COME and
Our Grand
Furniture Exhibition.

The beauty of furniture is that it comes home to you. All its art and attractiveness go to the house and help to make your home a dwelling place; inviting and enjoyable. Keep these points in view when you buy furniture: The BEAUTY of the DESIGN, its DURABILITY and the PRICE. We claim your patronage for all three reasons. Every piece we offer is the handsomest of its kind in town, and is also unequalled for its serviceability and low prices. Come, see, and you are sure to buy.

THE OLD MAN TALKS.

A Philosophical View of the Hard Times Question.

FAIRBROTHER WRITES IT.

The Colonel, Who is Still in Tennessee, Discourses upon Themes Which the Average Tar Heel Will Read With Pleasure and Profit.

(Knoxville, Tenn., Tribune.)

The lesson of the hard times, so-called; the scarcity of money; the almost impossible chance to secure credit or a loan for the workman and clerk; the man of small means, has certainly had a salutary effect. Experience is a dear teacher. But from all this poverty and inconvenience some good must come. It has taught that because money is plentiful this year it may not be next, and accordingly suggests that the old proverb of the rainy day should not go unobserved. It has told the clerk that positions are not as plentiful or as permanent one year as another, and that hard times cheapens wages and reduces salaries. It has taught the greater lesson that there is no friend on earth like money, and that if you have hold of some to hold on is the proper caper. It has suggested to the frugal housewife that while she thought she had always been careful and watchful of the grocer's and butcher's bills, that she has about cut them in two during the depression, and so far as she is concerned all have had enough to eat. Her dresses and her children's clothing were apt to last longer and by a little fixing which she would not have thought of during good times, made them all look as well as new during hard times. She will remember these things when times are good if she is prudent, and a little bank account will be the result. It has taught men that a false shirt bosom with a porous plaster on the back is as good as a regulation shirt. It has shown him that to reverse his cuffs is proper because then the laundryman earns his money. It has taught him that homespun tobacco is more healthy than the manufactured article, and that too much whiskey is not good for the stomach. It has suggested to many people that dope is a better article of diet than butter and that corn pone beats flour which has had the life cooked out of it at the mill. Sow bosom is better than fresh beef, and if you get a real fat article it will last longer, and then if it was a razor backed hog you can use the hide to grease your hair and shoes, thus saving the expense of shoe polish and cosmetics. It has shown us that coffee more than once a day has a bad effect on the nervous system,

The Only One To Stand the Test.

Rev. William Copp, whose father was a physician for over fifty years, in New Jersey, and who himself spent many years preparing for the practice of medicine, but subsequently entered the ministry of the M. E. Church, writes: "I am glad to testify that I have had analyzed all the sarsaparilla preparations known in the trade, but AYER'S is the only one of them that I could recommend as a blood-purifier. I have given away hundreds of bottles of it, as I consider it the safest as well as the best to be had."—Wm. Corr, Pastor M. E. Church, Jackson, Miss.

AYER'S
THE ONLY WORLD'S FAIR
Sarsaparilla
When in doubt, ask for Ayer's Pills and in some cases men have actually refused to drink coffee at all. The chip pile which was never thought of in good times has furnished fire wood for six months and thus cleaned up the place, improving the appearance of the wood yard ten fold.

I talked with a man the other day who was sixty-one years of age, and he wildly insisted that he was not old. He was nearly twice as old as myself, and I thought sixty was getting pretty well along on the turnpike. When we were about eighteen, just as we were starting out, as I might say, in the world, how old sixty seemed then. But I find as I go along and feel the weight of thirty-five summers and see their empty-handed returns, for the most part, that age after all is but a mere matter of thought. Really I feel no older now than I felt at twenty. A few gray hairs brought about by some unnatural cause, no doubt, remind me when I cast a glance in the mirror that I am getting along, but in feeling I am no older. But pretty soon I will be. We all will be. Only ten or fifteen years—and time flies when we pass the thirtieth milestone—and a cane will perhaps be essential to me, and I know that glasses will be needed for my sight, and I expect that work will tell upon me. Then how hard one should work when he finally realizes and admits that he is growing old, to gather a competency; to lay up a few shining dollars here on earth for those days of rheumatism; those days of uselessness in the field of toil; so that no matter how much out of sorts one may find oneself, he can say I am paying the bills; I am the charge of no one but my nurse and he is compensated. Young men should be careful of that near future. The great future is also to be looked after, but that requires but moral courage and then that path is smooth. But the gathering and garnering of dollars, the one thing needful in old age, should be commenced now. Put away a few each year. Put them in property. Put them at work on interest if nothing else; but see to it from the day you are thirty-five you are paying a debt to your older self, and lay up a treasure on earth as well as in heaven. Money is your best friend. You do not want too much of it, but enough money to tide you over those days which come to all when we are tottering between the two eternities will cause us much pleasure, and when we lay down for the last time, we can indeed pull the drapery of our couch about us and enjoy pleasant dreams. How humiliating to the man who has had plenty to find himself ill and in a hospital—a county charge. How much more humiliating to die and be dumped into a potter's field—no one after you had been so much.

WOMEN CAN'T VOTE.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 5.—Massachusetts to-day re-elected Governor F. T. Greenhalge for a third term by about 65,000 plurality over George Fred Williams, democrat, in a total vote of some 10,000 less than last year. Lieutenant Governor Wilcott, republican, is re-elected by a plurality nearly as large. The balance of the republican state ticket is elected by slightly smaller pluralities. Wm. H. Moody is elected to congress in the sixth district. The question: "Is it expedient to grant municipal suffrage to women?" is decided in the negative.

MISSISSIPPI DEMOCRATIC.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 6.—Mississippi is saved from the republican landslide by a large majority. The majority in the state is probably 50,000.

ALL WENT REPUBLICAN.

Democracy Not in It in the Election Just Closed.

GORMAN SNOWED UNDER.

Sweeping Republican Majorities in States which Have heretofore Gone Solidly Democratic—Populists lose ground in the West—Mississippi Democratic.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Republicans carried New York state by 80,000 plurality; New Jersey by over 15,000; Maryland by 10,000, and claim to have captured Kentucky. Besides swinging these states over into the republican column, they increased their usual majorities in Massachusetts, Ohio, Iowa, and all the Northern states where elections were held. It was a democratic Waterloo.

Tammany elected her local ticket by about 30,000 and New York went democratic for Secretary of State by 41,000, but the Republicans came down to the Bronx with over 100,000 votes to spare. In the tenth congressional district Amos J. Cummings, democrat, was elected, but his success was plainly due to his personal popularity.

Of the 50 Senators in this state the democrats elected only 16, and of the 150 Assemblymen only 46.

The Senate elected to-day will have a part in the selection of a successor to David B. Hill, and it is plain that he will not be a democrat. The republican gains were general all over the state. In this city and Brooklyn republican Senators and Assemblymen were elected where democrats have been returned year after year. In Brooklyn a democratic mayor pulled through by a narrow plurality.

GORMAN'S WATERLOO.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 5.—Senator Gorman has met his Waterloo. At midnight the indications point to a complete republican victory in Maryland. Lowndes is undoubtedly elected Governor and the balance of the republican state ticket has an apparent majority of over 10,000.

The legislature will be republican on joint ballot, thereby insuring a republican successor to United States senator Gibson. In Baltimore city the returns indicate a complete overthrow for the Gorman-Rasin ring. Hooper, republican, for mayor, has an apparent majority more than 3,000. The republicans have also a majority of the city council and clerk of the court.

KENTUCKY REPUBLICAN.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—The republicans were no less surprised tonight than the democrats by the result of yesterday's election in Kentucky. When the detailed returns began to come in to-day Chairman Norman, of the democratic state committee, conceded the election of W. O. Bradley as Governor, and the entire republican state ticket by a plurality ranging from 5,000 to 12,000. Hardin also gave up the contest.

Returns on the election of members not complete, but indicate democrats 49, populists 14, a tie in the house, provided republicans elect representatives in unreported counties. Democrats will have a small majority in the Senate.
