THE COURT IS NOW ON.

A Big Crowd and an interesting Docket.

HORSE TRADERS HAPPY.

Judge Starbuck Presides, and the Pleasant Impression Made Upon the People of Orange County During Former Visits Suffers In no Way by His Rulings.

Court week, with its attendant crowd of defendants, witnesses, horse jockeys and other outsiders, which looms up three times a year as an oasis in the lives of Hillsboro people, has come in all its glory. A typical court it is, too, with witnesses in the court house swearing the whole truth, and horse traders in the back lots swearing anything to make a trade.

The regiment of attendants, who make it a point to come to Hillsboro during court week, are here, standing around on the street corners swapping neighborhood news and politics, and expressing their views on the currency question.

Judge Starbuck seems to be giving pretty general satisfaction so far as our information goes, and is causing law breakers to get a hustle on themselves.

The lawyers from adjoining towns are here, cussing and discussing the merits and demerits of their respective cases and gyrating in a most wonderful manner as they warm up to their subject.

The grand jury is getting in its work and ere the week closes will have made it pretty hard for some of the wily violators of the law. It is to be hoped that they will realize the condition the jail is in and will recommend improvements so forcibly as to cause that structure to be remodeled at once and made more convenient and healthy.

Thursday morning's rain seemed to throw a damper over the spirits of the crowd (not spirits frummenti) and they seemed to lose interest in passing events, while their numbers kept on decreasing until finally caucussing on the corners was abandoned and the streets became deserted except for some solitary straggler who plodded along through the driving rain.

The crowd seemed to be more orderly than usual, and very little drunkenness was seen, though the spirits were flowing freely and friends were not lacking.

Among the cases tried, some of which were of more than usual interest, we note the following:

State vs. Calvin Lloyd and Roxana Lloyd, f. and a., both guilty. Calvin had to whack up a $50.00 fine and the costs, and Roxana forked over her little fine of $15.00.

Rufus Smith plead guilty of assault, and the Court assaulted his pocket book to the tune of $75.00 and costs.

In the case of State vs. Eugene Hughes, the grand jury returned not a true bill, which is very gratifying to the many friends of Mr. Hughes.

W. M. Sugg plead guilty of assault and was fined $10.00 and costs.

In case of State vs. Jas. Wilkerson and the seven negroes, for larceny, the jury returned a verdict of guilty as to Wilkerson and not guilty as to the negroes. Two more cases are made out against them, however, in all of which Wilkerson plead guilty. This case brings to light the existence of a thoroughly organized band of thieves that has been plundering the country around Cedar Grove for the past fifteen years, but they have at last come to grief.

DARES TELL THE TRUTH.

Rev. D. H. Tuttle Not Afraid to Preach the Gospel.

The following extract from the powerful and really great sermon preached by Rev. D. H. Tuttle in Raleigh several Sundays ago, should be printed in every newspaper in America—printed because what he says, as all know but few have the courage to proclaim is as true as that we live and breathe and suffer, as true as that there is a God who will one day have a reckoning with those who have perverted and abused his best gifts and richest blessings. Every honest man and woman who reads this extract will love Dr. Tuttle for his noble words.

To-day the Church is not free. In the wealthier ones the pulpits are under the influence of the money god. It is a sad fact; a sad fact. How do I know? What right have I to make this utterance? This, my friends: That a rich man is never turned out of the churches, or very seldom; the richer he is, the less danger there is of excommunicating him. Why is it? Because we have got to that age in the world when the spirit of rivalry manifests itself in a pride of the most costly churches, and costly churches mean that rich men must give, and great costly temples are built.

Of course it won't do to denounce from the pulpit a man who gives his money.

The Church takes it for granted that it must not turn him out. Bring out the money; let it come from whiskey; let it come from cigarettes; let it come from gambling; no matter, it is not our business to see where the money comes from. We will take it (as one of the best men I ever knew said) and make good use of it. I challenge any man in this Church to-day to show a single passage of Scripture for taking the Devil's money and consecrating it to God's use. I challenge it. God told Abraham not to take so much as a shoe latchet from that old king he whipped. Did old Abraham say, I guess I will take this gold and consecrate it to good use?

God told Israel in all her wars not to take anything from her enemies lest they should say that God's cause was getting rich by them; that Israel might be ever independent of her enemies, and forever dependent upon the God of her salvation. God does not desire that men who oppress the poor should bring a penance into the Church. They may turn to the churches, they can't turn to Christ. The Church says, we will take your great gifts and endow our colleges and build our magnificent churches.

Do you remember how Zaccheus came down from that tree and how he came to Christ? He was a publican and a rich man. He got to Christ by restoring all that he might have taken from others by false accusation, or otherwise.

They make money by crushing the poor, and then come and stonore for it by occupying the high places in the Church.

CHARGED WITH ARSON.

A A Latta Arrested on a Grave Charge

T. H. MARTIN IMPLICATED.

Durham is Agog Over a Sensation in which one of its Most Prominent Citizens is Accused Of a Monstrous Crime—Latta Bound over to Court.

On Sunday night people passing the Court house on their way home from church noticed there was more crowd around the building than usual, but dreamed not that Thos. H. Martin, president of the Tobacco Association and A. A. Latta, foreman of his prize room were there, charged with planning and attempting to execute the burning of Mr. Martin's five story prize house on Thursday morning last.

The charge seemed so monstrous and unreasonable that it was hard to make people believe it, and Monday much business was neglected while trying to find out facts. When Mayor Peay took his seat on the Judge's Stand in the County Court house for a preliminary hearing, the room was filled with the best citizens of the town. Fred A. Green appeared for the State and Judge R. W. Winston and R. B. Boone for the defense. After considerable time was spent by the discussion of the warrant, Latta was put on trial.

The first witness put upon the stand was Moses Irvine confidential clerk and book-keeper for Thos H. Martin. His testimony was in effect that Latta said to him that he, Latta, had been offered $250—to burn the prize house, and advised him Irvine not to sleep in the house. That he thought he had dissuaded Latta from doing so, and that in consequence he said nothing to his employer about it, but did tell his friend, Arthur Lyon, of the conversation, and asked him to watch the house while he was gone. This testimony was corroborated by Lyon. Testimony of all the witnesses was that the house was set on fire. It was stated that had the house been burned the Insurance would not have covered the loss.

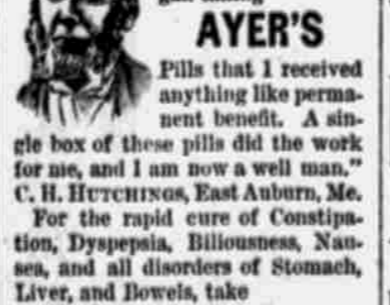

Messrs Boone and Winston spoke strongly for the defense. They were followed by Green for the State, who made a ringing speech, proving himself a match for both opponents.

Mayor Peay bound Latta over to the Superior Criminal Court which meets in January, in the sum of $1,000.

The entire town feels that a calamity has befallen it, but generally the people are disposed not to judge too hasty, but to await further developments.
