THE WESTERN CATASTROPHE.

We take the following particulars of the explosion of the ill-fated steamer St. James from New Orleans papers.

The St. James left Bay St. Louis, at about ten o'clock on Sunday night, with nearly seventy passengers, and about thirty other persons, composing the officers, crew, and servants. The California started from the Bay twenty minutes after, and passed the St. James in the Rigolets. Getting into shoal water, the St. James again went ahead, and kept the lead, until when opposite Point Aux Herbes, some twelve or fifteen miles from the landing at Milneburg she bursted her boilers. This was at 3 o'clock in the morning when nearly all the passengers were in their berths. Immediately after the explosion the boat took fire, and the flames caused the loss of several, who had escaped the explosion.

The California, fortunately, was not over a quarter of a mile behind, and Captain H. P. Ensign, her commander, quickly placed his boat in a position to save the survivors. A gentleman connected with the Picayune, who was on the California, thus describes what occurred, after the St. James passed her:

The ill-fated boat had not gone more than a quarter of a mile in advance, when her boilers exploded. The scene which ensued was terrible beyond description. The upper part of the St. James was literally shattered to atoms, and the wreck was almost instantly in flames.

"The shrieks of those on board the burning boat were heard by the passengers on the California, and as the flames rose and extended, the suspense and anxiety became agonizing. Capt. Ensign steered directly for the wreck, but the fire was so intensely hot, that he was compelled by a due regard for the persons immediately under his charge to haul off a short distance. The boats belonging to the California were launched, manned, and went to the aid of the sufferers. Some were in the water and others on the wreck, and as many of the former as were discovered were rescued.

"The flames rose from the centre of the St. James, and Capt. Ensign made a second attempt to reach the persons on the wreck. He succeeded by skilful management in getting under the stern, and a large number of ladies and gentlemen gained the decks of the California."

The following incidents of the scene are narrated by the gentleman from the Picayune:

"We learn from Mr. Archibald Binney that Judge Preston had his berth over the boilers, No. 51. He was seen to retire to rest, and immediately after the explosion occurred the place where he had been lying was observed to have been shattered to pieces, and he was no where to be seen. It is presumed that he perished instantly, although a faint hope, which will cling to one when the destruction or safety of friends are concerned, was entertained that by some miracle he might have reached the shore, which was not far distant.

"J. M. Wolf and his son, a lad about fourteen years of age, were seen standing on the St. James together. The boy urged his father to jump into the water, and declared that he could save him. The father refused to jump into the water, and the boy left him and struck out for the California, which was then approaching. He reached her in an exhausted state, and was saved. A rope was thrown to him just as he cried out that he could struggle no more.

"John L. Shed, of the mint in this city, was on board the St. James with his lady. Mrs. Shed was rescued, but Mr. Shed is supposed to have perished.

"Col. Palfrey was among those taken from the water, having swam from the burning wreck. His hands were slightly burned.

"A negro boy belonging to Dr. Pennington was lost. The doctor himself was indefatigable in his exertions for the relief of the wounded, and his conduct excited the admiration of all who observed him.

"The steamboat St. Charles had arrived in Milneburg; but the light of the burning St. James having been seen, the captain got up steam and steered for the wreck.—He arrived there, however, after all who could be were saved."

The St. James was a high pressure boat, which had been running on the river as a coast packet, until about a month since, when she was taken to the Lake.

PLANK ROAD DIVIDEND.—It will be seen that the Fayetteville and Southern Plank Road has been able to make a dividend of three per cent. on its receipts for the first 4½ months of operations, and those months, too, among the dullest in the year.

In addition to the Dividend, 11 per cent. of the receipts has been reserved as a fund for reconstruction.

☞ The great tunnel on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad has been completed, and the opening of the Railroad through it will be celebrated with a great festival, in which ten thousand persons are expected to participate, on the third of the coming month.

☞ At a tea table, on Sunday evening, the debris of a pot of beans appeared among the edibles. When the hostess inquired of W., "will you have any beans?" the hardened sinner replied, "Nota Bene!"

"The examination developed to a very high degree the advantages of the plan which Professor Morgan has long practiced. It was manifest to every observer that the young Ladies of the graduating class were of a high order of mind well instructed—their polish of manners, and excellent thoroughness in the several studies, including the Scriptures—their command of language and freedom in composition, and the evident skill and taste in the ornamental branches, could not but be the result of a well devised system, rigidly pursued and successfully applied.

CONGAREE HOUSE,

COLUMBIA, S. C.,
BY WM. MAYBIN & H. E. HARDY.

CHANGES AND IMPROVEMENTS.

THE Proprietor of this universally known and long established Hotel, takes this opportunity of returning his sincere thanks to his friends and the public for the very liberal patronage he, for so many years, has enjoyed at their hands; and begs to inform them that he has taken into partners in with himself in the management of the business Mr. H. E. HARDY, the former gentlemanly superintendent of the house, whose urbanity and unremitting attention have afforded so much satisfaction to the frequenters of the CONGAREE.

We are not in favor of great promise, and desire to avoid so doing, but we can assure those who stop at our Hotel that nothing which personal effort or liberal expenditure on our part can accomplish, to contribute to their comfort will be left undone—our intention being to make the CONGAREE HOUSE a temporary HOME to its guests.

Valuable Property—the Reed Gold Mine—for Sale.

BY virtue of a Deed in Trust, executed by A. Hartsell and Timothy Reed, for purposes therein specified, I will sell at Public Auction, on the premises, on Tuesday, the 12th day of October next, that very valuable Tract of Land, known as the lying in Cabarrus county, North Carolina, on the waters of Meadow Creek, about 14 miles Southeast of Concord. This Mine was of the first discovered in the United States and has never ceased to yield the greatest abundance of vein ores—turning out from 50 cents to $100 per bushel; while large quantities of deposite gold have always been found on the surface and along the water-courses. The tract contains 745 acres, with veins of Gold and other ores passing through all of it. No doubt exists as to the richness of the ores, and the immense value of the mine; and nothing but capital is needed to make it the best property in the country. Capitalists are earnestly requested to examine it.

The title is unbottled; and the sale will certainly take place. Terms, 12 months' credit with interest.

Messrs. Hartsell and Reed will show the Mine to persons wishing to purchase. For further particulars, enquire of Rufus Barringer, Esq. at Concord.

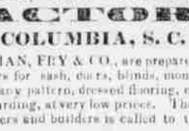
BLANK DEEDS FOR SALE HERE.



J. F. Gilmer,

Druggist and Apothecary,

IS now receiving and opening a fresh and large supply of

together with a large supply of Paint Brushes, Tooth Brushes, also a large assortment of Abdominal Supporters and Trusses, Surgical Instruments, &c., &c., and a large variety of other articles usually kept in such houses.

Having been engaged in business for so long a time, at the same old stand, it would seem useless and unnecessary to give publicity to the fact that I am still "kicking along and blessed with usual health and strength," but my friends Messrs. Holton & Williamson having lately commenced the "North Carolina Whig," in the place of the old familiar "Charlotte Journal," that in days gone by, cheered and made glad so many hearts, on every week it presented itself, I thought I would be doing our energetic and persevering friends great injustice were I not to assist them all I could in their arduous, laborious and responsible undertaking.

To those who have so liberally patronized me for the last number of years I return my grateful acknowledgments, still soliciting your continued kindness and custom, feeling confident that it will be to your advantage and interest. I am still occupying my old stand in Charlotte, on Main-street, near Maj. J. H. Kerr's Hotel, and nearly opposite R. H. Brawley's new building.
