JOSIAH TURNER. This gentleman has declared himself an independent candidate for Governor of North Carolina, on a platform of his own. At one time we would sooner have thought such a thing possible from any other man in the State rather than from Mr. Turner, but for the last year or two his course has been such as to take away what surprise and mortification we would otherwise have experienced.

In '68 and '70, Mr. Turner was undoubtedly the most popular man in the Democratic party in the State—now, speaking for Cabarrus, and we have no doubt the same is true of every county in the State—he could not get a dozen votes for any office.

In 1868 and '69, Mr. Turner was regarded as the leader of the party; no one then thought he was other than a patriot, or that his course was dictated by a single selfish motive. His paper, the Sentinel, as the leading organ of the party, had a large circulation, and he has received since 1870, with the exception of one term, the contract for the Public Printing; and is now the Public Printer. This is estimated to be worth $1,000 a year, and if he has not made money out of it, it is his own fault and not that of the Democratic party. The party cannot be charged with ingratitude toward him, but he appears to be ungrateful toward the party.

His present course seems to be dictated by purely selfish motives; but he will find when too late that he has only injured himself, for by his own acts he has dug his political grave, and, as an exchange puts it, has given a receipt in full for all services he may have rendered the party.

The nomination of Col. Walter L. Steele for Congress is creating great enthusiasm throughout the District. His eminent fitness for the position is conceded on all hands, and his election is such an assured fact that it is doubtful if he will have any opposition at all.

The New York Sun says of Gen. Hinton and Mr. Ashe, whom Blaine impudently objected to as members of the investigation, on the ground that they were "ex-officers of the rebel army," that they are "acknowledged on all sides to be among the fairest and most honorable men in the House."

The commencement exercises of the Thomasville Female College, on Tuesday last, passed off with great eclat. The Greensboro' State says Col. Waddell's substitute, Mr. Pace, of Raleigh, was equal to the occasion.

An exchange reminds Mr. Blaine that the bloody shirt isn't large enough to cover up those bonds. Besides, the flap is too gauzy.

It is said that Grant will make a tour of the world as soon as his term expires.

WALTER L. STEELE.

[Raleigh News.] The nomination of this gentleman to Congress by the Democrats of the Sixth Congressional District will be greeted with pleasure by his many friends throughout the State, and gives assurance that North Carolina is certain for another Democratic Congressman. Waddell and Steele are invincible in their districts.

Col. Steele is one of our best men. He has a stainless name. His patriotism has been tried. He is one of North Carolina's most devoted sons, and worthy the high honor which has been bestowed upon him.

In addition to patriotism and integrity of character, Col. Steele is a popular speaker of more than ordinary abilities. He is forcible and direct in style, powerful in argumentation, and crushing when he deals in invectives against a political adversary. This oratorical talent, combined with his many other sterling qualities, render him a tower of strength among his people, and will make him an able Representative in the halls of Congress.

His election is among the certainties. If there is any opposition to him at all it will be slight—hardly worthy of notice. May we not, therefore, hope that he will enter the general canvass in the State, and aid with his eloquent voice in arousing the people in the doubtful parts of the country?

While hoisting the name of Richmond's favored sons to the mast-head we cannot but turn with feelings of regret toward the honored and trusty public servant who now represents the Sixth Congressional District at Washington. Twice his constituents have expressed their confidence in his sound judgment, his unswerving virtue and pure patriotism; once such expression came from the whole party, when he was chosen as our standard bearer in 1868.

Mr. Ashe has discharged the high and responsible duties attaching to the position of a Representative in Congress with a degree of diligence and watchfulness that entitles him to the grateful remembrance of his countrymen. For nearly four years he has stood at his post, amid all the rampant corruptions of Washington, without once wavering in his rigid adherence to the great principles of public virtue, or failing in the least in his duty to his constituents. He richly merits, and will receive the approbation of the people.—Well done, thou good and faithful servant.

[See Dee Courier.] It is with proud pleasure that we herald to our readers this week that our townsman Col. W. L. Steele was nominated by the Democratic Convention, held at Wadesboro on last Wednesday for Congress in the 6th Congressional District. Col. Steele has labored long and faithfully for the Democratic party, and it was a fitting duty for the party to give him the nomination. The present incumbent the Hon. T. S. Ashe is one of the purest and best men in the State, and therefore the compliment paid Col. Steele in nominating him in preference to Mr. Ashe is no small one. The friends of Mr. Ashe worked zealously for his re-nomination but when the final result was reached none showed a greater determination to support and work for Col. Steele's election.

THE SOUTH AND THE PRESIDENTIAL QUESTION.—The South wants no office for herself; she wants the St. Louis Convention to nominate the very strongest men in the North, those who can carry the most States above the dividing line, and to him she will give 124 electoral votes—all she has save those of South Carolina. We firmly believe that Tilden can carry New York and Pennsylvania. Then we can afford to lose Ohio. A Western man for Vice President can carry sufficient Western States to elect the ticket. We wish the strongest man—and none of that money question in the platform. A generalality will cover that. No Ohio idiosyncrasy will be permitted by the South. Hancock we believe the next strongest man to Tilden.—Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer.

Domestic Trouble and Its Bloody and Mysterious Sequel.

[Charlotte News and Courier.] Captain Smith and his wife and child occupied two rooms in the Sea Island Hotel at Beaufort. Mrs. Smith was a very pretty woman, and apparently lived in perfect harmony with her husband. On Saturday morning Captain Smith intercepted letters to his wife from a brother officer of the fleet, which terribly compromised Mrs. Smith. Outraged and indignant, Captain Smith confronted his wife, showed her the letters, and charged her with infidelity. He would take their child, while she could return to her parents in Boston. In the meantime he would have his effects removed from the apartments they then occupied to another portion of the hotel. Mrs. Smith protested against this action, and informed her husband that if he exposed her in that way she would kill herself. Captain Smith replied that she did not have the courage to take her own life. He then left her, went to the proprietor of the hotel and told him that after that day he would not be responsible for his wife's board. He engaged rooms at the other side of the building, and had his trunks and other effects moved into them. Later in the day Mrs. Smith was found in her own room, the door of which was locked, in the death agony, with a frightful wound through her body. She died in a few minutes. The coroner held an inquest over the corpse a short time afterwards. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that it was doubtful whether the deceased had committed suicide or not. We understand that there was no mark of powder around the wound. The grand jury of Beaufort county are investigating the matter.

The New York Evening Post tells its readers that kind of a man will not be elected President. No one who was not heartily in favor of the success of the Northern arm during the late war, stands a ghost of a chance. There is no hope on the other hand for any man who in this centennial year still seeks to renew and keep alive the hates and passions engendered by that war. No man who is crutchy on the subject of finance; that is to say, no man not known to be an "honest hard money man" can receive the support of the country. Finally no man but an honest man of unspotted record can be elected. Upon this point it says: A determination to arrest the abuses and outrages which degrade the administration of office everywhere, is, we believe, the strongest immediate purpose in the heart of the American people. The terrible revelations of fraud, peculation and conspiracy which have been made in Washington simply, but in Albany, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and all over the South, have wrought their effects. The shame and disgust which they have awakened have also determined the will. The judgment day of the rascals has come. Let them call themselves what they please, they are rascals still, and no considerations of party will shield them from the just vengeance of the nation. We commend this current to the attention of both conventions, assured that the one which fails to consult it will fail in the final trial.

SMALL POX IN MONTGOMERY.—We regret to learn that this disease has broken out in our neighboring county, Montgomery. It seems that a young man by the name of Frank Woolley, son of Dr. Calvin W. Woolley, had been West to Indianapolis, Indiana, we believe, and some sixteen days after his return home he was taken down sick. The physician attending the young man had never seen a case of small pox, and did not have his suspicions aroused that it was this fearful malady with which his patient was suffering until the lapse of some ten or twelve days—in the meantime many persons, perhaps an hundred, having visited the sick man. As soon as the character of the young man's ailment was ascertained, (which of course caused a panic in the community,) a messenger was dispatched to this place for vaccine matter, with the view of a thorough vaccination of the people of the infected locality. Great fears are entertained of the disease spreading, but if the proper steps have been taken, it will doubtless be confined to its present limits. A small pox hospital has been established, to which all persons attacked with the disease are to be taken, cared for and guarded. Dr. Woolley's residence, where the disease originated, is some twenty-five miles from this place. Young Woolley, it is thought, contracted the disease in Cincinnati, through which city he passed on his return home.—Rockingham South.

HARRISBURG DEW.

[Correspondence of the Concord Register.] Everything is quiet about our village. Business continues to be lively considering the scarcity of money. The new firm of Cross, Russell & Co., have commenced business, and have on a full head of steam. The farmers are generally through harvesting; the wheat crop is very fine in this part of the county—the prospect for a fair crop was never more flattering. A match game of base ball was played between the Sober nine of this place, and the Eureka Fossils of Pioneer Mills, the 5th inst., on the grounds of the latter; with a victory of 15 for the Sobers. "Rah for 'em. We have a Good Templar Lodge, with about 40 members.

The Rev. Dr. Wheary, of Virginia, now takes pastoral charge of Rocky River Church. The congregation may congratulate themselves on securing the services of as able a divine as Dr. Wheary. We wish him happiness and success in his new field of labor.

A traveler (an Irishman) asked of a Harrisburg boy, the other day, "Jack, which is the way to Harrisburg?" "How do you know my name is Jack?" inquired the little fellow. "Why, I guessed at it." "Then please display your guessing faculties in another instance, and guess your way to Harrisburg." The same Irishman dropped a letter in the Postoffice at Harrisburg with the following written on its corner: "Please hasten the delay of this letter."

A young man from some where about Concord got a little tipsy and took an excursion to our village on the cow-catcher of the mail train, one night last week. Had our Mayor been at home we would have had him in the lock-up. He said they (he) and the dry ticket in (his) Concord, and he was going to (his) Charlotte to get a drink. Yours, Doxa.

Letter from Eastern North Carolina. RINGWOOD, HALIFAX COUNTY, N. C., June 9, 1876.

Editor Register.—The article appearing in Weldon News derogatory to Governor Vance, was written in the editor's absence. Dr. Manning, the editor, I feel sure, does not endorse it. I have seen and consulted with the most influential men here, who condemn it unsparingly. Vance is considered here as the strongest man for any position he may desire in the State. We would prefer to have him in Congress, being a position of more ease, and not bringing on such a canvass as the candidacy for Governor would. At any rate if he is not sent to Congress from his District, and is nominated for Governor, from the seashore to the mountains will reverberate with his praises, and he will ride so triumphantly into office at the hands of his people, who have cause to love him, that slanderers and traducers, both Radicals, that fear, and so-called Conservatives, who envy him, will sink into that insignificance their baseness so richly deserve. Zeb. Vance, a proud, lofty and able statesman, can never suffer by traducers of small calibre, but as long as virtue, patriotism and truth are respected, he will be loved and revered by his countrymen whom he has served so faithfully, both in peace and in war. He needs no vindication at my hands, and I simply wish to state that no portion of this county endorse any reflection whatever on his character, but believe him pure, incorruptible, and would vote for him for any position he may desire, and feel proud to honor him. COLD WATER. [Correspondence of the Concord Register.] Crops of cotton and corn in this vicinity are looking exceedingly well, though a little later than usual.

We learn that Mrs. Cook, an aged lady of this vicinity, died on last Thursday night, 5th inst. The burial and funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Bickle, of Concord.

We are also sorry to learn of the death of a little son of Mr. Paul Furr, of Cold Water, which took place on Saturday evening, 10th inst. Mr. Furr was absent, attending the burial and funeral of his father at the time, and when he came home, found his son, (aged some 10 years) a corpse. We tender the bereaved family our sympathies in their sad affliction.

MARRIED.—On Sunday morning, 4th inst., at Ebenezer church, Mr. Monroe Stireward, of Cabarrus, and Miss Sallie Kotmer, of Rowan county. Be v. Mr. Petree officiated. More anon, G.

JOSIAH TURNER.—HE SHOWS HIS HAND AT LAST AND BECOMES AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR.—And the end of it all is, that Josiah Turner has announced himself as an independent candidate for Governor of North Carolina. All we have to say, for the present, is that it is far better for the party to have an open enemy than a secret foe. Mr. Turner's announcement places him beyond the pale of the Democratic party. By his own act and not by the act of that party he takes position in the ranks of its enemies. The position is of his own voluntary seeking. He has not been driven to it by ill usage or bad treatment. At the very moment he made the announcement of his purpose to be an independent candidate against the nominee of the Democratic party he was, if not eating the head of that party, at least enjoying the profits of an office bestowed upon him by that party. Josiah Turner is to-day Public Printer by favor of the party whose downfall he announces it to be his purpose to bring about.—Wilmington Journal.

POOL AND HOWERTON.—The action of the Wake County Democratic Convention, which is elsewhere printed in our columns to-day, in reference to two alleged defalcations by officers of the State government, is timely and wise. While Democrats condemn those in their party who are guilty of violating a trust, Republicans are silent, or apologetic as to their own defaulters. When we condemn Pool and Howerton they justify Howerton by Pool. Shame! Wrong is wrong, by whomsoever committed. And then, Colonel Pool's breach of trust was aside from his office. Howerton's was performed in pretending to carry out the duties of his office. This is no defence of Pool, but the fact that Pool resigns, bowing his head to the popular will, shows that the Conservative party is more exacting in its moral requirements than the Republican party. The people will remember this.—Wilmington Star.

THE FOLLY OF PRIDE.—The very witty and sarcastic Rev. Sydney Smith thus discoursed on the folly of pride in such a creature as man: "After all, take some quiet, sober moment of life, and add together the two ideas of pride and of man; behold him, a creature of a span high, stalking through infinite space in all the grandeur of littleness. Perched on a speck of the universe, every wind of heaven strike into his blood the coldness of death; his soul floats from his body like melody from a string; day and night, as dust on the wheel, he is rolled along the heavens, through a labyrinth of worlds, and all the creations of God are flaming above and beneath. Is this a creature to make himself a crown of glory, to deny his own flesh, to mock at his fellow, sprung from that dust to which both will soon return? Does the proud man not err; does he not die; when he reasons, is he never stopped by difficulties; when he acts, is he never tempted by pleasure; when he lives, is he free from pain; when he dies, can he escape the grave? Pride is not the heritage of man; humility should dwell with frailty, and atone for ignorance, error and imperfection.

The following paragraph clipped from the last Courier-Journal is suggestive: South Carolina, is probably the poorest State in the Union. In many of the counties the people are on the borders of starvation, and the above furnishes one of the reasons for their destitution.

Col. S. D. Pool—He Resigns his Position.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 10, 1876. MR. EDITOR.—I have this day tendered my resignation of the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction to Governor Brogden, to take effect June 30, 1876, at the close of the present school year. On that day, I shall give to the public, through the columns of such papers as shall see fit to publish it, a brief yet full statement of my official conduct, and in addition thereto an explicit account of all matters connected with the Peabody Fund and its disbursement by me. From these statements, when published, the public can see whether I have failed to perform any duties imposed upon me by virtue of the office of Superintendent.

Very respectfully, S. D. Pool.

Blaine's Younger Days. [Charlotte Observer.] Rev. B. S. Bronson, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, of this city, spent a considerable part of his early life in the same town in Connecticut, with James G. Blaine, the present member of Congress from Maine who is now undergoing investigation in Washington for certain crooked transactions in railroad bonds. Mr. Bronson says that next to his father's house in this Connecticut town, there lived a family which in addition to the heads, consisted of four daughters, sisters, three of whom were school teachers. The fourth moved off to another State, and took a school, and after a prolonged absence, returned to her home; saying that she had married while away, and that her husband's name was James G. Blaine. Sometime after her return, Blaine followed, and was introduced to the family and friends as the husband of the sister who had been absent. He was poor and had no means by which to support himself, much less a wife to boot. His father-in-law, however, advanced him money, and he established a paper. This was the beginning of his political career, and he has been going up ever since, until it seems he has finally "gone up" for good.

THE WHOOPING COUGH IN THE WAGON SEAT.—[Special dispatch to the Baltimore Gazette.]—Washington, June 9.—Yesterday Mr. Landers, of Indiana, occupied the seat of the colored member from Alabama, Jere Haralson, during which a couple of ladies in the members' gallery were intently engaged in studying a diagram of the members' seats, and looking for the location of prominent members; Haralson is put down as of some consequence, having once been a slave, and on finding his seat, one of the ladies was surprised to see that so white a man could have ever been in bondage, and remarked: "That was one of the evils of the defunct institution." The other lady leveling her glass upon Landers, remarked, "Still you can very plainly see the trace of the nigger in him." The conversation having been reported to Mr. Landers he has taken an oath never again to occupy the seat of a colored member.
