day Dr. Pritchard declared himself an independent candidate to the day of the election, it was stultifiedly charged that the Doctor was brought out by the Know-Nothing, and the charges were rung so continually on this key that many of the Know-Nothing themselves, who cared little and intended to do less, relative to the election, determined, as long as they were branded with the offence, to throw their aid in favor of the Doctor—and although the party organ says that in the canvass Mr. Hutchison did not prove himself equal to the others in electorating tactics, yet we have no doubt that the course of Mr. Hutchison's own friends, especially his friends, drove many from his support who preferred him to either of the candidates, and that accounts for so many single votes for the Doctor. We have no doubt Mr. Hutchison has explained before this, "save me from my friends," for certainly he cannot feel under any obligation to the Editor of the Democrat for saying that there are twenty-five men in the county more acceptable than himself. That a pretty way to snub a man after he is defeated.

The High District. We give below the majorities from the counties heard from in the 8th district for Vance and Avery, as follows:

Table with 3 columns: County, Vance's Maj., Avery's Maj. Rows include Macon, Jackson, Haywood, Blount, Henderson, Madison, Yancey, Rutherford, Cherokee, Burke, McDowell, Caldwell.

Vance's present majority is 1129, but the Asheville Spectator says his majority will be increased by the counties to be heard from to 2,000. The result in this district would be for my unpleasant reflections on Mr. Clingman's career has been so reprehensible that any defeat of his political aspirations would be highly gratifying to us. As Mr. Clingman's popularity with the Democratic party was based entirely upon his influence in his district, may it not be the present result, in some degree, due to them from his support. We hope it may have this effect and that the next Legislature will not elect him to the Senate.

The President in the Field. In this week's paper, we insert a statement that Vice President Beckwith had taken the stump in defence of Democracy. And in the same number of the paper, we find a notice of a candidate for the Cincinnati Convention, which is copied from the Cincinnati Gazette, in which it attempts to meddle with the nomination of a candidate for Congress. Read it:

WASHINGTON, July 23, 1858. Hon. Wm. H. Hunt. Dear Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 22nd inst., in relation to the proposed nomination of Mr. Beckwith to the Cincinnati Convention. I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 22nd inst., in relation to the proposed nomination of Mr. Beckwith to the Cincinnati Convention.

This is not the first attempt that Mr. Beckwith has made to meddle in elections. He attempted to have his parasite Farney nominated to the U. S. Senate by trying to influence the Legislature of Pennsylvania. But thanks to the independence of that body, it did not even give him a hearing. The Baltimore Patriot remarks, "if therefore, so great a breach of prudence was perpetrated in one case—what is not to be said of a good reason to infer it was in the other and are consequently reluctantly constrained to believe the above letter is genuine."

Sale of Voluntary Real Estate. We noticed to notice sooner the sale of the valuable real estate which took place in Charlotte on the 7th inst. The two brick buildings sold for about $2000 each, and were bought by A. B. Davidson and Springs, Esq., neither building bringing half its true cost. The Mill was purchased by J. Wilkes, Esq., at 12,200. The original cost we believe was about $40,000. Since the sale, the mill has been undergoing a thorough cleaning up and is now in full operation, and the proprietor is ready to purchase good wheat, for which 90 cents will be readily paid.

Appointment of Judges. A meeting of the Council of State took place in Raleigh on the 16th inst. Patrick Murphy, Esq., of Sampson, was appointed a member of the Council in place of A. A. McKay, of Sampson, resigned. Hon. Josse G. Shephard, of Cumberland, appointed Judge of the Superior Court for the 6th district, in the place of the Hon. S. J. Beckwith, resigned. Hon. Robert H. Heath, Esq., of Chowan, was appointed Judge of the Superior Court for the 1st district in place of the Hon. John W. Kato, resigned.

Turning over the pages of the Cyclopaedia of Commerce, just published, a few matters attracted our attention as interesting, which we propose to transmit for our readers. We were looking for the word, things in commerce—matters that, in a large measure, would be overlooked and unnoticed in the humely attire when placed in addition and surrounded by clouds of polished and costly machinery, and gorgeous furniture. A humble inventor once placed in such an exhibition a few bundles of fiction matches. They were unnoticed. Visitors went there looking for some great thing, not realizing that the despised package of splinters, tipped with chemical fire, was the greatest thing in that proud collection, destined to work a revolution in the means of procuring artificial light, and to become a universal necessity, to be deprived of which would be one of the greatest inconveniences that could happen.

It is not more than twenty years ago since the tinder-box was in universal use. It is abolished now. The invention of the friction match spread slowly, but when it did so, it was so general that it appeared to us without effort. Insignificant as they appear to be, single factories, with expensive machinery, cut up large trunks of timber annually for matches. Under the head of pin we find that the manufacture of this indispensable article of commerce was commenced in the United States before 1812 and 1820, after which time the business has extended greatly, and several patents for the manufacture of pins have been taken out. The manufacture in England and other parts of Europe is estimated upon improvements made in the U. S. Notwithstanding the extent of our own production, the United States imported in 1856 pins to the value of $40,255. Still keeping our attention directed to small things, we find that the imports of needles into this country for 1856 amounted to $246,000. It is said that needles were first made in England in the time of the bloody Mary by a virgin from Spain, but by would not import his secret; it was lost at his death, and not recovered again till 1658, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, when a German taught the art to the English, who have since brought it to the highest perfection. It is said that the construction of a needle requires about 120 operations, but they are rapidly and skilfully performed.

The temperance people will find occasion to express their disapprobation in the fact that 11,000,000 pounds of grain, valued $25,000,000, were annually converted into malt in Great Britain for the use and profit of the distillers. It may reasonably be inferred that a great quantity of these beverages is drunk there. Grounds that are quite an institution with Young America, 800 tons having been imported into the United States from Galicia in one year. We, however, dissent from the supposition that they are used as stimulants, and are elsewhere. But France is the great market for ground malt, whatever it is used for, of which they contain large quantities. The independent temperance agitator, who is to be pitied by so difficult a job, is exported from Texas to the extent of 25,000 or 30,000 kegs, of four to the ton. A kind of charcoal prepared from them, and they sometimes have been made into bread. The present use of substitutes is little inferior to that of alcohol.

The power was a simple party possessing of small, unimportant things. They were made with great care, and were not to be despised, and by a party of men. One of the most interesting and valuable of these inventions was the invention of the printing press, which was the work of a German monk, who lived in the year 1460. It was a great discovery, which has since been improved upon by many other inventors. The printing press has since been improved upon by many other inventors.

These are, doubtless, in this compilation, many curious, interesting, and instructive facts, if you had time to search them out. And now, as we are closing, we take quite a number of them, such as that a bale of East India cotton weighs 200 pounds and contains 15 cubic feet, while a bale of East India cotton weighs 200 pounds and contains 15 cubic feet, while a bale of East India cotton weighs 200 pounds and contains 15 cubic feet.

Under the head of, the United States says that 200,000 pounds of sugar of women's hair is annually sold in France, that the price paid for it is usually six cents a pound. One hundred thousand yambers required to give a yield of 158 grams of sugar a year of cones.
