

The North Carolina Whig.

"Be true to God, to your Country, and to your Duty."

VOLUME 9.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., MARCH 12, 1861.

NUMBER 50.

MRS. T. J. HOLTON, EDITRESS AND PROPRIETRESS.

TERMS:

The North Carolina Whig will be forwarded to subscribers...

Advertisements inserted at One Dollar per square...

J. G. WILKINSON & CO. DEALERS IN WATCHES, JEWELRY, SILVER AND PLATED WARE.

R. W. BECKWITH DEALER IN WATCHES, JEWELRY, SILVER AND PLATED WARE.

FURNITURE! AT CHARLESTON PRICES.

DAVIDSON & BROTHER, FURNITURE!

DAVIDSON & BROTHER, FURNITURE!

DAVIDSON & BROTHER, FURNITURE!

DAVIDSON & BROTHER, FURNITURE!

DAVIDSON & BROTHER, FURNITURE!

MARKET HOUSE.

Family Groceries, Butter and Eggs, Cereals, Figs, Corns, Raisins, Nuts, Pickles, Preserves, Wines, &c.

Chambers, Barnes & Co., Factors and General Commission Merchants, CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MERCHANT TAILORING

FULLINGS, SPRINGS & CO. HAVE added to their Ready-made Clothing Stock...

ROCK ISLAND CASSIMERES. They feel confident of their ability to undersell any other house in the State...

Twenty-Five Per Cent. To the customer, if Dimes saved are Dollars made...

GREAT SACRIFICES OF FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

GOODMAN & EIGENBRUN, TRADE STREET, OPPOSITE OATES & WILLIAMS.

OATES & WILLIAMS. Respectfully inform the citizens of Charlotte...

FALL OPENING. New Store, New Goods!

Leowenstein & Bro. DEALERS IN ALL KINDS OF READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE GREAT CLOTHING EMPORIUM. FULLINGS, SPRINGS & CO.

NEW STOCK OF CLOTHING. They think they can offer greater inducements to buyers...

CASSIMERE SUITS. from $10 to $25. All made of CASSIMERE, PASTES, CASSIMERE, SILK, MOTALASSE AND VELVET VESTS.

JOHN T. BUTLER, PRACTICAL WATCH AND GOLD MAKER.

S. T. Wriston, MANUFACTURER of Gold and Silver in Third and Fourth Streets, between W. and W. W. Streets.

Poetry.

FROM THE REPERT OF THE AGE. Evening Meditations. BY HELEN M. C.

I love at ease to steal away Into the quiet wood, And there beneath a shady tree...

Miscellaneous. THE STONE-MASON. BY WM. HENRY PECK.

A few years ago, in New York, and after the sun had set to the month of June...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

with a draw of exquisite self-esteem; but with a fierce sharpness unusual to the young man.

George broke in with: "And my dress, what of that, sir?"

"In which dress are found many more genuine gentlemen, Mr. Smythe, than can be discovered in such a glossy jacket as yours...

"I have already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

Mr. John Smythe whispered to Mr. Wheaton:

"There is a tie in the vote, or will be. Your vote will decide the matter. Give it for Loopy."

"His plan is ridiculous. Would you have a church like a tenement house?" said Wheaton.

"I will tell you plainly, Mr. Wheaton," said John Smythe, with a fierce look...

"Six for Loopy and six for Wheaton," said the secretary, after the balloting.

"For the prize or the contract?" "For the prize, the contract to be awarded by the winner of the prize."

"Your vote decides it," said John Smythe, with a meaning glance at Wheaton.

"Gentlemen," said Wheaton, "among all the plans submitted but one name is genuine, unless this of George Ueited may be a true name...

"He grieves justly," said George, as he turned away. "Had the hammer hit him, an inferior animal would have been killed."

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

O'Bannon, White, and a host of other border heroes lived and acted, and each of whose lives would make a volume more wonderful than the history of the knights and gallants of the olden time.

One pleasant afternoon, in the autumn of 1794, a company numbering some thirty men, with about the same number of women and children...

It was a picturesque sight,—the plodding, meek-eyed oxen, dragging the lumbering baggage-wagons...

It is needless to say that all were fully armed—and the scouts were out—scouts in front, in the rear and on either side...

In the very midst of the march was Mrs. Childs and her daughter Sarah. The latter was a brave, young-hearted girl...

"You are one of nature's aristocrats, all others are sham aristocrats," said Mr. Wheaton. "We must become better acquainted..."

"I know he made one—for I and my uncle attended it," said Mr. Wheaton. "But have always suspected John Smythe destroyed it."

"No, I must have been," said George, "and John Smythe had no reason to go for the property bequeathed to my father five years ago..."

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

until frightened at her own tenacity, she suddenly halted. As she did so something cold touched her hand, and upon looking at it, she discovered that it was stained with blood.

"Upon looking further she saw a riding upon the ground, and upon examination, discovered to her surprise that it was loaded.

At first she laid the rifle down again, intending to leave it, but upon second thought, she took it and crept her self in the bushes. Just then she heard a footstep and, looking up, discovered a crouching Sioux Indian, who was gazing upon her in unobtrusive surprise.

A shot from the waiting points, was the signal of danger to the emigrants, and upon hearing this, they instantly formed themselves into a position to repel assault and awaited anxiously for further developments.

George Wilson. A few years since, as Mr. Wheaton was walking in the streets of Hartford, there came running up to him a party of very ordinary appearance...

"Can you tell me of a man who would like a boy to work for him, and learn him to read?"

"I have no parents," was the reply, "and have just run away from the work house because they would not teach me to read."

"The gentleman made arrangements with the authorities of the town, and the boy left to read. Nor was this all. He soon acquired the confidence of his new associates by faithfulness and honesty."

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

THE DUNDEE HERALD.

BY EDWARD S. ELLIS.

At the close of the Revolutionary war, the tide of emigration commenced pouring into the great Northwest with unexampled rapidity.

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

THE DUNDEE HERALD.

BY EDWARD S. ELLIS.

At the close of the Revolutionary war, the tide of emigration commenced pouring into the great Northwest with unexampled rapidity.

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...

"I should be proud to be the designer of that," said Mr. Wheaton, after a critical examination.

"You are already given me more, for the gratitude of the eyes is more substantial than that of the lips or purse...