Sunday Reading.

The Flight of Time.

What is a span compared with the immensity of space, and what is three-score years and ten compared with eternity? Human life is likened, in the scriptures, to a vapor, to the swiftness of a weaver's shuttle, to the frail flower, to the withering grass, to the fading leaf, to the drift wood which is borne onward by the resistless flood, to a dream, to a tale that is told, etc. The teachings of history too are in unison with the Bible.

Where, now, are the Antediluvian millions? Where are the busy crowds who once thronged the streets of Babylon and Nineveh, Thebes and Memphis? Where are the armies of Xerxes, Alexander, Cæsar and Hannibal? Where are the great ones of earth, whose sway was absolute, and whose fame was co-extensive with the known world?

They are gone! Gone from their business and their pleasures, their wealth and their honors—gone to experience eternal realities. From Abraham to the birth of Christ their lived seventy two generations, but those, with their ancestors, and their posterity, for eighteen hundred years, have laid themselves down in the dust.

Nor has Death ceased his work. This mighty tyrant is still stalking over the earth in ghastly triumph. He knocks at the door of the palace, and at the door of the cottage, enters, and seizes his victims with a relentless grasp. Neither gray hairs, nor tears, nor female loveliness, nor childish simplicity and innocence, nor piety, nor wealth, nor medical skill, nor earnest entreaties, can affect his adamantine heart, or stay his blood-stained hand. On and on he goes, determined never to rest until the last man shall feel the force of his fell stroke.

But the day of deliverance will come.—Earth shall at last celebrate a jubilee, long and loud. The archangel's trump shall proclaim the end of the long dark reign of death.

And then from every hill top and mountain summit—from the valley of the Mississippi, and from the spicy groves of Ceylon—everywhere, from land and ocean, shall go up the shout, echoing and re-echoing throughout the universe—"O, death where is thy sting! O, grave, where is thy victory!"

Uses of Adversity

The causes of our sorrow being numerous and unavoidable, and our sorrows unprofitable and consuming unless sanctified by divine grace, our first step towards the attainment of consolation is to come to God by repentance and faith in Christ. This done we are children under discipline of heaven. Nothing can befall us, which shall not be overruled for our good. With our temptations there shall be escapes and ways of escape. With our pains and griefs there shall be a killing of corruption within us, and a springing up of life and joy, under the renewing operation of the Spirit, given for our guide, strength and consolation.

The blood of Christ sprinkled upon our consciences, takes the sting out of sorrow, and brings the peace of God, which the world cannot take away. O, what exaltation, what privileges of nearness and affection have we in Christ as the first begotten of many brethren! Having been tempted in all parts, as we are, He is indeed our merciful intercessor with God. Having a feeling of our infirmity, He is qualified to succor us. Such is the indwelling and sympathy of Christ with us, that our griefs are in some sort His. We have his sympathy in our joys, and in our sorrows. There is a joy in the Spirit, a joy of sweet and trusting affection, which is quite compatible with all that is permitted to befall us. Our holy joys, as well as our griefs, are parts of his pleading for us, as both are the fruits of His grace, and represent Him in us.

When weak and tempted, when bowed down in anguish, it is not alone that we suffer; with Him, ours is a fellowship of his sufferings, and we know that he ever liveth to make intercession for us. Yea, He loves and knows us so, that we cannot have a joy or a sorrow which He does not make his own, cannot receive so much as a cup of water, which he will not esteem and reward as given to himself. He would have us know too, his relationship to us, how near and dear it is, and sends us messages daily by his Spirit.

Now I would have every sorrowing person consider the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus. If you are a true believer, you are in the dearest of all relations to Him, and share in his sympathy. At this moment he is feeling, yea, pleading for you. He prays that your faith may be strengthened, your services accepted, and your sufferings made to work for your good. Your name is engraven on his heart: you are never out of his mind: you are given to him in an everlasting covenant. He presents you to God justified in himself, for, he presents your performances, sorrows, and desire perfumed with the incense of his merit, faultless before the Father, who is able and willing to give you all things with Christ. If we are His, it is well with us no matter what befall us. We are one with Christ in God. By virtue of his intercession we have a communion of comfort and grace, and are assured, that all events will be disposed for our profit. It is not more given us to believe on his name, than it is to suffer for his sake, that is, our sufferings are the methods by which our calling is made sure. As He was perfected through sufferings, so are we: it is the end, the sweetening result of all he gives us to bear.

The Rule of Equity

Regarding the rule of Christian equity—"render to all their dues"—as applied to commercial transactions, Mr. Bleby says:

"The question concerning what constitutes the law of Christian equity, is not, simply, what any particular text or precept may prescribe; but what the volume of revelation, as a whole, lays down as the rule of action. Each precept relating to this branch of ethics is to be expounded, not as complete within itself, but as standing in relation to, and as explained by, others. Gather around this precept all the light which this blessed Book sheds upon it, under different aspects; and then, and only then, you have that perfect rule of equity which the divine Lawgiver intends to be our guide, and which it will be safe for us to follow.

Much evil, both as it regards doctrine and practice, has resulted from fixing an arbitrary sense upon abstract portions of God's Word, instead of allowing Holy Scriptures to interpret itself. A careful collation of one passage with others bearing upon the same subject, in order to a candid reception of the meaning thus ascertained, is the best method of understanding the mind of the Spirit in the word; and the neglect of this is, unquestionably, a fruitful cause of the errors and divisions which distract and injure the Christian Church.

By putting an arbitrary sense upon the precept we have cited from the writings of St. Paul, it may be made to bear, almost, whatever meaning selfishness or cupidity may dictate; and there is scarcely any degree of dishonesty, or any kind of atrocity, that may not be palliated, on the plea of rendering to all their due;—every man assuming the right to constitute himself the judge of the merits or demerits of others, and to decide what is due from him to them. But it is not thus we are to regard the rule of equity laid down by the Apostle; it stands upon the sacred page associated with other precepts and declarations, which throw a flood of light upon it, and exhibit all its spirituality and amplitude of meaning; and it is in such association we are to take and apply it to every business transaction in which we may be called, in any capacity whatsoever, to take a part."

PRIEST BURNING THE BIBLE.

In the year 1833, a poor family in Ireland, of the name of McGeantis, was greatly distressed by the painful illness of a daughter, who, after lingering some time, gave signs of approaching dissolution. She was attended by the priests of the Romish Church, to which the family belonged, one of whom discovered, shortly before her decease, that she had repaired for support and comfort in her affliction to a forbidden source. In the wretched hut was a Bible, which the sufferer had received as a reward at a Protestant minister's free school; and the priest commanded that it should be instantly destroyed. The dying girl shuddered; the aged parent entreated that the book might be spared; but he was inexorable and demanded that it should be burned in his presence. The father now openly declared that it should not be done under his roof; and the incensed priest, rushing from the hut with the Bible in his hand, placed it upon a fire of turf kindled in the open air, and thus deliberately destroyed it in the day-time, in the presence of numbers, and in the high road! Nor is this a solitary case. Roman priests, if they had it in their power, would, without the least hesitation commit to the flames every Bible on the face of the earth!

Earthly Bliss

The pleasures of this world are so transitory and fleeting, that it seems a crime for man to pass his days in frivolous pursuits, or to stake, as many do, their whole mind upon what before to-morrow's sun shall go down, will become as dust and vapor. The uncertainty of life, that dark veil which cuts the future from the piercing eyes of man, the ignorance of what he might bring forth, have a salutary effect upon the thoughtful, and wean them from a too great love of the world, its pleasures, or of themselves.—Though there be a few who live to the age of three score years and ten, health and youth are not be relied on, for the nipping frost often destroys in an hour the fairest flower, and the lightning from Heaven often rends the sturdy oak. If we place our hearts upon the riches of the world, they fade away before our sight: and the hard earnings of years are in a moment swept away.

Honoring Parents

We dare say our young friends have been struck with the frequent reference to the duty we owe our parents, in the book of Proverbs. The wise man knew well enough, that it lies at the foundation of all true greatness. Because of its importance it was placed in the decalogue, cited by the Saviour as of perpetual obligation, illustrated by his own beautiful example, referred to by St. Paul with peculiar interest and can scarcely receive too much attention. O how much we owe our parents, and how careful should we be to obey all their lawful commands, and do all in our power to make them happy! We specially call the attention of very little children to this subject. What can be more lovely than the sight of an obedient child? What can be more promising and hopeful? And then, what pleasure do good children realize in honoring those who gave them birth! They show no willfulness, no sullenness, and, consequently, have none of the uneasiness which belong to those bad tempers. O! it is a blessed thing to obey our parents in the Lord; and then you know it is right," and every body, young and old, ought to do right. Just read what some one says about this:—

Little birds sleep sweetly
In their soft round nests,
Crouching in the cover
Of their mother's breast.

Little lambs are quiet,
All the summer night,
With their old ewe mothers,
Warm, and soft, and white.

But more sweet and quiet
Are our little heads,
With our own dear mothers
Sitting by our beds.

And their soft sweet voices
Sing our bushabies,
While the room grows darker
As we shut our eyes.

When we play at evening
Round our father's knees
Birds are not so merry,
Singing on the trees.

Lambs are not so happy,
Mid the meadow flowers:
They have play and pleasure,
But not love like ours.

But the heart that's loving,
Works of love will do:
Those we dearly cherish,
We must honor too.

To our father's teaching
Listen day by day,
And our mother's bidding
Cheerfully obey.

For when in his childhood,
Our dear Lord was here,
He too was obedient
To his mother dear.

And his little children
Must be good as he
Gentle and submissive,
As he used to be.

Valuable Property—the Reed Gold Mine—for Sale.

BY virtue of a Deed in Trust, executed by A Hartsell and Timothy Reed for purposes therein specified, I will sell at Public Auction, on the premises, on Tuesday, the 12th day of October next, that very valuable Tract of Land, known as the lying in Cabarrus county, North Carolina, on the waters of Meadow Creek, about 14 miles South-east of Concord. This Mine was one of the first discovered in the United States and has never ceased to yield the greatest abundance of rich ores—turning out from 20 cents to $100 per bushel; while large quantities of deep rich gold have always been found on the surface and along the water courses. The tract contains 745 acres, with veins of Gold and other ores passing through all of it. No doubt exists as to the richness of the ores, and the immense value of the mine; and nothing but capital is needed to make it the best property in the country. Capitalists are earnestly requested to examine it.

Reed Gold Mine,

The title is undisputed, and the sale will certainly take place. Terms: 12 months' credit with interest.

Messrs. Hartsell and Reed will show the Mine to persons wishing to purchase. For further particulars, enquire of Hon. John Barringer, Esq., at Concord.

PROSPECTUS OF

THE ROWAN WHIG

AND

WESTERN ADVOCATE.

"WHERE'ER THE STAR OF EMPIRE TAKES ITS WAY"

TO BE PUBLISHED IN SALISBURY, N. C.

PROVIDED a sufficient number of subscribers can be obtained, we propose to publish in the Town of Salisbury, a Weekly Newspaper, to be called the ROWAN WHIG and WESTERN ADVOCATE—the first number to be issued on or before the 7th of October next.

The WHIG and ADVOCATE will be devoted to News and Literature, to the Agricultural, Mechanical, Mining, Manufacturing and Mercantile pursuits of our people, and will advocate Whig Principles and Western Interests.

It will be the object of the Whig and Advocate to correct error, to enlighten ignorance, to remove prejudice, and to guard against the machinations of that meanest of all mean creatures—the Political Demagogue—to hold the helm of state up to nature; to show to the people their own interests and rescue their image, and the very age and body of the time its form and pressure.

The Whig and Advocate will use all proper means to elect Gen. WINFIELD SCOTT, President, and WILLIAM A. GRAHAM, Vice President of the United States. Whatever differences of political opinion may exist among us, we never can forget Gen. Scott's public services are prepared to become slaves. We believe him to be Wise, Prudent, and Virtuous and faithful to the Constitution. He has sealed his devotion to his country with his blood, and been crowned with unbroken intrepidity on many a battle field, when opposed by Britain and Mexican valour. His common sense judges, he is at least, a man of honor and truth, and consequently, can never falsify his letter of acceptance to the late Whig Convention, and fail to sustain the principles and the spirit of the great Compromise Measures of 1850.

WILLIE A. GRAHAM needs no commendation at our hands. The people of North Carolina, "his own, his native land," at home know him to possess a clear, cool, and sound intellect, rational principles and spotless reputation.

The WHIG and ADVOCATE will oppose all men and measures which have for their object the disruption of our glorious Union, and will repel "every attempt to alienate any portion of our country from the rest" or to enfeeble the ties which now unite us as one people.

The Paper will be of imperial size—the Press and materials all new and will be published in the best style of the typographical art. It is hoped that every friend of the enterprise will put forth his exertions to obtain subscribers and forward their names to us either to Greensborough, Mocksville, or Salisbury by the 1st of October.

To those who have so liberally patronized me for the last number of years I return my grateful acknowledgements, solicitating your continued kindness and custom, being confident that it will be to your advantage and interest. SUDBURY, Jan. 24, 1851.

Dr. Ayer: In the month of July last I was attacked by a violent hearth-a in the mines of California. I returned to San Francisco, in hope of receiving benefit from a change of climate and diet. My disease ceased, but was followed by a severe cough—and much soreness. I finally started for home, but received no benefit from the voyage.—My cough co- and to grow worse, and when I arrived in New York, I was at once marked by my acquaintances as a victim of consumption. I must confess that I saw no sufficient reason to doubt what my friends all believed. At this time, I commenced taking your truly invaluable medicine with little expectation of deriving any benefit from it in me. You would not receive these lines did I not regard it my duty to state to the afflicted, through you, that my health, in the space of eight months, is fully restored. I attribute it to the use of your CHERRY PECTORAL.

Washington, Pa., April 12, 1848.

Dear Sir:—Feeling that I have been spared from a premature grave, through your instrumentality by the permission of God, I will take the liberty to express to you my gratitude.

A cough and the alarming symptoms of Consumption had reduced me too low to leave me anything like hope, when my physician brought me a bottle of your "Pectoral." It seemed to afford immediate relief, and now in a few weeks time has restored me to sound health.

If it will do for others what it has for me, you are certainly one of the benefactors of mankind.

Sincerely wishing you every blessing, I am

For the removal and permanent cure of all Diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood or habit of the System.

Among the many and important discoveries of this generation is one whose fame will be written, as with a sun beam, in the history of the past. Sands' Sarsaparilla stands forth alone, and by its own merits proclaims its power—that mute eloquence so irresistibly affecting in the appeals of the suffering for relief has been answered. Thousands of cases of diseases have been cured by this invaluable medicine, such as are furnished in the records of time. These things are not done in secret places, or in some unknown town, but are performed in our principal cities and public places. They are brought before the world to substantiate, beyond doubt, the healing virtues of this preperation; and the facts unfolded, although gigantic, are as plain as the light of day.

The Sarsaparilla is combined with the most effectual and, the most salutary productions, the most potent simples of the vegetable kingdom; and its unprecedented success in the restoration to health of those who had pined under the most distressing chronic maladies, has given it an exalted character—furnishing, as it does, evidence of its own intrinsic value, and recommending it to the afflicted in terms the afflicted only can know. It has long been a most important desideratum in the practice of medicine, to obtain a remedy similar to this—one that would act on the liver, stomach and bowels with all the precision and potency of mineral preparations, yet which not any of the deleterious effects upon the vital powers of the system. Although possessed of powerful healing properties, it is entirely harmless, and without injure the most delicate constitution. When in perfect health, no effect is produced by its use, except an increase of appetite; but when disease is seated in the frame, and carrying fast its victim along the path of life, then its mysterious influence is felt and seen; it enkindles new life and vigor, and brings health and strength to the suffering and diseased.

SCROFULOUS AFFECTION OF THE EYES.

WINCHESTER, Ky., October 29, 1849

A. B & D. SANDS—GENTLEMEN: I would not have presumed to write to you, it it was not my duty to let the public know the almost miraculous effect your Sarsaparilla has had upon me. My limbs were covered with ulcerous sores, so that I could not walk during the whole Spring and Summer. In this situation I commenced the use of your Sarsaparilla, and after taking two bottles was entirely cured. I must also tell you of another wonderful cure. My [illegible] was afflicted with this scrofula in his head, so that his physician told him the loss of his sight was inevitable, and permanent blindness seemed to be his fate. Three bottles entirely restored his sight, and we cannot but recommend all similarly afflicted to use Sands' Sarsaparilla. Yours, truly,

BENJAMIN F. BUCKNER.

IT'S POPULARITY ABROAD.

From South America.

MARACAIBO, VENEZUELA, April 12th, 1849.

Messrs Sands—Gentlemen: I embrace it a duty due the public to make known the great benefit I have received by using your valuable Sarsaparilla. About three years since I was attacked with Rheumatism in my shoulders, and also in my legs, and so severe was the pain, that I was unable to sleep. I tried all of the best medicines I could hear of without receiving any benefit, until through the advice of a friend I procured some of your Sarsaparilla, and after using four bottles in the course of fifteen days, I found myself entirely well. I have no hesitation in saying your Sarsaparilla is the best medicine I ever took, and can confidently recommend it to my friends and the public.

Your obedient servant,

J. M. JESURUN.

Here is another, nearer home:

New York, Jan. 8, 1850.

Messrs Sands—Gentlemen,—I have great pleasure in acknowledging to you the great benefit I have received by the use of your Sarsaparilla. A subject of pulmonary disease, I made a voyage to Europe, but while there continued to be afflicted. A few weeks after my return, I was seized with a violent hemorrhage of the lungs, and from the debility and great prostration of strength that followed with the protracted difficulty of respiration, I am entirely relieved by the use of your Sarsaparilla, which I consider a most important and truly valuable discovery in the healing art. I feel that I have not for fourteen years enjoyed so good health as at present.

Very gratefully yours,

S. E. SEYMORE.

Another Scientific Wonder!

Great cure for Dyspepsia! Dr. J. S. Houghton has discovered

PEPSIN,

the true Digestive Fluid or Gastric Juice, prepared from RENNET, or the fourth STOMACH OF THE OX, after directions of Baron Liebig, the celebrated Physiological Chemist, by J. S. HOUGHTON, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a rare wonder of remedy for INDIGESTION DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, LIVER COMPLAINT, CONSTIPATION and DEBILITY. During after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice.

☞ Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, mixed in water, will digest or dissolve, Five Pounds of Lean Beef in about two hours, out of the stomach.

PEPSIN is the chief element or Great Digestive Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Nutrient, Food, the Purifying, Preserving, and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and Intestines. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, forming an ARTIFICIAL DIGESTIVE FLUID, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice, in its chemical powers, and furnishing an ORIGINAL and PERFECT SUBSTITUTE for it. By the use of this preparation, the pains and evils of INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA are removed, as they would be by a healthy Stomach. It is highly necessary for Dyspeptics, suffering with DEBILITY, EMACIATION, NERVOUSNESS, and DYSPEPTIC CONSUMPTION, who are on the verge of the grave. The Stomach is the agent upon which it acts first, is in the case of the most CURIOUS and REMARKABLE

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, might certainly be prepared from the mucous membrane of the Stomach of the Calf, in which state it would digest, as meat and eggs, will be softened and digested just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

☞ Call on the Agent, and get a Pamphlet Circular, gratis, giving a large amount of Scientific Evidence, similar to the above, together with reports of REMARKABLE CURES, from all parts of the United States.

AS A DYSPEPSIA CURER.

Dr. Houghton's Pepsin has produced the most astonishing effects in curing cases of Debility, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption. It is unparalleled in its ability to give the details of cases in this limited space of an advertisement; but authenticated certificates have been given of more than TWO HUNDRED REMARKABLE CURES, in Philadelphia, New York and Boston alone. These were not ordinary cases, and the cures were not only rapid but wonderful, but permanent.

It is a great NERVOUS ANTIDOTE and particularly useful for tendency to Bilious and Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever and Ague, and the evil effects of Quinine, Mercury, and other drugs upon the Digestive organs, after a long sickness. Also for wasting, and the too free use of ardent spirits. It most reconciles Health with Intemperance.
