

WHIG NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Wednesday, the 16th inst. being the day appointed for the meeting of the Whig National Convention to select candidates for the Whig Party for President and Vice-President of the United States...

At twelve o'clock, Mr. George C. Morgan, of Maryland, and Simon Draper, of New York, rose simultaneously, apparently with a view to call the Convention to order.

Mr. Draper said that the hour of twelve having arrived, he would move that the Hon. George Evans, of Maine, be called temporarily to the President's chair.

The proposition was received with partial cheers and some negative voices, and amidst loud applause, Mr. Evans ascended the platform.

When quiet had been restored he addressed the Convention as follows: Gentlemen of the Convention: I beg to return my grateful and respectful acknowledgments for the honor I have received at your hands...

Allow me to express the hope that a spirit of order and decorum, of harmony, conciliation, and union, may prevail in our deliberations, [cheers and great applause]

Revering my thanks for the honor you have conferred upon me, I accept the station to which you have been pleased to call me.

The President pro tem, then stated that the first business to be performed would be the appointment of a provisional Secretary, and invited the Convention to nominate some person to perform that duty...

Mr. Lewis, of Alabama, nominated Mr. R. A. Upton, of Louisiana, as temporary Secretary; which nomination was unanimously confirmed.

On motion, Mr. James W. Bryan, of North Carolina, was elected Assistant Secretary.

Mr. Brodhead, of Missouri, moved that a committee of one from each delegation be appointed for the purpose of reporting permanent officers for the Convention.

The question was taken on the motion of Mr. Brodhead, to appoint a committee to select permanent officers and it was agreed to.

The States were thereupon respectively called and named the following gentlemen to constitute the committee:

- W. P. Fessenden, of Maine;
Isabard Goodwin, of N. H.
Henry Bradley, of Vt.
Rufus Choate, of Mass.
Robt H. Ross, of R. I.

Wm. Jessup, of Penn.
John M. Clayton, of Del.
Wm. B. Clark, of Md.
John Janney, of Va.
Henry W. Miller, of S. C.

Alex. J. Collins, of Wis.
Jesse O. Goodwin, of Cal.
Hon. Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, then moved that a committee of one from each State be appointed to receive and examine the credentials of members of the Convention...

Mr. Van Trump, of Ohio, took the floor in opposition to the resolution, and in a speech of some length gave reasons for opposing its passage.

Mr. Duncan was surprised that there should be any opposition to the resolution. He only wished gentlemen to show their hands. Who are we? Are we a band of brothers—are we National Whigs? Could we trust one another? If your principles are not ours, and ours are not yours, it is proper we should know it, and the sooner we know it the better.

Mr. Ashmun said he had not desired to say a word had he not been personally appealed to yesterday by the gentleman from Ohio. He would now repeat that he had not conferred with my body, and did not know of the intention to offer this resolution to-day. He thought it would be time to act in the matter after the report of the committee on credentials had been made. He appealed to the gentleman not to press the resolutions if objection was made to it.

Mr. Goodwin, of California, objected to the action on this matter in consequence of the absence of a portion of his delegation, and moved adjournment.

The question was then taken on the first resolution of the series offered by Mr. Duncan, and resulted as follows:

YEAS—New Hampshire 5; Vermont 5; Massachusetts 10; Rhode Island 4; Connecticut 6; Pennsylvania 27; Delaware 5; Maryland 8; Virginia 15; North Carolina 10; South Carolina 8; Georgia 10; Alabama 9; Mississippi 7; Louisiana 6; Kentucky 12; Tennessee 12; Wisconsin 11; Michigan 6; Iowa 4; California 4—149.

An amendment was offered to the second resolution as follows: And that in the said committee each member be authorized to cast the vote to which it is entitled in the electoral college, which was adopted by the following vote:

YEAS—Maine 1; New Hampshire 1; Vermont 1; Massachusetts 2; Connecticut 2; New York 21; New Jersey 7; Pennsylvania 27; Delaware 3; Ohio 23; Indiana 13; Illinois 1; Missouri 6; Michigan 4; Iowa 3; Wisconsin 1; California 2—149.

Mr. Cabell, of Florida, moved that the committee to nominate permanent officers be allowed to retire. The motion was agreed to, and the committee accordingly retired.

Mr. Talbot, of New York, rose to say that all the members of the New York delegation had not their credentials in the hall, so that it would be impossible to present them at that instant. He therefore moved that the Convention adjourn until 7 o'clock. P. M.

Mr. Talbot also suggested whether it would not be most convenient for the Convention to pursue the ordinary course, and present the Chairman of the Delegation of each State to present the credentials of the members from such State to the Committee on Credentials?

Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, suggested that the Committee on Credentials should meet on the platform after the adjournment, and fix a time and place for meeting.

The suggestion was adopted, and at half past twelve o'clock the Convention adjourned to meet again at six o'clock in the evening.

The Committee on Credentials were not ready at six o'clock to report, but promised a report the next morning.

Baltimore Whig Nominations. We lay before our readers the proceedings of the late Baltimore Whig National Convention, together with the results of its deliberations. The Convention adjourned on Monday evening last, after having balloted fifty-three times for a candidate for the Presidency, and twice for one for the Vice Presidency. General Winfield Scott, of New Jersey, received on the fifty-third ballot, 158 votes for the Presidency, and was declared duly nominated. Mr. Fillmore received 113, and Mr. Webster 21—Some of the Northern friends of Mr. Fillmore, together with eight of the Virginia delegation, and some of Mr. Webster's northern friends having voted for General Scott.
