UNTIL the laborers of America learn the fact that they will not be allowed to take the law into their own hands and control or destroy the property of others just as they may see fit, they will always suffer in their conflict with capital.

The only hope of relief for the laborer—as well as for other classes—from the oppression of unjust laws through the ballot box; and the sooner he realizes this fact and goes to work intelligently to seek that relief the better off he will be.

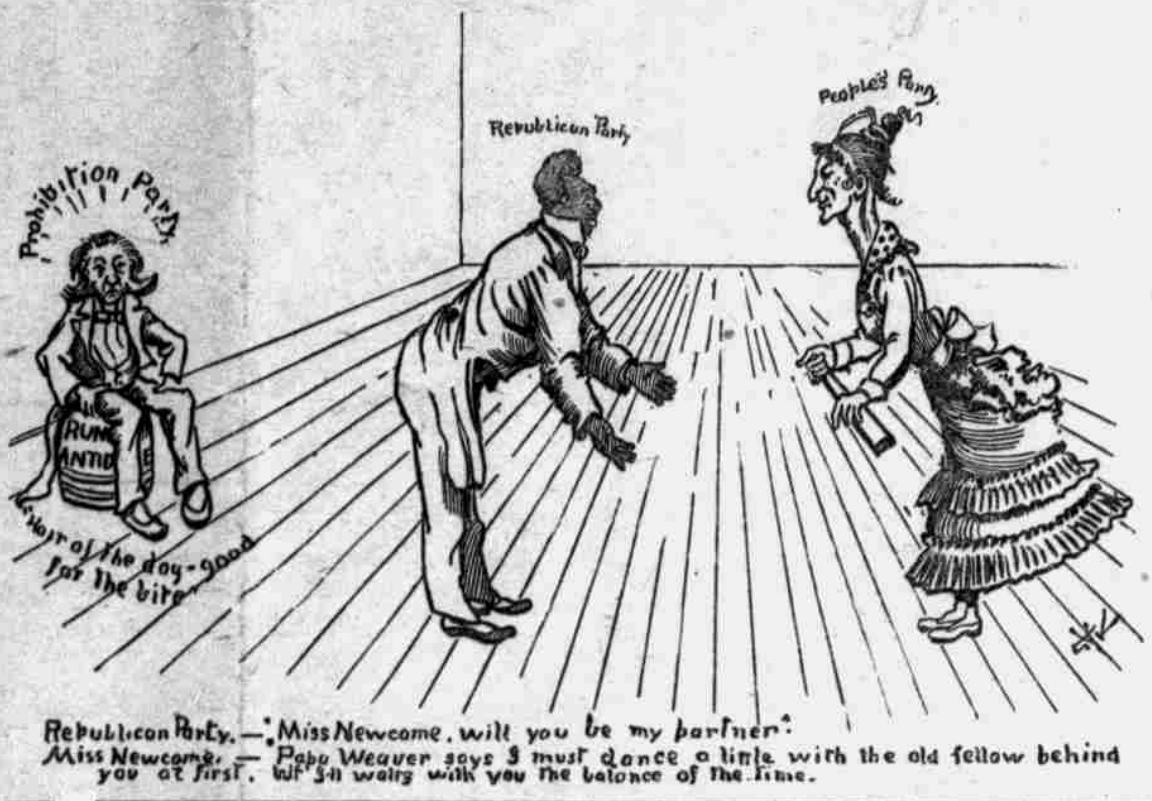

MR. CLEVELAND is one of those numerous Americans who have a way of saying a thing very well. He never essays a speech without making use of some new expression which sticks in the public memory.

THE hope of that farmers' alliance might operate toward the disruption of the "solid south," has a good deal to do toward mitigating the eagerness of the Republicans for a force law, but now that hope is practically dead in that quarter.

A BRUSSELS clockmaker has invented a clock which is wound up by the sun, and requires no other attention than being placed near a window into which the sun shines.

Republican Party. Miss Newcome, will you be my partner? Miss Newcome:—Pope Weaver says I must dance a little with the old fellow behind you at first. But I'll walk with you the balance of the time.

In the Sub-treasury in New York city there is on deposit today more than $3,000,000 representing out standing money orders, and of this amount more than $2,000,000 represents money orders which are overdue and which may never be presented for payment.

SECRETARY Charles Foster has been properly regarded as the mouth-piece of President Harrison ever since he entered the Cabinet, and his announcement through a medium of a published interview that the force bill was dead as an issue in this campaign is universally taken as an indication that Mr. Harrison will ignore that measure in his letter of acceptance.

THERE was some good, straight Democratic talking at the club meeting last night by J. S. Manning and Capt. E. J. Parrish. Mr. Manning's subject was John Randolph's words, "All change is not reform," and he showed conclusively that it was not.

Georgia took in $500,000 on watermelons this season.

ABOUT Farming. From the American Farmer. Choring is more satisfactory than loafing. Remember those that are to come after you. Keep the tools scoured and the harness oiled.

WHY the Strike Failed. Philadelphia Times. The switchmen's strike at Buffalo failed from causes entirely outside of the question of hours of work or wages.

THE progress of the world is slow because of the death of our advanced minds.

WHEN Republicans speak of consumers not having to pay the tariff, they must think they are talking to greenhorns.

Republican Extravagance and the Remedy.

It is very common to read and hear glowing encomiums upon the great prosperity which has been attained and enjoyed by the people in this country during the last thirty-two years, in which the Republicans have controlled the direction of the government.

The United States statistics show that in the seventy-three years previous to 1862, there was collected from the people and disbursed by the government the sum of $1,846,411,679. The same statistics show that from 1866 to 1892, twenty-six years of government, have cost the people $9,648,486,773. Was there ever a more striking contrast? The excuse may be furnished that the cost of the war has had to be paid out of this sum.

The Democratic party furnishes today in the person of one man, one whose open public record has shown him superior to the blandishments and influences of all jobbers. And that man is its candidate for the presidency, Grover Cleveland. Laborious in investigation, and fearless in action, he fought as president by the veto power all raids on the treasury in a manner that marks him without parallel in his time as the fearless champion of the people's cause.

"An interesting feature of the presidential situation," says the Baltimore Sun, "is the fact that Mr. Cleveland can be elected this year without the six votes of West Virginia, provided he holds the other States he carried in 1884. That year he received 219 votes against 182 for Mr. Blaine, 201 being necessary for a choice. This year 223 votes will be required to elect. The States carried by Cleveland in 1884 have gained by the proportional several electoral votes, as follows: Texas 2, and Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Missouri and New Jersey, each 1. These, added to the 219 votes of 1884, will make 226, which along with say four votes from Michigan will give 230, or seven more than required. But West Virginia will hardly relish the idea of getting left."
