Reid's Discovery.

This is an age of discovery. If any impetus to the unravelling of mysteries had been lacking the spirit of Columbiaism of last month had supplied the necessary boom. It is not surprising, therefore, that the year 1892 should mark the discovery of the reason of the interjection of the force bill...

Business Men for Cleveland.

The business men's clubs of New York, which favor the election of Mr. Cleveland, have recently received large additions to their membership. They have issued an address to the voters in which the principle involved in the McKinley bill is vigorously denounced as a long step backward in the direction of feudalism, and as leading to the creation of a class of citizens protected by the government from the operation of natural laws, against which the great majority of citizens have to contend.

The address states that the price paid for such protection is fealty to the Republican party and liberal contributions of money for its perpetuity. The charge is made that the alleged solicitude of the Republican party for the workingmen is insincere, and in support of this statement figures are given which are intended to show that protection neither protects the laboring man nor aids in the industrial development of the country.

S. OTHO WILSON has issued a card to the People's party of North Carolina, in which he recites a number of ways in which they can be cheated out of their votes and lays it on the Democratic party. Willy Wilson. His brain is very fertile in plans now. He also goes on to say: "To enumerate all the practices resorted to would lead one to believe that his Satanic Majesty was their personal counsel and legal adviser."

Some of the People's party candidates are circulating the report among the more ignorant of their people to the effect that the Democrats will enforce the Australian ballot system in this State and those who cannot read will not be allowed to vote. Such a thing is too absurd almost to mention; but we do so in order to deny such a falsehood.

EDWARD HOLBROOK, manager of the Gorham Manufacturing Company, of New York, says: "I have been a Republican, but I am done with that party. I can support it no longer. The real effect of the McKinley bill is to kill business, and I cannot conscientiously support a party that holds to such a system of legislation."

THE father of the Dalton boys blames all their wickedness on dime novels; but it is just possible that a plentiful supply of paternal birch might have rendered the dime literature innocuous. It works that way in most families.

Now John Sanders, Republican nominee in the Fourth district, has withdrawn from the contest. He is dissatisfied with the course of his party toward him and says he will support B. H. Bunn, Democratic nominee. Sanders' withdrawal leaves Williamson, colored Republican, and Stroud (Weaverite) as opponents to Bunn. Republican leaders favor Stroud.

WE hear good reports from the county canvass. Mr. F. L. Fuller is making a dignified, clean and convincing presentation of the cause of Democracy to the people of this county. He has the better of his opponents in discussion, and gives the people facts they cannot get around. Frank Fuller should be elected to the legislature, and the entire Democratic ticket should be elected with him.

Two United States commissioners at Albany, N. Y., issued warrants for the arrest of twenty-two persons charged with illegal registration in that city. Two of them are said to have registered twenty-one times in three wards.

Mr. M. KAUFMAN, the gentleman who commenced a series of articles on the Jews, in the August number of Fetter's Southern Magazine, contributes his second article of the series entitled "Why the Jew is Not a Farmer" to the November number of this excellent publication.

Mr. Kaufman in a logical, forcible style gives the answers to repeated inquiries which have been propounded for ages "Why the Jew is Not a Farmer," a thinking public can not but see the force and character displayed in this excellent paper.

APATHY in politics does not always mean lack of interest. The victories of the masses in the nominating conventions were an inspiration for them and has doubtless set them to thinking. Enthusiasm of a blatant sort does not assimilate with sober thought, and that is the reason for lack of overwhelming applause as endorsement of the pyrotechnics, persiflage and partisanship of the average political appeal.

EVIDENTLY the colored people are getting wiser and more independent. A large colored Cleveland and Stevenson club has been organized in New York, and in Memphis, Tennessee, Saturday a mass meeting of colored citizens was held, which renounced the Republican party. One of the resolutions declared: "Experience has taught us that our continued allegiance to the Republican party will be detrimental to our further prosperity." This is pretty hard on the G. O. P., and hard because of the bitter truth in it.

THE Republicans of Pennsylvania are very much disturbed over the manifest determination of a large number of workingmen in that State to vote the Democratic ticket who have heretofore voted the Republican ticket. The workingmen declare that the McKinley tariff bill is prejudicial to their interest, and instead of raising their wages, it has lowered them and produced innumerable strikes.

THE Republicans have been counting upon the vote of Gen. Sikes for their party—and there was reason for the claim in the speech made by General S. at Chicago when Cleveland was nominated—but it appears that the General has reconsidered the matter and determined to remain in the party and move on with the procession.

EDWARD HOLBROOK, manager of the Gorham Manufacturing Company, of New York, says: "I have been a Republican, but I am done with that party. I can support it no longer. The real effect of the McKinley bill is to kill business, and I cannot conscientiously support a party that holds to such a system of legislation."

THE father of the Dalton boys blames all their wickedness on dime novels; but it is just possible that a plentiful supply of paternal birch might have rendered the dime literature innocuous. It works that way in most families.

THE work of frying fat out of Federal officeholders shows no signs of abatement. The Republicans are getting ready to steal the presidency if they can. Democrats should be on the alert; they have a crafty and unscrupulous foe to contend with.

EX SECRETARY Bayard thinks the recent conversion of a number of prominent Republicans to the Democratic faith is due to a feeling that is becoming general that the program of the Republican party is morally wrong.

ELECTRIC WIRE MEN on a Strike. NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The long threatened strike of the electric wire men is on. In accordance with resolutions passed last night by the executive committee, instructions were sent out ordering out all the union men in the employ of the firms which belong to the Electrical Contractors Association. The men were expecting orders and little difficulty and time were required to get the men out. By 10 o'clock fully seventy-five union men had left work and the number is still increasing.

Fault-Finding.

Few people can discern the real secret of successful rebuke. Many are altogether too apt to increase rather than diminish the errors to which they object. Misdirected efforts to subdue a child or an adult's even tendencies generally serve to inflame them. Pastors, parents and teachers, the appointed guardians of our communities, sometimes allow their protests against wrong to degenerate into a temperate, peevish, or melancholy whine. None will deny there is need for fault-finding. Discrepancies in conduct demand skillful repression, and immoral traits must be pruned away if the character of the boy or man is to mature into the white flower of a blameless life. But is there not a little too much of gratuitous fault-finding? With some people, like Mrs. Poyer in "Adam Bede," it becomes a very hateful habit, to which they are chronically addicted. Continual references to mistakes induce a willful perseverance in them, and familiarity with incessant complaint, always breeds contempt for it. The safest rule seems to be that only when all other and gentler resources have been tried and proved useless should we venture upon the distinct mention of specific faults.

Let us look a moment again at some of the figures on this subject. It is a very live subject. It is a very live subject and will bear repeating. It should be repeated until it is changed. The figures are from Mr. Carlisle's speech in the United States senate. They show the effect of the McKinley bill on the prices of woolen goods imported from October 1st, 1890 (the date of the passage of the bill) to June 30th, 1891. In this time there were imported woolens which cost abroad $19,591,650. The amount of duty paid on these was $18,192,338, making cost of goods without any charge for freight, commissions, etc., $37,783,988.

Without going over the amounts of all the manufactures of wool within this time, we give the per cent. of tax on the different classes. All woolen goods, except carpets, yarn blankets, 94.12 per cent.; carpets, 60.50; blankets, 84.64; yarns, 97.20. Average, 92.84. Thus the consumer pays on the foreign woolen goods he buys over double what he would have to pay were there no tariff. Whilst this is so, he also pays double what he would have to pay on the American goods, of which many times more in quantity are used than foreign. The ninety-three per cent he pays on the foreign goods goes to the government, but the 80 to 90 per cent he pays on the American goes to the protected manufacturer. It is a tax on the consumer, but the government gets not a cent of it. These are some facts for frosty mornings and to be remembered especially on the morning of the 8th of November—election day. A man with these facts before him, that votes the Republican ticket in this election deserves to freeze.

Ex-Speaker Reed Blurted It Out.

Ex-Speaker Reed's speech at Albany Saturday reveals to the farmers of the South very clearly what he thinks of the force bill as a live issue. "They said," he goes on to rant, "we could not coerce a State. We coerced eleven. I wish our Republicans had more courage and we should coerce them until liberty prevails all over this land." Such is the feeling of the most prominent Republican leader today in public life toward the South and toward the force bill. "I wish our Republicans had more courage," he says. "Our Republicans" have kept silent about the force bill for several months, so as to entice Third party leaders to entice Democratic voters, but the ex-Speaker speaks right out. "We should coerce them," he says, with frank brutality, "until liberty prevails all over this land." What do wandering Democrats think of that? Is the force bill dead?—Baltimore Sun.

Facts for Frosty Mornings.

When the hear frost glistens on the grass these mornings and the chill north wind whistles through the half nude trees in the evenings, the subject of wool becomes a leading consideration in many a household. With a very large number it is a most serious and pressing reflection, how they with their wives and little ones will get through the winter in anything like comfort. Comfortable woolen clothes, strong, heavy jeans or cassimeres for the men and boys, and woolen stuffs and flannels for the females and little ones, and warm wool blankets for their beds at night, are out of the question—away out of the reach of not the poor, alone, but of many, very many who are not really poor. It is so, and it is a shame it is so. The Republican party in the wantonness of their greed of power has made it so. They tax wool and woolen goods to a degree that pure woolen goods have necessarily been supplanted to a large extent by miserable substitutes and counterfeits, and where an article of pure wool is found it is at a price just double what it should be and inaccessible to a common purse.

To the women of the family who remain at home each morning while the men folks, great and small, go forth to do battle with the world and in various capacities earn the daily bread, being exposed to greater risks than they who are sheltered safely in the home nest, this more recent fatality should preach a great lesson. Many there were perhaps on that train that dashed headlong to destruction who had perhaps parted from mother, wife or child with hasty, angry words.

No good-bye kiss was given, perhaps owing to the shadow of an over-night misunderstanding or a carelessness that did not mark a period not so very long ago. How do you suppose those who are left to mourn feel over such memories? Take it home to yourself and let the lesson sink deeply into your heart. Watch the hasty, unkind words; smother them at their birth; remember that it takes two to make a quarrel, and let that be one partnership into which you will not enter.

Do not keep one set of kindly, winning manners for company and a collection quite the reverse for those whom you are more intimately acquainted with. In all things and all ways try to act that if so great a calamity befall your loved ones there need not be added to the overpowering and natural grief you will feel the more poignant and stinging pangs of remorse. Into your life no shock such as this may ever come. Heaven grant that it may not, but the constant effort to make home brighter, to be always loving and delightful to the ones who are dearest to you on earth, will never do you any harm and will reward you when natural causes have taken those dear ones away, by a memory that you at least did all you could to make them happy while they lived.

HON. WAYNE MACVEAGH says: "If the people can't be trusted to hold their own elections nobody can be trusted." This is unquestionably true those who favor the force bill are enemies of the people and popular government. Once let the force bill become a law and free elections will be destroyed in this country.

"MEN and brethren of the Republican party, let's warm up a little," is the way a Western organ appeals to its readers. There is no use hurrying about it. They had better keep cool as long as they can. After Cleveland's election many of them will be so warm they will feel like kicking themselves.

REPUBLICAN leaders do the colored people of the South great harm by exciting animosity between them and their white neighbors.
