

All is Yet Well.
 [Raleigh Intelligencer]
 The Agricultural Bureau for this State has recently published a report full of encouraging information. The statistics furnished conclusively prove that our people have not been materially inconvenienced by the excess of the blacks, but, on the other hand, the outlook for the industrial classes was never more promising. It was apprehended, at one time, that the loss of fully one-eighth of the entire black population of North Carolina would seriously interfere with our farming interests, but that report shows that the area under cultivation is as large this year as it was last, and certainly the condition of the crop up to this time is incomparably better.

But the evidence that the white people of this State can take care of themselves is evasive, for in many parts of the State the appearance of thrift is greater than ever before. Fruit growing is receiving more attention, the grape is being more extensively cultivated; and there is no reason why we should not be made within the borders of our own North Carolina as good as can be made in any other part of the world. The same sun that warms the plains of Italy, and the hillsides of France, warms our fields, and the sky that bends over us is just as beautiful and kindling.

The most encouraging feature of the report is that our people are not going in debt as much as formerly. The number of mortgages and liens recorded this year is a third less than last, and this means our farmers are making at home has caused a great falling off in the purchase of fruit.

It is seldom that a report of this character contains so much that is encouraging from an industrial standpoint. Undoubtedly a new era is dawning. Our future farms may not be as large as those we loved, in former days, to ride over and call our own. The ancestral fences may have to be drawn in, but it will not follow that the ancestral oaks must be cut down. These can and should be preserved, to guide the new laborer in Southern fields, as the wisdom of our ancestors must guide us in solving the problems which confront the new South.

We welcome the white laborer to our State, and are glad that he is accepting our invitation. We have never said to the black man we want you to go, nor do we intend to beg him to remain; but we do say to the honest white laborer, come. We will sell him a home, protect him by just and equal laws, and rejoice when he prospers.

 My little niece had white swelling to such an extent that she was confined to the bed for a long time. More than 20 pieces of bone came out of her leg, and the doctors said amputation was the only remedy to save her life. I refused the operation and put her on S. S. S., and she is now up and active and in as good health as any child.
