Of those who have been ot Girton since its foundation to the year 1893, 467; students in all, 335 have completed their course, 123 are teaching, and 45 are married. The Girton statistics show that while the young women who obtain the honor degrée certificates marry, not as many of them marry as of those who take the ordinary pass degrees. But that does not seem to prove anything, because the number of honor students is usually much smaller than the other class of
