

BROOKLYN FRIGHTENED.

A Case of Yellow Fever in the City Hospital.

New York, Oct. 26.—Considerable alarm has been occasioned over the death in St. John's Hospital, in Brooklyn, of Capt John Gillard, of the steamer Carens, of yellow fever. The health authorities, however, assert that there is no cause for fear, as everything possible to prevent the spread of the disease has been done. The steamer Carens was immediately returned to the lower quarantine, where she will be most thoroughly fumigated. A portion of her cargo, which was discharged at Martin's stores, was also disinfected. Some trouble was experienced in finding out the coachman who drove the sick captain to the hospital and not until after several other persons had hired the hack could he be found. The vehicle was thoroughly disinfected, and the officers are now at work trying to locate the several passengers.

The body of the captain, after being enclosed in an air-tight casket, was taken to Evergreen Cemetery for interment. Portions of the body had been retained by the doctors and will be subjected to microscopic examination for scientific purposes in more fully determining the diagnosis of case. Part of the ship's cargo which was shipped east will be looked for by the health authorities, they having been informed of the matter, so that proper precautions can be taken.

Superstitions About Children.

The Esthonian mother attaches a bit of asafetida to the child's neck.

A sufficient preventive for an Irish babe is a belt made of woman's hair.

Garlic, salt, bread and stake are first put in the cradle of a new born child in Holland.

A small bit of red ribbon is all the Roumanian infant requires to secure it from harm.

Scotch mothers say if the child takes a spoon in the left hand first, it will always be unlucky.

In some parts of Scotland and Germany, an open Bible left with the child will effectually keep off the fairies.

Two babies must not, according to mothers in many lands, be allowed to embrace, as one or both will become mute.

In Lower Brittany some fearful and terrifying object will take the infant's place unless a cloth is thrown over the cradle.

Perhaps the most widespread belief concerning children is that about the empty cradle, which must, on no account, be rocked.

In Germany, as well as in Scotland, some article of the father's wardrobe is thrown over the new born child, so that it will grow strong.

Sam Jonesisms.

A man is just as strong as the thing he gives himself to.

You can't get along without three good, honest prayers a day.

If you'll get on God's train and keep your seat, you'll go through to destination as sure as a gun is iron. Get the idea.

The f's have got the gang—feeling and "fitten."

A fellow that don't live right in his family, can't pray in his family. Durham is a whale. If there is anything bigger than that she is it.

Talk good about your neighbors. Brag on a fellow to keep the devil from bringing on you.

It ain't what you've got, but what sort of a fellow is it got it.

That Clergyman Should be Converted.

"A leading clergyman here took occasion to refer in very strong yet proper language to unseemly language in the pulpit or at religious services. It was well understood that this was directed at the notorious Sam Jones. The world runs after strange gods these days, as it used to in days long past. It is time to call a halt, and the force and propriety of the clergyman's language were felt by all who heard him."

The above clipping is from a Raleigh correspondent to the Wilmington Messenger. The Recorder would advise this clergyman and his correspondent, to go and hear Sam Jones and be converted. Talk about calling a halt. Why there is no calling a halt on Sam Jones—for God is at his back, saying go it Sam, I am with you always. It's the devil that cries halt.

Another Deal Rumored.

Considerable of a buzz was caused upon the streets yesterday evening by a report that the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company had just closed a negotiation for the control of the Atlantic Coast Line. It was reported also that other important transactions were pending which would be announced in a few days.

No reliable confirmation of the transfer of the Coast Line could be obtained. Col. Andrews and Col. Turk are both out of the city, but several prominent railroad men here gave it as their opinion that the transaction had been consummated, one declaring to his positive knowledge of the matter.

A U. S. Marshal Tells His Experience

ATLANTA, GA., February 4, 1888.

HUNNICUTT RHEUMATIC CO:

Gentlemen—It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to that of the many who endorse your Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure. I had been a constant sufferer from rheumatism for years, when I determined to try your cure, and to my surprise and delight one bottle was all I found necessary to relieve me of all the symptoms of rheumatism, and deem it but justice not only to those who originated this cure, but to all others who may be suffering from the same cause, to say this much in confirmation of what is claimed for this medicine. Yours respectfully,

JOHN W. NELMS.

A Prominent Atlanta Lawyer's Testimony.

ATLANTA, GA., Dec. 26th, 1887.

Gentlemen I have taken your Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure for Inflammatory Rheumatism with great benefit. It is, in my opinion, the best medicine for Rheumatism I ever took.

JNO. D. CUNNINGHAM.

It Gives Universal Satisfaction.

ATLANTA, GA., Sept. 6, 1887.

D R SIRS:—We have sold large quantities of your Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure and have never known any other preparation to give such universal satisfaction as a remedy for rheumatism. We consider it the most reliable rheumatic cure on the market.

Yours respectfully,
