

A BASKET OF CHIPS

"Anger," says Dr. Thomas Fuller, "is one of the sinews of the soul—he that wants it hath a warped mind, and like Jacob, whose sinews shrunk in the hollow of his thigh, must needs halt. Nor is it good to converse with such as cannot be angry, and, like the Caspian Sea, never ebb nor flow." In physiologal parlance the good humors predominating, but still with a sufficiency of the devil in him to keep a rascally wold at arm's length!

—It was Napoleon who says, "Strange as it may appear, when I want any good head-work done I choose a man—provided his education has been suitable—with a long nose. His breathing is bold and free, and his brain, as well as his lungs and heart cool and clear. In my observations of men, I have almost invariably found a long nose and head together."

—The public seems to delight in depreciation; for, let any man write or speak out a truth, if it comes clash with any generally received whim or prejudice, he is sure to get a slap in the chops with a dish cloth! How is that? Simply, because the great majority of men hate the truth however much they may affect the contrary, and consequently are not the free men they assume to be.

—A man may think well, and yet not act wisely. The power to see what is right is very different from the power of doing it. A man of moral energy will accomplish more with a little knowledge than a man of inferior wit, with much; and strength of will is generally acquired by struggling with difficulties in early life.

—To be a woman of fashion is one of the easiest things in the world. A lesser desideratum is thus: Buy everything you don't want, pay for nothing you get; smile on all mankind but your husband; be happy everywhere but at home; hate the country; abhor the city; read novels; neglect your children; curse lap dogs, and go to church every time you get a new shawl.

INNOCENCE—A stripling, some eight years of age, was engaged in the manufacture of a stool, which, on account of the disparity of the length of the legs, refused to stand up.

"Mother," said he, "does the Lord see everything?"

"Yes, my son."

"Well," replied the young hopeful, "then I guess he'll laugh when he sees this stool."

The following is a specimen of the "badly mixed" condition of our pronunciation.—The same combination of letters is made to have six different sounds:

"Wife, make me some dumplings of dough; They are better than meat for my cough; Preys on them and gives me strength; But of course they're heavy and tough; Now, I must say, it's my fault."

And the boys, when they've had enough, Make keep of the fire with a hough;

While the old mare drags at the rough!"

—Never despair in adversity. Work and persevere. When the wheel is turning round, the bottom must turn up—somewhere.

If we could read the secret history of our enemies, we would find in each man's life, sorrow and suffering enough to disarm all hostilities.

—Here's you little rascal, walk up and give an account of yourself. Where have you been?"

"After the girls, father!"

"Did you ever know me to do so, when I was a boy?"

"No, sir—but mother did."

—There is now a new value extant by the witty of our country, when addressed by a friend whom they consider doubtful. Here it is:

"Friend, how are you?"

"As good as brandy, but not so well liked," is the reply.

—A great curse of American society is the folly, or, in many instances, either the vanity, of appearance making. How many ruined families might be well-doing and happily circumstanced but for this folly!—How many a crime would never have been committed had it not been for this social curse!

DODGE IT THOROUGHLY.—A lady, on separating from her husband, charged her religion; being determined, she said, to avoid his company in this world and the next too.

—A rural post, in describing his lady, late says, "She is graceful as a water-lily, while her breath smells like an awful clover."

—The young lady who burst into tears, has been put together again, and is now wearing hoops to prevent a recurrence of the accident.

—"Have you ever broken a horse?" enquired horse-jockey. "no, not really," replied Cimarron, "but I've broken three or four Wagons trying to."

Why should a sailor always know what's about him? Because he's always going to sea.

—Our black regiments fought well, but seldom if saying so.
