entirely abstract in the States in which they may prevail, and in no degree affecting their domestic institutions, may be artfully, but secretly, en-Representatives of the United States: | couraged with a view to undermine the Union. Such opinions may become the foundation of political parties, until at last, the conflict of opinion, producing an alienation of friendly feeling among the People of the different States, may involve in one general destruction the happy institutions under which we live. It should ever be borne in mind, that what is true in regard to individuals, is equally the affairs of another, is the fruitful source of fami ly dissensions and neighborhood disputes; and the same cause affects the peace, happiness and prosperity of States. It may be most devoutly hoped mission of any acts of violence, or the manifestation that the good sense of the American People will ever be ready to repel all such attempts, should they

There has been no material change in our foreign relations since my last Annual Message to Congress. With all the powers of Europe we continue on the most friendly terms. Indeed, it affords me much satisfaction to state, that at no former period has the peace of that enlightened and important quarter of the globe ever been, apparently, more firmly estabne election, is not less true, than highly creditable lished. The conviction that peace is the true polithem. Vast multitudes have assembled, from cy of nations, would seem to be growing and beme to time, at various places, for the purpose of coming deeper amongst the enlightened every anvassing the merits and pretensions of those who where; and there is no people who have a stronger ere presented for their suffrages; but no armed interest of cherishing the sentiments, and adopting oldiery has been necessary to restrain, within pro. the means of preserving and giving it permanence, per limits, the popular zeal, or to prevent violent than those of the United States. Amongst these, outbreaks. A principle much more controlling was the first and most effective are, no doubt, the strict and in the love of order and obedience to the laws, observance of justice, and the honest and punctual fulfilment of all engagements. But it is not to be ere-possessess the American mind, and controls lorgotten that, in the present state of the world, it is ish an influence for more powerful than hosts of no less necessary to be ready to enforce their obser amed men. We cannot divell upon this picture vance and fulfilment, in reference to ourselves, than without recognising in it that deep and devoted at to observe and fulfill them, on our part, in regard to

Since the close of your last ression, a negotiation has been formally entered upon between the Secretary of State and Her Britannic Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary residing hension of tumults and disorders, which might in. at Washington, relative to the rights of their respective nations in and over the Oregon territory. That against this, is found not only in the fact before all negotiation is still pending. Should it, during luded to, but in the additional fact that, we live un. | your session, be brought to a definitive conclusion, der a confederacy embracing already twenty-six the result will be promptly communicated to Con-States; no one of which has power to control the gress. I would, however, again call your attention to the reccommendations contained in previous messages, designed to protect and facilitate emigration announced by its Electional College, without refer. to that Territory. The establishment of military ence to the decision of the other States. The right posts at suitable points upon the extended line of land travel, would enable our citizens to migrate in comparative safety to the fertile regions below the falls tion is distinctly federative in all its prominent fea. of the Columbia, and make the provision of the existing convention for the joint occupation of the Territory by subjects of Great Britain, and the citizens of the United States, more available than heretofore to the latter. These posts would constitute ous extent, the tranquility of others. The great ex. places of rest for the weary emigrant, where he periment of a political confederacy—each member | would be sheltered securely against the danger of of which is supreme—as to all matters appertaining attack from the Indians, and be enabled to recover from the exhaustion of a long line of travel. Leg. piness,-while by a voluntary compact with others, islative enactments should also be made which it confides to the united power of all, the protection | should spread over him the ægis of our laws, so as of its citizens, in matters not domestic-has been so to afford protection to his person and property when far crowned with complete success. The world he shall have reached his distant home. In this has witnessed its rapid growth in wealth and popu- latter respect, the British Government has been lation; and, under the guide and direction of a su. much more careful of the interests of such of her perintending Providence, the developments of the people as are to be found in that country, than the past may be regarded but as the shadowing forth of United States. She has made necessary provision the mighty future. In the bright prospects of that for their security and protection against the acts of future, we shall find, as patriots and philanthropists, the viciously disposed and lawless; and her emithe highest inducements to cultivate and cherish a grant reposes in safety under the panoply of her love of union, and to frown down every measure or laws. Whatever may be the result of the pending effort which may be made to alienate the States, or negotiation, such measures are necessary. It will the People of the States, in sentiment and feeling, from each other. A rigid and close atherence to and favorable termination to the existing negotiation, the terms of our political compact, and, above all, upon terms compatible with the public bonor; and cannot be shaken; while personal liberty is placed It would have given me the highest gratification, beyond hazard or jeopardy. The guarantee of re- in this, my last annual communication to Congress, ious freedom, of the freedom of the press, of the to have been able to announce to you the complete iberty of speech, of the trial by jury, of the habens and entire settlement and adjustment of other matcrous, and of the domestic institutions of each of ters in difference between the United States and the States-leaving the private cauzen in the full Government of Her Britannic Majesty, which ise of the high and ennobling attributes of his were adverted to in a previous message. It is so nature, and to each State the privilege, which can obviously the interest of both countries, in respect only be judiciously exerted by itself, of consulting to the large and valuable commerce which exists the means best calculated to advance its own happi- between them, that all causes of complaint, howeness;-these are the great and important guarantees | ver inconsiderable, should be, with the greatest promof the Constitution, which the lovers of liberty must plitude, removed,-that it must be regarded as cause cherish, and the advocates of union must ever culti- of regret, that any unnecessary delays should be vate. Preserving these, and avoiding all interpola- permitted to intervene. It is true that, in a pecuniions by forced construction, under the guise of an ary point of view, the matters alluded to, are, altomagined expediency, upon the Constitution, the in gether, insignificant in amount, when compared sense of justice will soon induce a settlement of these would only endure for a season. The interests of ance of our political system is destined to be as with the ample resources of that great nation; but claims. vely and as beneficially felt on the distant shores they, nevertheless, more particularly that limited the Pacific, as it is now on those of the Atlantic class which arise under seizures and detentions of returned to the Unifed States without having effec-Ocean. The only formidable impediments in the American ships on the coast of Africa, upon the ted an adjustment in the second clim of the boundary. Upon the ratification of the treaty, the ay of its successful expansion (time and space) are mistaken supposition indulged in at the time the Macedonian, which is delayed on grounds altogethfar in the progress of modification, by the im- wrong was committed, of their being engaged in rements of the age, as to render no longer spec- the slave-trad ,-deeply affect the sensibilities of tive the ability of Representatives from that re- this Government and People. Great Britain hav- gest terms; and in the event of failure to obtain a ote region to come up to the Capitol, so that their ing recognised her responsibility to repair all such permanent adjustment, to report the fact to the Exustitutents shall participate in all the benefits of wrongs, by her action in other cases, leaves noth- ecutive at as early a day as possible, so that the No negotiation upon that point could have been unederal legislation. Thus it is that, in the progress ing to be regretted upon the subject, as to all cases whole matter may be communicated to Congress. time, the inestimable principles of civil liberty prior to the Treaty of Washington, than the delay to take up his abode among us, and assist us in the makes a strong appeal to her magnanimity and it your attention and prompt action great work of advancing the standard of civilization, sense of justice for a speedy settlement. Other mat-

other causes. The United States Commissioner, however, expresses his expectation that by increas-turb those relations. Russia, the great nothern power, under the judicious sway of her Emperor. is constantly anvancing in the road of science and improvement; while France, guided by the councils of her wise sovereign, pursues a course calculated to consolidate the general peace. Spain has from the prevailing peace.

I informed the two Houses of Congress in my message of December last, that instructions had been given to Mr. Wheaton, our Minister at Berlin, to negotiate a trenty with the Germanic States composing the Zoll Verein, if it could be donestipulating, as far as it was practicable to accomplish it, for a reduction of the heavy and onerous duties levied on our tobacco, and other leading arti cles of agricultural production; and yielding, in return, on our part a reduction of duties on such articles, the production of their industry, as should not come into competition, or but a limited one, with articles the product of our manufacturing industry. The Executive, in giving such instructions, considered itself as acting in strict conformity with the wishes of Congress, as made known through several measures which it had adopted; all directed to the accomplishment of this important result. The tial reductions were secured in the duties levied by the Zoll Verein, on tobacco, rice and laid, accompanied by a stipulation for the admission of raw cotton, free of duty. In exchange for which highly important concessions, a reduction of duties, imposed by the laws of the United States on a variety of articles, most of which were admitted free of all duty under the act of Congress commonly known as the Compromise law, and but few of which were produced in the United States, was stipulated for on our part. This treaty was communicated to the Senate at an early day of its last session, but not acted upon until near its close; when, for the want, as I am bound to persume, of full time to consider it, it was laid upon the table. This procedure had the effect of virtually rejecting it, in consequice of a stipulation contaied in the treaty that its ratification should be exchanged on or before a day which has already passed .- The Executive, acting upon the fair inference that the Senate did not in tend its absolute rejection, gave instruction to our Minister at Berlin to re-open the negotiation, so far as to obtain an extension of time for the exchange of ratifications. I regret, howaver, to say that his efforts, in this respect, have been unsuccessful. am, nevertheless, not without hope that the great advantages which were intended to be secured by ist. the treaty, may yet be realized.

I am happy to inform you that Belgium has, by an "arrete royale," issued in July last, assimilated the flag of the United States to her own, so far as the direct trade between the two countries is concerned. This measure will prove of great service to our shipping interest; the trade having, heretofore, been carried on chiefly in foreign bottoms. 1 which would decidedly benefit the agriculture of the United States, and operate to the mutual advantage of both countries.

No definitive intelligence has yet been received with the Chinese Empire; but enough is known to induce the srongest hopes that the mission will be crowned with success.

With Brazil our relations continue on the most friendly footing. The commercial intercourse between that growing Empire and the United States, is becoming daily of greater importance to both; and it is the interest of both that the firmest relacultivated between them.

The republic of New Grenada still withholds, notwithstanding the most persevering efforts have been employed by our Charge d'Affaires, Mr. in the case of the brig "Morris." And the Conbeen effected hetween our Minister, and the Minister of foreign affairs of that government for the payment of $18,000, in discharge of its liabilities in the same case—has altogether neglected to make provision for its payment. It is to be hoped that a er frivolous and untenable. Mr. Pendleton's successor has been directed to urge the claim in the stron-

The labors of the joint commission appointed by Texas; which, since the battle of San Jacinto, has the two Governments to run the dividing line, es consisted altogether of predatory incursions, attend. tablished by the Treaty of Washington, were, un- ed by circumstances revolting to humanity. I rewas but too well calculated to involve our peace. peace and safety. The United States are becoming | cd diligence and energy, the party will be able to | Unjust suspicions were engendered in the mind of one or the other of the belligerents against us; and, We continue to receive assurances of the most as a necessary consequence, American interests were fore, may, in the progress of time, occur that opin- friendly feelings on the part of all the other Europe. made to suffer, and our peace became daily endanan powers; with each, and all of whom, it is so obvi | gered. In addition to which, it must have been lations. Nor can I anticipate the occurrence of any war, subjected both Mexico and Texas to the interevent which would be likely, in any degree, to dis ference of other powers; which, without the interposition of this Government, might eventuate in the most serious injury to the United States. This Government, from time to time, exerted its friendly offices to bring about a termination of hostilities upon terms honorable alike to both the billigerents. Its efforts in this behalf proved unavailing. Mexiobtained a breathing spell of some duration from co seemed, almost without an object, to persevere in so in regard to States. An interference of one in the internal convulsions which have, through so the war, and no other alternative was left the Exemany years marred her prosperity; while Austria, cutive but to take advantage of the wellknown disthe Netherlands, Prussia, Belgium, and the other positions of Texas, and to invite her to enter into a powers of Europe, reap a rich harvest of blessings treaty for annexing her territory to that of the Uni-

Since your last session, Mexico has threatened to renew the war, and has either made, or proposed to make, formidable preparations for invading Texas. evolting to humanity; and which, if carried into effect, would arouse the attention of all Christendom. This new demonstration of feeling, there is too much reason to believe, has been produced in consequence of the negotiation of the late treaty of annexation with Texas. The Executive, therefore, could not be indifferent to such proceedings; and it felt it to be due, as well to itself, as to the honor of the counthe Mexican Government upon the subject. This was accordingly done; as will be seen by the copy of State to the United States Envoy at Mexico .-Mexico has no right to jeopard the perce of the threatened by Mexico, cannot be waged without involving our peace and tranquillity. It is idle to be lieve that such a war could be looked upon with indifference by our own citizens, inhabiting adjoining States; and our neutrality would be violated, in despite of all efforts on the part of the Government to prevent it. The country is settled by emigrants from the United States, under invitations emigrants have left behind them friends and relatives who would not fail to sympathise with them in their difficulties, and who would be led by those sympathies to participate in their struggles, however energetic the action of the Government to prevent it. Nor would the numerous and formidable bands of Indians, the most warlike to be found in any land, which occupy the extensive regions contiguous to the States of Arkansas and Missouri, and who are in possession of large tracts of country within the limits of Texas, be likely to remain pas-this Government or People for negotiating the treaty. What interest of hers was affected by the treaty? She was despoiled of nothing, since Texas was forever lost to her. The independence of Texas was recognized by several of the leading powers of the earth. She was free to treat-free to adopt her own line of policy—free to take the course flatter myself that she will speedily resort to a mod- her happiness. Her Government and People decided on annexation to the United States; and the Executive saw, in the acquisition of such a territory, the means of advancing their permanent happiwas violated? what rule of political morals tramfrom our Minister, of the conclusion of a Treaty pled under foot? So far as Mexico herself was concerned, the measure should have been regarded ritory, when the time has arrived for deciding that by her as highly beneficial. Her inability to reconquer Texas had been exhibited, I repeat, by eight-now nine-years of fruitless and ruinous contest. In the meantime, Texas has been growing in population and resources. Emigration has flowed into her territory, from all parts of the world, in a current which continues to increase in strength. tions of amity and good will, should continue to be Mexico requires a permanent boundary between that young republic and herself. Texas, at no distant day, if she continues separate and detached from the United States, will inevitably seek to consolidate her strength by adding to her domain the Blackford, to produce a different result-indemnity contiguous provinces of Mexico. The spirit of revolt from the control of the Central Government gress of Venezuela, although an arrangement has has, heretofore, manifested itself in some of those provinces; and it is fair to infer that they would be inclined to take the first favorable opportunity to proclaim their independence, and to form close al. and foreign trade, to an amount almost incalculable liances with Texas. The war would thus be end-Mexico, therefore, could in nothing be better con Our late Minister to Chili, Mr. Pendleton, has sulted than in a peace with her neighbors, which would result in the establishment of a permanent selves, upon the consummation of the measure of an-Executive was prepared to treat with her on the Mexico would find her true interest to consist in most liberal basis. Hence the boundaries of Texas | meeting the advances of this Government in a spirit were left undefined by the treaty. The Execuive proposed to settle these upon terms that all the dertaken between the United States and Mexico, in with the rights of any other nation. There cannot At your last session, I submitted to the attention advance of the ratification of the treaty. We should be gathered from the act any design on our part to great benefits of our system of Government be ex- fall plainly within the principle of others, which lended to now distant and uninhabited regions. In she has long since adjusted. The injury inflicted adjustment of the claims of citizens of the United dertaken it, would have been an assumption equalview of the vast wilderness yet to be reclaimed, we by delays in the settlement of these claims, falls States gainst that Republic; but no definitive ac ly revolting to the pride of Mexico and Texas, and may well invite the lover of freedom, of every land, with severity upon the individual claimants, and tion was taken upon the subject. I again invite to subjecting us to the charge of arrogance; while to have proposed in advance of annexation, to satisfy In my last Annual Message, I telt it to be my Mexico for any contingent interest she might have and giving a wider spread to the arts and refine- ters, arising out of the construction of existing trea- duty to make known to Congress, in terms both in Texas, would have been to have treated Texas, ments of cultivated life. Our prayers should ever- ties, also remain unadjusted, and will continue to be plain and emphatic, my opinion in regard to the not as an independent power, but as a mere depenwar which has so long existed between Mexico and dency of Mexico. This assumption could not have been acted on by the Executive, without setting at defiance your own solemn declaration that that Republic was an independent State. Mexico had, it ment, is, the liability of the members to be tampered fortunately, much delayed in the commencement of peat now, what I then said, that, after eight years is true, threatened war against the United States, in the season, by the failure of Congress, at its last of feeble and ineffectual efforts to recover Texas, it the event the Treaty of Annexation was ratified .eign States, either in their legal affairs, or in such session, to make a timely appropriation of funds to was time that the war should have ceased. The The Executive could not permit itself to be influas affected the peace of others, or endangered the meet the expenses of the American party, and by United States had a direct interest in the question, enced by this threat. It represented in this, the The contiguity of the two nations to our territory spirit of our People, who are ready to sacrifice much for peace, but nothing to intimidation. A war, under any circumstances, is greatly to be deplored, and the United States is the last nation to desire it; but if, as the condition of peace, it be required of us to forego the unquestionable right of treating with an independent power, of our own Continent, upon ously our interest to cultivate the most amicable re. obvious to all that the exhaustion produced by the matters highly interesting to both, and that upon a naked and unsustained pretension of claim by a third power, to control the free-will of the power with whom we treat-devoted as we may be to peace, and anxious to cultivate friendly relations with the whole world, the Executive does not hesitate to say that, the People of the United States would be ready to brave all consequences, sooner than submit to such condition. But no apprehension of war was entertained by the Executive; and I must express frankly the opinion that, had the Treaty been ratified by the Senate, it would have been followed by a prompt settlement, to the entire satisfaction of Mexico, of every matter in difference between the two countries. Seeing then that new preparations for the hostile invasion of Texas were about to be adopted by Mexico, and that these were brought about because Texas had adopted the sug-She has issued decrees and proclamations, prepara- gestions of the Executive upon the subject of Antory to the commencement of hostilities, full of threats, nexation, it could not passively have folded its arms and permitted a war, threatened to be accompanied by every act that could mark a barbarous age, to be waged against her, because she had done so.

Other considerations of a controlling character influenced the course of the Executive. The treaty which had thus been negotiated, had failed to receive the ratification of the Senate. One of the chief objections which was urged against it, was try, that a strong representation should be made to found to consist in the fact, that the question of annexation had not been submitted to the ordeal of public opinion in the United States. However unof the accompanying despatch from the Secretary tenable such an objection was esteemed to be, in view of the unquestionable power of the Executive to negotiate the treaty, and the great and lasting world by urging any longer, a useless and fruitless interests involved in the question, I felt it to be my contest. Such a condition of things would not be duty to submit the whole subject to Congress as tolerated on the European continent. Why should the best expounders of popular sentiment. No deit be on this? A war of desolation, such as is now finitive action having been taken on the subject by Congress, the question referred itself directly to the decision of the States and the People The great popular election which has just terminated, afforded the best opportunity of ascertaining the will of the States, and the People upon it. Pending that issue, it became the imperative duty of the Executive to inform Mexico that the question of annexation was still before the American People, and that until held out to them by Spain and Mexico. Those their decision was pronounced, any serious invasion of Texas would be regarded as an attempt to forestall their judgment, and could not be looked upon with indifference. I am most happy to inform you, that no such invasion has taken place; and I trust that whatever your action may be upon it, Mexico will see the importance of deciding the matter by a resort to peaceful expedients, in preference to those of arms. The decision of the Pcople and the States, on this great and interesting subject, has been decisively manifested. The question of annexation has been presented nakedly to sive. The inclinations of those numerous tribes their consideration. By the treaty itself, all collatlead them invaribly to war whenever pretexts ex. eral and incidental issues, which were calculated to divide and distract the public councils, were care-Mexico had no just ground of displeasure against fully avoided. These were left to the wisdom of the future to determine It presented, I repeat, the isolated question of annexation; and in that form it has been submitted to the ordeal of public sentiment A controlling majority of the People. and a large majority of the States, have declared in favor of immediate annexation. Instructions have thus come up to both branches of Congress, from their respective constituents, in terms the most emphatic. It is the will of both the people and the States, that Texas shall be annexed to the Union promptly and immediately. It may be hoped that, in carrying into execution the public will, thus deness and glory. What principle of good faith then clared, all collateral issues may be avoided. Future Legislatures can best decide as to the number of States which should be formed out of the terquestion. So with all others. By the treaty, the United States assumed the payment of the debts of Texas, to an amount not exceeding $10,000,000: to be paid, with the exception of a sum falling shore or $400,000, exclusively out of the prodeeds of the sales of her public lands. We could not, with honor, take the lands, without assuming the full payment of all incumbrances upon them.

Nothing has occurred since your last session, to induce a doubt that the dispositions of Texas remain unaltered. No intimation of an altered determination, on the part of her Government and People, has been furnished to the Executive. She still desires to throw herself under the protection of our laws, and to partake of the blessings of our federative system; while every Amarican interest would seem to require it. The extension of our coast-wise -the enlargement of the market of our manufactures -- a constantly growing market for our agricultural productions-salety to our frontiers, and additional strength and stability to the Union, -these are the results which would rapidly develope themnexation. In such event, I will not doubt but that

Nor do I apprehend any serious complaint from any other quarter; no sufficient ground exists for such complaint. We should interfere in no respect will be enjoyed by millions yet unboin, and the in making suitable reparation in such of them as of Congress, the Convention with the Republic of have had no right—no power—no authority, to do so with their possessions on this Continent.