WHY IS THE W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY?
It is a sensible shoe, with no tacks or wax threads to hurt the feet. It is made of the best fine grade, soft and supple, and because it is made of these materials it is the only shoe that will wear as long as any other shoe. It is made of the best fine grade, soft and supple, and because it is made of these materials it is the only shoe that will wear as long as any other shoe. It is made of the best fine grade, soft and supple, and because it is made of these materials it is the only shoe that will wear as long as any other shoe.

THE North Carolina delegation in the National Association of Democratic clubs, at New York, passed a unanimous resolution endorsing our townsman, Col. J. S. Carr, for president of Association of clubs, but did not press the matter before the convention out of compliment to ex-Governor Black. It would have been a high compliment to have elected Col. Carr. There is not a more earnest or energetic Democrat in the State, and he is doing a great work for the cause he has so much at heart.

The first woman admitted to the bar in America was Arabella Mansfield, of Iowa, in 1869. Now there are seven women lawyers practicing before the United States Supreme Court, and a large number have been admitted to general practice.

MARS and the moon had what the astronomers call "an occultation" on Sunday morning last, that is, according to our theory, they put their heads together and decided that Cleveland and Stevenson will be elected on Nov. 8th.

THE German believe in doing things decently and in order. In the large cities before they can start for the scene of a fire the firemen must salute the commander. If he isn't there they must probably have to wait until he comes.

Active Work.

The campaign that will be most successful is a precinct, house to house canvass. If every active Democrat at every precinct in the State will constitute himself a committee of one to talk to at least one lukewarm neighbor and see that he comes to the polls on election day and deposits his ballot, the sun will set on the 8th of November on the largest majority ever polled for a Democratic candidate in North Carolina.

Many of these stay-at-home voters cannot be reached by newspapers, campaign literature, or speakers. They can only be brought to the polls by an active neighbor, who will keep them stirred up from now to election, and on that day see that they vote.

The result in the case of each Democrat who lends his help in this most important matter may seem insignificant, but if even five lukewarm Democrats at each precinct in the State, who would not, under ordinary circumstances, take the trouble to go to the polls, are thus persuaded to do their duty, the aggregate will form an overwhelming majority for the Democracy. The trouble to each missionary will not be great. Will you not try the experiment?

MR. CLEVELAND has written a letter to Mr. Clark Howell, of Atlanta, pronouncing as false the statement that he refused to permit his wife to visit Richmond several years ago because of the fact that she would have met Miss Winnie Davis in that city. We have seen the statement in print scores of times, but never attached a particle of importance to it. When, however, a Third party candidate in Georgia undertook to make political capital of the slander, Mr. Howell wrote to Mr. Cleveland and was authorized by the latter to make his denial public if he so desired.

THE Republican journals find great merit in the People's party movement in the south and they give it all the encouragement they can, while they are fighting the same People's party movement in Kansas, Colorado, Indiana, Michigan, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Illinois, with all the disreputable methods at their command. It makes some difference whose ox is gored.

UNTIL God repeals his ordinance, "Thou shalt not steal," the tariff will be a moral question.

EVERYTHING is looking well for Democratic victory this year. It is undoubtedly a Democratic year.

It would seem that in Presidential campaigns the aim of the Republicans is to make the pensioners mightier than the pen.

THE Wilmington Star says that if it should so happen that Benj. Harrison be re-elected he should not forget the service that Marion Butler is rendering as an annex Republican.

LARGE PAINFUL ULCER

On Limb. Completely Helpless. Unable to Walk without Crutches. Flesh to the Bone Dropped Out.

Suffered Greatly. Doctors Failed to Relieve. Speedily Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

In the summer of 1884, a sore came on the fleshy part of my right leg, not far from the shin bone. It continued to increase in size, and eventually formed a large ulcer three inches long and two inches wide, and a regular physician, but he gave me no relief. It was very painful, and eventually part of the flesh to the bone dropped out. After suffering with it for six months, I was induced to try the CUTICURA Remedies. At this time I was completely helpless, unable to walk without crutches, and suffered greatly. In about a week the sore began to show signs of improvement, and eventually was completely healed. Another sore then broke out on my instep, but the same treatment soon cured that. I was induced to try the CUTICURA Remedies for my restoration to health. My leg is now as well as it ever was, and since then I have not been troubled with sores. D. F. MERRITT, Killebrew, Minn.

We hereby certify that we are acquainted with the above named D. F. Merritt, and regard him as a reliable, truthful man, and I believe his statement to be true in every particular. J. C. BRADLEY, Mayor, and H. B. DEVALD, Sheriff, Killebrew, Minn.

THE EFFECT OF THE MCKINLEY BILL.

HENRIETTA IRBY, widow of the late Col. James H. Irby, and mother of United States Senator J. L. M. Irby, died at her home in Laurens Wednesday in her seventy-fourth year. She was a daughter of Dr. Elias Earle, of Greenville, and a niece of Gen. Waddy Thomson. Three sons and four daughters survive her.

For the first time in the history of the country a score of United States ministers abroad will come home to make stump speeches during the campaign for the Republican ticket. The ministers were not asked whether they wished to engage in this sort of work, but were officially ordered to do it by His Majesty, Benjamin H. through his man Foster, now at the head of the State Department. This sort of thing can only be excused on the ground that desperate cases require heroic remedies.

THE Evening Washington Star publishes the following: A republican who is familiar with the plans of the republican party told a Star reporter today that the democrats were mistaken in their guess at what the republican national committee was trying to do in the south. They are not, he said, trying to trade with the independent voters for either congressmen or electoral votes. What they are trying to do, wherever it is practicable, is to combine with the independents or state legislatures in the south, with the understanding that whenever the independents and republicans together have a majority of the state legislature they shall amend the election laws so as to correct the present conditions which enable the democrats to hold the solid south.

UNDOUBTEDLY many leading Republicans would like to get away from the force bill or at least sidetrack it during the canvass.

It is essential that parties should be held to the promises and pledges of their platform. No party should be allowed to play fast and loose with the principles announced in the document upon which it asks the confidence of the people. If Mr. Harrison should be elected by such methods, what would be the result? The people would have voted for him under the impression that the odious force bill had been abandoned. But it is dear to the hearts of Mr. Harrison and all the most powerful leaders of the party, and they could easily repudiate the informal and unofficial utterances of the canvass. When reminded of them they would point to the solemn and deliberate deliverance of their convention, and the answer would be triumphant and conclusive.

No party has a right to gain votes in this way, and the people will be very foolish if they allow it.

A Point for Working Men.

We have seen from interviews in the New York papers with many prominent and representative labor leaders, that they are almost unanimous, without respect to past party affiliations, in their opposition to the Republican ticket, on account of their animosity to Whitelaw Reid, the vice-presidential nominee, who has always, in principle and practice, been a violent opponent of organized labor. But, strange to say, some of them are so inconsistent as to avow their intention to vote the third party ticket or not to vote at all. This, whether they intend it or not, is the course most likely to defeat the very end they have in view. A former Republican will vote with reluctance against the presidential nominee but he must do so in order to escape from supporting the candidate for vice-president, who is his enemy. But a vote for Weaver or the prohibition ticket, may cause the election to be thrown into the House and Senate, which would certainly result in defeating Harrison and electing Reid—an outcome the Republican working man would most likely deprecate. If the working men desire to defeat Reid, the only certain and sure way is to vote and work for Cleveland and Stevenson—any other course if it has any effect at all will bring about a result which the workmen, especially the Republican working men, would least desire.

By voting for Weaver and Field they are voting indirectly for Harrison and Reid, and the result of their action may either be the election of the Republican candidates—the enemies of their section, by the people, or the success of White-law Reid—the enemy of their organizations, by a vote of the Republican Senate. Either of these alternatives is not a pleasant one for Southern working men to contemplate. Both of them they can render impossible by voting and working for Cleveland and Stevenson. We are sure a little thought will impress this idea upon sensible men.

We are informed by knowing ones that the most deadly reptiles and most obnoxious insects were made for a wise and useful purpose. Following this line of thought an old sailor once told the Fredericksburg Star he had never seen a man so bad, (and according to his own account he had seen some tough ones) that could not be to subserve some useful purpose. The Fall Mail Gazette now comes to the front with the idea that even that dreaded scourge—cholera—is a boon to mankind as a good scare of it occasionally serves as a wonderful stimulus to improve sanitary conditions. It recently printed a cartoon, representing a scavenger with a death's head upon his shoulders, sitting in a cart, driving his horse through a street reeking with filthy accumulations and ringing as he went with a cholera alarm bell. Underneath was written: "The Cholera as the True Scavenger. Cholera has saved more lives than it has ever taken."

Perfect Content.

Did you ever stand out in the soft sunshine of a perfect summer day and just hug yourself for joy that you were alive? Did you ever look up into the dome of an apple tree in bloom and watch a plump-breasted robin brooding a nest of blue eggs, and say to yourself: "Who wouldn't be glad to be alive in such a world? Who wouldn't thank God for a chance with the flowers and birds?" Death for the old and the weary and the tired. Withered garlands and blighted trees and wasted invalids may go down into the shadow of the grave, we say, but healthy, happy folks like you and I should go on living, and singing larks stay in the upper air. Death is not for us, and the heart within us laughs like a happy child that knows no fear. And yet somewhere in the green circuit of the summer hills lies a little hand-breadth of turf that shall one day be folded aside to make room for our last low bed. Sooner or later shall dawn a perfect morning, the searching sunlight of which shall find us not. Sooner or later the golden bell shall poise and hover and settle within a clover-top that gathers the nourishment of its little life from the clods that lie upon our breast. Sooner or later a pale star shall twinkle from the silver shadows of a twilight sky, and drop a ray like the fallen petals of a lily upon our grave. Sooner or later the moon shall whiten the snow to still purer luster that drifts upon the mound beneath which this buoyant, jubilant, happy "I" shall be forever at rest. It is on its way, dear hearts; the day that shall be the last of the mortal span of our totalled time is on its way!

About the 1892 Crop.

Western (Ch. Tobacco Journal Oct. 3). The 1892 crop is now practically housed, and the per cent, that is liable to frost is very small, and confined to a few districts in the Western leaf belt, but the amount that is liable to be caught would have little influence on values should it be badly nipped, but at present there are no indications of an early frost, and this week will see the crop cleaned up entirely.

There is no truer saying than tobacco has great "come out" in it, and this was evidenced by the 1892 crop in the Burley belt. At the end of August its condition was very undesirable and its prospects so uncertain that many thought it desirable to shape their action with a very small and undesirable crop, but lo and behold September came in smiling and went out smiling, and nature smiled during the whole month at weather conditions that were simply superb in their effect on farm products, and none benefited by it as much as tobacco. Tobacco grew large and thickened well, and fortunately promises to cure brighter than it was thought possible.

Of course we are now speaking in a general way. There are localities and fields that even the fine weather of September seem to have no revivifying effect on, and we hear of this from a number of counties in the Burley belt, but there is no disguising the fact that the crop has turned far and way ahead of what was thought possible early in September, yet few seem to venture the hope that the crop will prove an average one in quantity. We hear of some of the finest crops ever grown, and yet from the same neighborhood of crops that are hardly worth the cutting. Little now remains to be cut, and some have already had early cures.

In the dark belt one of the best and cleanest crops ever grown has been gathered, or will be in at the end of this week. It contains a very small per cent. of low grades, and comprises much of fine lengths and superb body. The same can be said in general terms of the dark Virginia crop. The Bright eastern crop, like Burley, came out wonderfully during September, and while not as bad up to August as Burley, it fares probably better than Burley, although some seem to think fine color will not be its leading virtue, although early cures show considerable color, especially in South and North Carolina. The cigar leaf districts generally have fine crops all housed, although in Pennsylvania and Ohio much flea bitten tobacco is reported.

THE determination of Mr. Wm. R. Grace and associates, not to put an independent municipal ticket in the field in the city of New York, will simplify matters for the Democratic party in the great pivotal State of the Union in the approaching contest. Had the "anti-snappers," as they are called, decided to oppose the Tammany organization, the triangular fight would have resulted in "trading," which would have weakened the Democratic national ticket. The Republican managers were anxious for an opportunity to "swap" votes in the great metropolises of the country, but the better judgment of the Democratic leaders prevailed, and there will now be a straightout fight between the two old parties, with no side issues to disturb Democratic harmony.

"EVERY governmental concession to clamorous favorites invites corruption in political affairs by encouraging the expenditure of money to debase the suffrage in support of a policy directly favorable to private and selfish gain."

The above sentence from Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance contains wholesome food for reflection. High tariff, apart from a long list of other evils it inflicts upon the people of this country, wields a powerful influence in corrupting the ballot. Republicans cannot, with any propriety whatever, talk about a free ballot and a fair count as long as they advocate high tariff. The monopolists, protected by the tariff, spend millions of dollars in every national election to corrupt and debase voters that they (the monopolists) may be pecuniarily benefited thereby.

THE speeches of Gen. Stevenson and others on the subject of the force bill, have aroused the Southern Democrats to great activity, and prominent men from nearly all the States have expressed themselves as confident that the solid South will not be broken. True Southern people cannot jeopardize their own interest by supporting a party that advocates such a wicked and revolutionary measure as the force bill.

AND now some of the leading Third party people down South here want the force bill too. Why of course they do! They are thoroughly in sympathy with the Republicans and they see no prospect of reaching the offices; unless they can do it by force. When a man turns upon his own people, he becomes their bitterest and most relentless enemy.

REPUBLICANS make a great stir about the Democratic doctrine of tariff for revenue. For what other purpose could an honest government impose a tariff but for revenue?

REGISTERING can be done at any time between now and ten days before the election. No Democrat should lose his vote because of a failure to register.

THE re-union of veterans at Cedar Fork to-morrow promises to be a very interesting occasion. Durham should be largely represented.

Newton Enterprise: Mr. Joe Wood went down to Davidson county last week to have an auction at the old home-place. He says there were people there from four counties, and not a Third party man in the crowd that anybody was able to discover. He says you don't hear anything about the Third party after you leave Catawba.

Fall in Line. Gettin' ready for the fray, fallin' into line—Democrats with sleeves rolled up an' feelin' good an' fine. All the flags a flyin', hoisted high, an' then—The shoutin' o' the captains an' the marchin' o' the men!—Atlanta Constitution.

General Weaver is so much disgusted with Georgia that he wouldn't go there again if he was invited to cut the prize watermelon of the season.
