OUR CHILDHOOD.

BY GEO. D. PRENTICE. To the soft wood's gentle swell, Our childle a crow so well; To gaze out on the even And the boundless fields of sir, To room like angels there!

There are many dreams of gladnese That cling around the post-Old thoughts come throbbing. The forms we love so dearly, In the happy days now gone, The heautiful and lovely, So fair to look upon

Those bright and lovely medens Who seemed so formed for bliss. Too glorious and helicardy For such a world se this! Wiener soft dark eyes wemed awimming

In a ses of liquid light, And whose looks of gold were streaming O'er brows so summy bright. Whose smiles were like the sunshine

In the spring time of the year— Lake the changeful glooms of April Th y followed every tear! They have presed-line hope-away-All their lordiness has fled-That they are with the dead.

* And yet-the thought is saddening To muse on such as they-Are peasing feet away ! That the fair ones whom we love, Like tendrils of the clinging vine.

And can we but think of these In the sort and gentle spring. When the trees are waving o'er us, And the flowers are binsoming! For we know that winter's coming With his cold and stormy sty-And the glorings brouly around us Is blooming but to die !

GOVERNOR REEDER.-The Washington correspondent of the Charleston Standard learns that the President will continue Gov. Reeder in office, leaving him to a voluntary resignation, should he not desire to return election-elicited little else than ridicule from the Cabinet. Mr. Attorney General Cushing inquired of the Governor if he had the Governor auswered affirmatively, when
